SECRET SERVICE AGENTS UNCOVER BIG SCANDAL

Advance Matter on Government Cotton Reports Given Out For Brokers to Make Fortune.

OFFICIAL DISMISSED FROM THE SERVICE

WASHINGTON, July 8.—As a result of the investigation by secret service agents into charges made by Richard Cheatham, Secretary of the Cotton Planters' Association, that information had been given to cotton brokers in New York by some person or persons in the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Agriculture, Secretary Wilson today made public an official report in which he states that Edwin S. Holmes, the associate statistician, has been guilty of "juggling" the official report.

The report says: "It has been found that Mr. Holmes communicated advance information to Van C. Ripper, a New York broker, and M. Reiss, of New York, who acted as a go-between in conveying information from Holmes to other New York brokers, including Theodore Price. Steps have been taken by Secretary Wilson to prevent any further leakage of the department figures, and an entire re-organization of the Bureau of Statistics and manner of preparing monthly crops has been outlined by him. The papers in connection with the investigation were referred to the United States District Attorney for the District of Columbia, and he has reported that in his opinion a criminal prosecution will not lie against Holmes. Holmes has been dismissed from the service of the department.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Victor H. Olmstead has been appointed Assistant Statistician of the Department of Agriculture to succeed Edwin S. Holmes, who was ordered relieved today by Secretary Wilson. Mr. Olmstead has for some time past held the position of chief of the division of domestic crops reports in the Bureau of Statistics, and was also formerly Assistant Statistician of the department. He was Assistant Director of the census of Cuba and the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—According to the report, Wilson Judd, of New York, formerly in the employ of L. N. Van Riper, induced the latter to tell of his connection with Holmes, and then committed the information to Mr. Cheatham. Van Riper became the principal witness in the investigation conducted by the secret service, and said he was induced to communicate the fact that advance information was being given out by Holmes because he had heard that Holmes and his assistants had intended to try to manipulate the June cotton report.

GET EVIDENCE.
Using this information as a foundation, the secret service agents interviewed numerous persons who had been mentioned by Judd and Van Ripper, as well as gathering a mass of correspondence, including many letters written by Holmes to Van Riper and others. The charges by Mr. Cheatham were backed up with evidence that information had been given to cotton brokers in New York by some person or persons employed in the Bureau of Statistics relative to the acreage and condition of the cotton crop of the United States prior to the official publication and crop figures had been tampered with in the interest of certain cotton speculators. Holmes is the only employee of the Government who had been found to have had any connection with supplying information to brokers prior to the publication of the official report.

"COULD GET IT"
After reviewing the charges, Secretary Wilson gives a summary of the testimony adduced before secret service agents. Mr. Van Riper, the New York broker, under examination said he became acquainted with Holmes in New York in August, 1904, through a "mutual friend." According to this testimony Holmes told Van Riper he could get information concerning the Government crop report principally through the report of the general agent, and the reports of the State agents. Van Riper said Holmes furnished him with information from time to time for several months in advance of the publication of the official figures, and that the information furnished by Holmes corresponded exactly with the figures afterwards published as the official crop reports.

A GO-BETWEEN.

Van Riper stated that a Mr. Haas of New York acted as go-between for Holmes and himself, and he was given to understand that Haas was securing information for Theodore Price, a cotton broker of New York. The witness said he met Haas at the Hotel Waldorf, and was told by him that the report for June, 1905, would be 75 per cent on condition and 124 or 125 per cent on acreage, which was as bearish as they could make it, and that he was going to see Price, with whom he would have an interview and wanted to see Van Riper after he saw Price; that in about an hour Haas called on him and said at the request of Price he was going to Washington to see if they could not get the percentage a little higher and acreage a little smaller to make the report more bearish. Van Riper testified that the official report was more bearish than the figures previously given him, and that he took this to mean that the effort of influence the report had succeeded.

NOTE SHOWS IT.

The letters presented by Van Riper, which he alleged were written by Holmes, were all signed W. T. Initial "H." Most of these letters were for the purpose of making appointments with Van Riper, but the following note dated August 30, 1904, shows the relationship between Holmes and Van Riper:

"If you have bought any of that stuff sell it out at once and sell all you can in addition. We are going to show a very slight decline and as this is totally unexpected, it will send things down like fury. Other parties will close out tomorrow and sell on Thursday. Where is P? Tear this up. It may go up a little before Friday, but probably not."

ALL FROM HOLMES.

This letter was signed with the initial "H." Van Riper testified that all of the letters surrendered were from Holmes and that their contents had reference to the state of the cotton report. A large number of letters and telegrams signed with the initial "H." were sent from New York to Van Riper. Nearly all of these contained information concerning the cotton report together with instructions to sell or buy on the market according to the information furnished, and all of them closed with the admonition to destroy the letter. The secret service agents learned that "P." referred to in Holmes' letter was "F. A. Peckham," of New York and that the letters signed with the initials "H." were written by F. A. Peckham.

WANTED MONEY.

Mr. Peckham was interviewed in New York City and stated that the only explanation he had to give concerning the letters was that he was trying to make some money in the cotton market, declining to say anything of his relations with Holmes. Haas or Van Riper. Shortly after he was interviewed it was learned that Peckham came to Washington and held a conversation with Holmes over the telephone in which he inquired whether Holmes intended to resign his position or whether he expected to be dismissed from the Government service. The first questions asked Holmes were as to his relations with Peckham and

PLENIPOTENTIARIES OFF FOR UNITED STATES.

Leave Yokohama on Their Sea
Journey to Seattle, Then to Washington.

YOKOHAMA, July 8.—The steamer Minnesota, of the Great Northern line, having on board the Japanese plenipotentiaries, sailed from this port for Seattle at 4:30 this afternoon.

The Governor of Yokohama and civic bodies escorted the plenipotentiaries to the pier, where they were received by a military guard. At the pier the plenipotentiaries and their suites entered launches and were conveyed to the Minnesota, which was dressed with flags, as were all the other ships in the harbor.

The Marquis Ito, Premier Katsura, the other members of the Cabinet, Mr. Grieson, the American Minister, and the staff of the legation, were among those who accompanied Baron Komura and his party to the Minnesota. An enormous crowd of Japanese and foreigners with bands of music assembled at the water front and general enthusiasm was manifested.

On arriving on board the Minnesota Baron Komura and those who accompanied him, partook of a collation, after which the ship sailed amidst a storm of banzais. The Japanese guardship Takao fired a salute of nineteen guns.

The Japanese plenipotentiaries are Baron Jutaro Komura, the Foreign Minister of Japan, and Kogoro Takahira, the Japanese Minister to the United States. Accompanying Baron Komura from Japan are, so far as ascertainable here, Colonel Tachibana of the War Office, M. Yamazaki, director of the Bureau of Political Affairs, M. Saito, director of the Bureau of Information, and H. W. Davidson (American), adviser of the Foreign Office, and a number of interpreters, clerks, etc.

KUSTENJI, Roumania, July 8.—The mutineers on the Kniaz Potemkine offered to surrender as deserters and the Roumanian authorities demanded the breech locks of the battleship's guns as a pledge of good faith.

The mutineers offered to present the battleship to the Roumanian government as they declare they are anxious that she should not be handed over to Russia.

BLACK FLAG IS LOWERED!

RUSSIAN'S GIVE UP TO ROUMANIANS.

KUSTENJI, ROUMANIA, JULY 8.—THE KNIAZ POTEMKINE ARRIVED HERE TODAY ACCOMPANIED BY A TORPEDO BOAT AND NOW LIES IN THE OUTER HARBOR NEAR THE RUSSIAN GUARDSHIP PSEZOUAPE. THE ROUMANIAN CRUISER ELIZABETHA AND THE TRAINING SHIP MIRCEA ARE IN CLOSE PROXIMITY.

GENERAL AGNELESCO, COMMANDING THE DOBRULA DIVISION AND THE PORT COMMANDER PROCEEDED TO THE MUTINEERS BATTLESHIP TO DEMAND AN EXPLANATION OF THE REASONS OF HER APPEARANCE IN ROUMANIAN WATERS.

SOON AFTER SHE HAD ANCHORED THE KNIAZ POTEMKINE BEGAN EXCHANGING SIGNALS WITH THE ROYAL GUARDSHIP PSEZOUAPE AND IT WAS THE BELIEF ASHORE THAT THE MUTINEERS CONTEMPLATED SURRENDERING IN CONNECTION WITH THE TERMS OFFERED BY THE ROUMANIAN GOVERNMENT WHEN THE BATTLESHIP LAST VISITED THIS PORT.

The appearance of the Potemkine and the rumors concerning the intentions of her crew, created the greatest excitement in Kustenji and attracted large crowds to the sea front.

The excitement was increased later in the day when it became known the mutineers had offered to surrender to the Roumanian officers as deserters and that the Roumanian officials had demanded the breech locks of the guns of the battleship as a pledge of the mutineers good faith.

The mutineers asked the Roumanian officers to guarantee that they would furnish the sailors who surrendered with Roumanian passports and also to guarantee that they shall not be extradited to Russia.

TREATED AS DESERTERS

KUSTENJI, Roumania, July 8.—The flag of St. Andrew once again floats over the battleship Kniaz Potemkine and the torpedo boat which have proved such terrors to the Black Sea communities for a couple of weeks past.

The formal surrender of the mutinous crews actually occurred at 1 o'clock this afternoon after a series of negotiations between the Roumanian authorities and the leaders of the mutineers.

The Roumanian officers who boarded the battleship on her arrival here called upon the crew to surrender, in which case they would be treated as foreign deserters or else leave the port forthwith. It speedily became known that the Russians came to this port with the intention of giving themselves up to a foreign Government and they soon announced themselves as satisfied with the Roumanian Government's terms.

The mutineers wanted to take off the treasure which was on board the Kniaz Potemkine, but the authorities declined to acquiesce.

The Russians will gradually be conveyed to any frontier they may select and will then be liberated, the local officials having given an understanding to this effect. The Roumanian flag has been hoisted over the Russian warships as well as the Russian flag, so as to prevent any attack on them in Roumanian water by the vessels of the Russian squadron, which are reported to be in pursuit of the mutineers.

WOULD SINK WARSHIP

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 8.—The Russian embassy had authorized Turkey to sink the Russian battleship Kniaz Potemkine if she appeared at the entrance of the Bosphorus. The Porte called the attention of the embassy to the possibility of the battleships attempting to force a passage of the Bosphorus and asked what ought to be done under such circumstances.

"Sink her without hesitation," was the reply.

The dispatch boat Izvedin consequently was sent to try to communicate with the Kniaz Potemkine and warn her not to go to the Bosphorus, at the entrance of the Bosphorus, as she would be sunk.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED TO MRS. GEO. LAWRENCE

Clubman and Capitalist Must Pay
Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars
Monthly Alimony.

An interlocutory decree of divorce was today granted by Judge Ogden to Laura I. Lawrence, wife of George E. Lawrence, club man and capitalist of Piedmont.

Extreme cruelty was the ground of divorce. The child, Rhoda, aged fourteen months, is awarded to the mother. Lawrence is required to pay $250 a month alimony, beginning on July 15. The troubles of Lawrence and wife have been aired in several judicial tribunals of late. Mrs. Lawrence accused her husband of attempting to kill her, and exhibited a gash in her face as proof of her assertion that he had slashed her with a knife at their home one night last month, when he came in intoxicated.

Mrs. Lawrence not only caused her husband's arrest, but also sought a decree of divorce, which has now been granted to her, as stated.

The capitalist's case in the Superior Court is yet to be heard and decided.

TIE UP SHERIFF SHOOT PRISONERS.

IRONTON, Mo., July 8.—A gang of masked men overpowered and bound Sheriff Marshall early today, forced their way into the County Jail and fired several shots at William and Arthur Spough, prisoners held on the charge of having murdered Sheriff Polk several weeks ago. Each of the Spoughs received three bullets in his legs, but neither was seriously injured. The purpose of the strange attack is a matter for speculation. Sheriff Marshall was bound and gagged and his keys taken.

TAFT PARTY SAILS FOR PHILIPPINES.

Secretary and Miss Roosevelt Wave Good Bye to People on the Wharf.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—The steamer Manchuria, having aboard Secretary of War Taft, Miss Alice Roosevelt and a large party of United States Senators and Congressmen, sailed at one o'clock today for the Philippine Islands. A large throng of people was at the wharf to bid the party farewell.

It was a very pretty scene. Secretary Taft, also, waved his adieu. The tremendous vessel slowly turned into the stream, and escorted by several launches and tugs, headed out to sea. Judge McCall of the New York bench arrived last night and joined the party. The return trip will commence early in September and the party will arrive here before October 10. The party numbers 104 people.

DEATH FOLLOWS A BLOW ON HIS JAW.

Charles Mansfield is Killed While Attempting to Force Way Into House.

While trying to force his way into the home of George E. Donaldson, 529 Forty-fourth street, Charles Mansfield, a laborer, who had in a drunken fury driven his family to seek shelter with his neighbors, was killed by a blow on the jaw delivered by Donaldson in self-defense. Before the blow was struck Mansfield slashed Donaldson with a knife in an effort to force his way into the house where his wife had taken shelter. With a view of merely disabling Mansfield, Donaldson struck the infuriated husband on the jaw, knocking him backward down the steps. Mansfield's head struck with considerable force against the stone pavement and it is probable that his neck was broken or that his skull was fractured.

After the unhappy occurrence Donaldson secured the services of Dr. A. S. Kelly, but medical aid was of no avail. As soon as Donaldson realized that Mansfield was dead he hunted up Policeman Ford and insisted on being arrested.

HE BELIEVES IN TONOPAH

GEORGE DE GOLIA RETURNS FROM A BUSINESS TRIP TO NEVADA.

George E. De Golia has just returned from a business trip to Tonopah and Goldfield, Nevada, and in speaking about that country, said: "There is no question about the permanency and extent of the mineral deposits in Southern Nevada. I went underground in only one mine at Tonopah, the 'Montana,' but even in this, one of the smaller mines, they have 'ore in sight,' thousands of tons, and are still sinking on the vein with every indication that the vein will go down to an indefinite depth. The other big mines in Tonopah, that have been developed, and ore chutes uncovered, show the same permanent conditions. "They are bringing into this country now immense electrical power, and it is only a question of a few months before mills and smelters will be erected so that all the ore taken out can be worked. There are no mills or smelters anywhere around there now, and the ore has to be shipped to Salt Lake for treatment, and hence only rich ores are shipped. The construction of the railroad cut-off from Hazen on the main line of the Southern Pacific Company, south, will also work a great benefit to the entire community, bringing them in closer railroad communication with all supplies. It will not be many years before one can board a Pullman coach at the Oakland Pier, and stay in that car until it reaches Goldfield. The railroad now stops at Tonopah, and the thirty miles between that town and Goldfield is made in automobiles, some of which make the distance in an hour and eight minutes over the hot desert sands.

but everybody seems to take annoyances and inconveniences gracefully. "In Tonopah I met several Oaklanders, all of whom are doing well. F. J. Cadogan is one of the prominent men at Tonopah, and put me up at the Mizpah Club there."

LARGE ESTATE FOR MARTIN MINORS

Letters of guardianship were today issued by Judge Ogden to Mrs. Louise C. Martin over John W. Martin, aged 8 years, and Kenneth C. Martin, aged 3 years. The minors are the children of Mrs. Martin, who is the widow of the late Shelby F. Martin. As heirs they are entitled to two-thirds of their father's estate, which the petition states will net them about $80,000.

WILL NOT SEND AN IMBECILE TO ASYLUM

Edward Tye, an inmate of the County Infirmary, ran away from that institution the night of July 4th and was found in Hayward at 1 o'clock in the morning of July 6th. He had taken some of the clothes of other patients at the infirmary and had so annoyed them that a complaint was lodged against Tye accusing him of insanity. However, after an examination conducted by the Lunacy Commissioners and Judge Ogden this morning, it was decided to send Tye back to the infirmary, as he is apparently an imbecile instead of being insane. Tye is a former convict and is suffering from an excessive use of drugs.

MRS. GERHARDY APPLIES FOR LETTERS

Mary Louise Gerhardt, widow of Otto C. Gerhardt, who died July 3, has applied for letters of administration on the estate of her husband. It is valued at $1,250. There are four minor children, who are heirs with their mother.

CASE CONTINUED. The charge of battery preferred by Mrs. S. J. Highwarden against Mrs. Minnie Gale was continued by Acting Police Judge Geary this morning until July 11. Mrs. Gale was domiciled under the same roof as Mrs. Highwarden at the latter's home, corner of Eleventh and Market streets. Difficulties ensued, terminating on June 9 by Mrs. Gale kicking Mrs. Highwarden, who refrained from swearing out a warrant until yesterday.

JAPANESE TO TAKE SAKHALIN

Send a Land Force on Island and Russians Retreat.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 8, 7:50 P. M.—A landing of Japanese troops on the island of Sakhalin was officially reported tonight and started military circles in St. Petersburg. It had been realized since the defeat of Admiral Rojestvensky that the Japanese were able to take possession of the island as soon as they thought fit. The strength of the landing force cannot be ascertained, but the garrison of the island is too weak to offer an effective defense. Though the Japanese seem unwilling to risk a grand battle with General Linewitch pending the peace meeting at Washington, the landing of troops at Sakhalin is considered to express Japan's decision regarding the formal conclusion of a general armistice, namely that in the interim before the meeting it is necessary to occupy the island whose possession is an important card in Japan's diplomatic contest at Washington.

WILL OPERATE UNDER NEW NAME

PITTSBURGH, July 8.—The decision of the Kansas State Supreme Court prohibiting the Kansas Natural Gas Company from engaging in business in Kansas is not received with alarm by the owners of the company, who are Pittsburghers. It is entirely probable that the letter of the Kansas Supreme Court mandating will be obeyed but that the business of the corporation in that State will hereafter be transacted in the name of a subsidiary concern which is controlled by the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

FRENCH HONOR ADMIRAL SIGSBEE

PARIS, July 8, 3:34 p. m.—The French Government has conferred the cross of the Legion of Honor upon Rear-Admiral Charles B. Sigbee, Captain John E. Hawley of the Bagley, Brooklyn, Commander Alexander S. Shuf of the Chatanooga, Commander William G. Cutler of the Galveston and Commander Reginald of the Tacoma, who commanded the detachment of American soldiers and marines who escorted the body of Admiral Paul Jones from Paris to Cherbourg.

BODY IS PLACED ON BROOKLYN

CHERBOURG, July 8.—The final ceremony of the transfer of the body of Admiral Paul Jones on board the United States flag ship Brooklyn took place at noon today and was the occasion for an impressive function, in which the entire force of the American squadron, large detachments of French soldiers and sailors and an enormous crowd of townspeople participated.

TOOK HER MONEY FROM A TRUNK

Mrs. George Mason, colored, residing at 924 Second street, reported to the police this morning that some one had taken $235 from a trunk at her home. Mrs. Mason thinks it possible that a daughter who is weak-minded may be responsible for the disappearance of the cash.

SKIFF STOLEN IN THE ESTUARY

Pelinta Perinapino reported to the police this morning that a skiff, ten feet long belonging to him had been stolen from Peterson's boat house. The detectives have located the skiff and will take it in custody before tonight.

PLEADS GUILTY

Charles Coburn, a brother of "Monk" Coburn, the jockey, today pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing $35 from Mrs. Wilhelm. Schneider of 1051 Fifty-seventh street and will be sentenced on July 10. Young Coburn spent the money in San Francisco since the slights of the Midway Plaisance. He was a guest of Mrs. Schneider at dinner when the money was stolen. The young man finished his meal before the others at the table and improved his spare time by making an investigation of the house. He found the purse containing the money in the bedroom of his hostess.

WILL BE SENTENCED. Manuel Travers pleaded guilty before Acting Police Judge Geary this morning to having stolen a sack of apricots from Ray Bengert. He will come up for sentence on July 10.

BICYCLE STOLEN. C. J. Kurtz, residing at 850 Chestnut street, reported to the police today that he lost a bicycle yesterday in front of the Union Savings Bank building.

NEGRO BEATS WHITE WIFE. Peter Farmer, a negro, married to a white woman, was this morning sentenced to pay a fine of $10, with the alternative of spending five days in jail, on a charge of battery upon his wife.

NOTARIES COLLECT FEES. R. B. Tappan, a notary public, has filed an account showing that he collected $50 in fees during the six months ending June 30. William Hammond Jr., also a notary, took $25 in fees during the same period.

DIAMOND ROBBERY IN THE COLLEGE TOWN

Sparklers Valued at $4,000 Are Stolen From the Rowe Mansion.

BERKELEY, July 8.—A big diamond robbery was reported to the police of Berkeley today by William Rowe of University Terrace. The job is supposed to have been done by a band of expert burglars during yesterday's festivities on the University campus, as Secretary Taft and his party were being received by President Wheeler and the town people.

The local police have the list of gems taken from the Rowe mansion, the value of which is estimated at about $4,000. "At the Marshall's office all information in reference to the affair has been denied. Even the names of the victims of the thieves has been kept secret, with all details of the robbery. Mr. Rowe has been pledged to secrecy by the police, who hope to get a clew to the identity of the burglars before the publication of the affair is made.

That the trick was turned by clever and dangerous men, or a gang of men, is evident from the fact that the descriptions of the jewels have been sent to all the police departments in all close cities where the pawnshops are open to the criminals. These places will be watched, and every effort possible will be made to secure a clew to the identity of the thief or thieves.

It is understood that about fifteen articles were taken, including a number of valuable diamond rings, and other expensive jewelry. It is the belief of those familiar with the case that the Rowe mansion was entered during the absence of the family while they were at the Taft reception.

After Mr. Rowe and his family returned late in the afternoon they discovered that a window in the rear of the house had been removed, evidently by strangers. At once Mr. Rowe went to the receptacle where the valuable jewels were kept, and discovered that a raid had been made on his household treasures. Investigation showed that everything in the way of jewelry, money and other valuables had been taken by the daring men.

Mr. Rowe prepared a list of the articles taken from his home, and early this morning consulted with Deputy Marshal Levi Moran, who is in charge of the police department in Berkeley during Marshal Vollmer's absence. Deputy Marshal Moran advised Mr. Rowe to keep the news of the robbery secret until such time as it seemed best to give out the story of the affair. To this Mr. Rowe agreed, and when asked to disclose the case later in the day, he refused to make any statement regarding his loss, referring all inquiries to the police.

The police were equally reticent. But the secret was not kept long, for the town was soon aware that a big diamond robbery had been perpetrated on University Terrace.

Some of the jewelry that was stolen belonged to the daughter of Mr. Rowe, Marjorie, who recently became the bride of Julius Kuester, Berkeley manager of the Sunset Telephone Company.

Van Riper, Holmes said that they all had been on very intimate terms socially and that when he had occasion to visit New York, which was frequently, his hotel bills had been paid by Van Riper or Peckham.

HOLMES ADMITS.

Holmes admitted that Peckham, Haas and himself were at one time associated in an adventure in which Holmes was to have an interest equal to the sum of $8000 which he was to receive as a gift from the other members of the firm. Subsequently Haas transferred his interest in this firm to L. C. Van Riper and Van Riper stated that the company was organized for the purpose of handling cotton. Holmes testified that this was true but that he was not aware of the nature of the organization at the time he was given an interest in it and that when he learned that the object of the company was to handle cotton he withdrew from it.

Under further examination Holmes stated that he had sold to Van Riper about February 19, 1905, a three-fourths interest in some mining property in Idaho for $73,000, this amount having been paid to him by Van Riper in two installments in currency.

HAD THE "DOPE."

Secretary Wilson says there seems to be every reason from the report from the secret service agent that Holmes could have given approximately correct information anywhere from one to three days in advance of the publication of the report. It was found that alterations had been made in the figures of a report for October 30, 1903, and that these alterations appeared to be in Holmes handwriting.

According to the new plan outlined by Secretary Wilson to govern the preparation of monthly reports for the Bureau of Statistics, the general special field agents and State agents will report on speculative crops directly to the Secretary or Acting Secretary of Agriculture. These reports will remain sealed in the custody of these officers until the day the official report is to be made when the agents' reports will be opened and the official report compiled under strict precautions.

MAKES DENIAL.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Theodore Price, the New York cotton broker today declared that he had no acquaintance or knowledge of either L. C. Van Riper or M. Haas, from whom he is said in a report of the Department of Agriculture to have received information concerning the cotton crop.

SURPRISE TO HIM.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Mr. Price today said that the Washington report on the leak of cotton statistics was a complete surprise to him; that he has received no intimation from the department in any way that his name had been brought into the matter; that he had received no information from Mr. Holmes nor the department or any of its representatives, directly or indirectly; that the alleged statement of Secretary Wilson, so far as he has brought no name into the matter only through the testimony of one Van

TAFT & PENNOYER BROADWAY (Private Exchange 7) FOURTEENTH

BUSINESS ON THE MOVE CELEBRATE FOURTH IN LONDON

The hot weather has not had the effect of preventing the accomplishment of a number of business changes which show the infusion of new money and new business men into this community.

The new billiard parlor which is to be inaugurated here will occupy part of the quarters originally tenanted by the Athenian Club on Broadway a little to the north of the Hub Clothing store. The premises have been leased from A. Jones through the Layman Real Estate Company for a term of years. The parlor will be owned by Chapin & Hyde, late of Los Angeles, who intend to spend $10,000 in fitting up the place, the intention being to conduct it on the plan of Morleys in San Francisco.

WILL NOT MOVE.

Considerable discussion has been occasioned by the move, until recently contemplated, of the change of quarters of the "Fred Becker" market, the game and produce store, of Tailman Brothers and the fish market of Camillo & Lagoria, all of which form a union market on the south side of Thirteenth street between Washington and Clay streets. Some dissatisfaction has arisen between some of these firms and the management of the Eva building in which they are located. This led to a move on their part to secure other quarters and for a time, the western half of the Gates stable on Thirteenth street was considered available for the uses of the firms. Overtures were made for a long lease of that structure, but, before they could be brought to a successful termination, the difficulty between the firms in question and the management of the Eva building were adjusted by the proprietors of the Gas Kitchen John Marcovich and Tony Cleok securing the lease for five years of the quarters in which Becker, Tailman Brothers and Camillo & Lagoria conduct their business. Cleok & Marcovich have agreed to grant some concessions to the firms in question and, as a consequence, the latter have accepted sub-leases to the stores and have agreed to remain where they are.

In the meantime, however, another large business house is contemplating the occupancy of the building on Thirteenth street near Franklin, which Becker, Tailman and Camillo & Lagoria were considering. The future of the firm of H. L. Kemp at 466 Eleventh street has incorporated under the name of the Oakland Furniture Company and has secured two stores in the St. Paul building of Charles Jurgens, at the northeast corner of Twelfth and Clay streets.

BOARD OF TRADE INTERESTED

WILL SEEK TO INCREASE THE SALE OF STAMPS IN OAKLAND.

The Board of Trade will take an active part in helping to secure for Oakland a more efficient postal delivery service. The board proposes to do it by persuading the business men of this city and those who reside here but have business elsewhere to purchase their stamps at the Oakland postoffice. It was claimed at the meeting last night, at which were present Directors C. D. Bates, Jr., W. H. Bucholz, R. P. M. Greeley, Hugh Hogan, C. W. Jurgens and Frank A. Leach Jr., that the practice of many people who travel daily between Oakland and San Francisco, in buying their stamps at the ferry postoffice, sub-station on the other side of the bay, was responsible for keeping down the number of mail carriers in this city.

The number of carriers allotted to a city is in proportion to the revenue produced by the business done, and it is claimed that Oaklanders do not buy their stamps at home and therefore the postoffice department is not warranted in further increasing the delivery service. It was stated that the ferry sub-station in San Francisco was one of the largest in the United States and that volume of business was due to the fact that a large percentage of the 22,000 people that cross the bay daily buy stamps and mail their letters there.

To increase the revenue, a further increase in carriers the Board of Trade committee proposes to bring the matter before the public by means of a newspaper campaign. A series of pamphlets circulated among the community calling attention to the fact that the business done at the ferry postoffice is responsible for keeping down the number of mail carriers in this city.

Ambassador Reid Receives Many Distinguished Britons.

LONDON, July 8.—Dorchester House, the home of Ambassador Reid, was the scene today of one of the greatest gatherings of Americans ever held in a foreign city. The occasion was the Fourth of July celebration which was postponed on account of Mr. Hay's death.

The house was crowded with Americans and distinguished Britons. Between four and six o'clock in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Reid stood at the head of the grand staircase, receiving the guests, who arrived in a continuous stream. The house was prettily decorated with flowers and palms.

On the lawn an immense marquee was erected in which refreshments were served.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Cutting, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, Senator Allison, Congressman Cousins, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, J. Pierpont Morgan, the Duchess of Marlborough, the staff of the American Consulate-General, Lord and Lady O'Neill, Mr. Sydney and Lady Waterloo, Sir James and Lady McGregor, Chief Justice Alverstone, Sir Charles and Lady Wellsley and the Earl and the Countess of Yarmouth.

IN HUMAN FATHER SACRIFICES INFANT TO SPITE ITS MOTHER.

CHICAGO, July 8.—"I hated the baby and its mother. I did not propose to support it or her mother. We had a quarrel and separated. She came to me yesterday and wanted some money. I refused to give it to her and she left the baby and went away. I took it to the orphan asylum and they would not have it. Then I went to the river and threw it in. Starting from dull eyes, and in a soiled face that was surmounted with a shock of tangled hair, John Wicker stood before the body of his four-months-old infant and admitted that he had deliberately sacrificed the infant to spite its mother. Wicker and his wife are Galatians. Their love affair began in their native land. They came to Chicago two years ago. Their wretched life was short and their love affair ended in tragedy. The young woman, appealing to the man to return to her, but he was often turned away. Thursday she went to his room. He was asleep. The young wife stepped to the bedside and placed the baby beside him. "When you want me you can come for me," she whispered. "Come and bring the baby with you." She went her way and Wicker, after taking the infant to the asylum and being refused admittance, went to the river bank.

ADOPTS PLANS FOR PARK ROW TERMINAL

NEW YORK, July 8.—Plans for the magnificent $3,000,000 Park Row Terminal for Brooklyn bridge have been adopted by the Board of Estimates and Apportionment. The corporation counsel was directed to proceed at once to conduct the block occupied by the Staats Zeilung building and the other property required.

The terminal will be a huge Italian Renaissance structure, three stories in height, with a basement for trolley cars extending to the north of the present bridge terminal, across Park Row over the Staats Zeilung site and across Chambers and Reade streets. The bridge structure will be continued across Park Row in the form of a highly ornate peristyle, under which Park Row and Center street will run.

The structure proper will be farther to the north, beginning near the Staats Zeilung building and at right angles to the bridge. Chambers and Reade streets will run under the station through arcades. The terminal will extend across Duane to the south side of Pearl street.

The station will have a capacity of twice as many trains as the present terminal. The foundation will be laid within a year and the station completed within two years. Its cost will be $3,000,000, exclusive of the site.

MILLIONAIRES ARE EVADING ASSESSOR

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 8.—A session was created here last evening by the Pittsburgh Leader's publication of two columns of facts and figures about the assessments of Pittsburgh millionaires. Their "occupation" tax is attacked. H. C. Frick, worth possibly $70,000,000, pays taxes on "occupation" valued at $10,000.

Other figures on the "occupation" of well-known millionaires are as follows: T. Hart Given, president Farmers' Deposit National Bank and one of the town's wealthiest men, pays $1,000,000. President C. H. McDowell of the Union Trust Company, a corporation capitalized at $20,000,000, pays taxes on only $500. A. G. Dinkey, president of the Carnegie Steel Company, pays on $500,000. And B. F. Jones of Jones & Laughlin Company on $2500. Bank Commissioner McAfee draws $6000 salary but pays taxes on $1000.

James W. Friends, a high official in the city corporation, a man who is said to have lost $500,000 to Cassie Chadwick and then laughed about it, is down for an occupation, valued at $2500. James H. Lockhart, son of the late Charles Lockhart of Standard Oil fame, and who is said to be worth $1,000,000, is assessed at a modest $1000.

PIONEER SETTLER DIES AT WOODLAND

WOODLAND, July 8.—As the result of injuries received in a fall last November, Camillus Nelson, a pioneer settler of Yolo county, died last Thursday evening at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. C. W. Bush, of this city. The deceased was a native of Kentucky, aged 83 years.

He came to California in 1849, and resided in Yolo county. He was a veteran of the Mexican War, and took a prominent part in the development of Yolo county.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. C. W. Bush of Woodland and Mrs. Dwight Hackett of Oakland, and two sons, C. Q. and W. W. Nelson.

BUILDING ARMOY FOR COMPANY A.

Dr. W. D. Huntington is constructing an armory building near the corner of Twentieth and Telegraph avenue as quarters for Company A, National Guards.

The building will be a two story building, the size being 50 x 142 feet. In it will be contained quarters for the company, besides a public hall, 50 x 100 feet in itself, parlors, lodge room 17 x 35, and quarters for the hospital corps.

It is thought that the building will be completed in the course of sixty days.

MRS. PAUL STEINHORST.

Miss Margaret Miller Back in Oakland as the Wife of Prominent Musician

After an absence from the city of nearly three years, Miss Margaret Miller, daughter of James Miller, the well-known terra cotta manufacturer of East Oakland, has returned home as Mrs. Paul Steinhorst, being one of the best-known pianists and musical directors in the United States.

Mrs. Steinhorst will be remembered by her many Oakland friends and admirers as Evonne Del Zotto, which was her stage name during several successful seasons in vaudeville in the big Eastern playhouses.

To dance has always been as natural for Margaret Miller Steinhorst as to walk and very early in life she formed a love for the footlights, which when she was 17 years of age terminated in her debut before the amusement public as a professional dancer.

Her turn, consisting of Japanese, Spanish and character dances, and high kicking soon attracted outside attention and tempting offers came from prominent theatrical managers all over the country. The result was that she appeared in many of the best vaudeville houses in the United States and is today as well known in the musical world as is her husband in the theatrical world.

It was while Mr. Steinhorst was playing in the Helena Opera House that he became infatuated with the charming little dancer and soon afterward proposed marriage.

The wedding took place in Helena, May 31, 1904, and was a great surprise to the family in this city. They did not even know that their daughter was engaged, and when the announcement of the marriage came in an endearing letter written jointly by bride and groom Mr. and Mrs. Miller were a bit inclined to resent the match. Not that they objected to the young man whom their daughter had selected for a life partner, but they felt sorry that they could not have had the opportunity of witnessing the ceremony.

However, there was no use finding fault at that late hour. The two young folks were given parental blessing in the nature of a substantial check from Papa Miller's copious pocket-book. The happy couple went from Helena to Seattle, where Mr. Steinhorst became musical director at the Orpheum Theater. This position he still holds. He is much in demand, however, and only yesterday sent an offer of $100 a week from a big Eastern circuit. Mr. Steinhorst hopes soon to be transferred to San Francisco.

For the next two months he and his wife will enjoy the hospitality of their parents in East Oakland, whose cool, spacious home will probably be the scene of a number of happy events in honor of the visitors this summer.

Mrs. Steinhorst has lately written a new march, which she expects to have published in the near future. Mrs. Steinhorst says she is content to stay away from the stage now that she has a good husband and an attractive home. She is constantly receiving offers to return to the stage, but says she does not care to return to the limelight, attractive as it may be.

PRISONER CONFESSES TO A DOUBLE MURDER.

Harry Love Says He Killed Aged Woman and Her Grandson—Implicates Another.

STOCKTON, July 8.—The man known as Harry Love, arrested some time ago on suspicion of having killed Mrs. Phoebe Williams and Chester Maker her grandson, at Lancha Plana on the night of the eleventh of June has confessed to Sheriff Norman and implicated Clarence Murphy. Murphy lives near Clements with his family.

He was arrested last Wednesday night, but the Amador sheriff has managed to keep the matter secret though it leaked out today.

Murphy angrily protests his innocence and declares, as he has all along that Love is the man who committed the crimes.

The officers believe that both had a hand in the crimes and each is endeavoring to shift the responsibility onto the other.

Sheriff Norman is still very reticent regarding the matter. He is now busily engaged in verifying the statements made by Love regarding the movements of himself and Murphy just before and after the murders.

BURLARS
CORBETT'S KILLED

Search for Some of That
Britt-Nelson
Money.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—Burglars searched for a share of the Britt-Nelson money in Harry Corbett's saloon 22 Ellis street, some time after 3 o'clock yesterday morning. That is, it is presumed they were looking for the fighters' bundle now on deposit with the proprietor of the cafe. They shattered the cash register in their search but succeeded in getting no nearer the bank roll than has Nolan the manager of the Batting Dane since his return from the Eastern tour.

How the burglars gained an entrance to Corbett's place is a mystery, but Detectives Matheson and Mulcahey who have been detailed in the case believe that the men succeeded in having themselves locked up in the saloon when it was closed for the night.

Between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Watkins who keeps the lodging house at 22 Ellis street saw the burglars in her hallway. They had climbed in a window which opens onto Corbett's roof and she asked them what they were doing there. They gave her no answer but ran down the stairway and into the street. Mrs. Watkins immediately notified the Police Station and as a result of her notification it was discovered that Corbett's place had been the scene of an attempted burglary.

Detectives Matheson and Mulcahey found that the burglars had broken open the cash register and the implement with which the work was done a steel jimmy was found lying on the floor in front of the back bar. It was evident that the burglars had been frightened away. They had carried a small stepladder to the skylight in the rear of the saloon and this augmented by a short rope which had been left attached to the skylight affording them means of escape.

Mrs. Watkins describes the burglars as a white and black man. The white man was smooth shaven apparently twenty five years of age slender and well dressed. The colored man was taller and much heavier. Both were dressed in dark clothes and both wore derby hats.

DUTY IS LIFTED ON WHEAT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—The Mexican government has made the official announcement that it has waived the duty on wheat till the end of August. This would have been good news to the producers of this State if the crop had been heavy, but as it is now the outlook is not so bright. The duty on wheat is a heavy burden on the producers of this State and it is hoped that the Mexican government will waive the duty on wheat till the end of August.

There is a shortage of grain in Mexico and the government of that country has waived the duty on wheat till the end of August. This would have been good news to the producers of this State if the crop had been heavy, but as it is now the outlook is not so bright.

It is hardly time to make a statement as to what will be the result of the duty on wheat till the end of August. It is hoped that the Mexican government will waive the duty on wheat till the end of August.

At the offices of the two railroads there is the hope expressed that the rate will be reduced to meet the rate to the Mexican border. It is hoped that the Mexican government will waive the duty on wheat till the end of August.

AGAIN
FOR LIFE

Minnie Adams, For Third Time, Hears Murder Charge.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—Minnie Adams must face a third jury on the charge of poisoning her infant son. She had hoped that the disagreement of the second jury would result in her release from the County Jail, where she has been a prisoner for the past six years, but the District Attorney has decided that the evidence must be presented in court for a third time, and the accused woman was before Judge Lawlor this morning that the action might be set down for trial.

When the case was called Judge Dibble stated that he would like a brief respite after going through the long trial which has just closed, and the court seemed not anxious that the matter be taken up again immediately. It was suggested by Assistant District Attorney Fernald that the case go over to be set and Judge Lawlor directed that it be placed on the court calendar for that order two weeks from today. Minnie Adams went back to her place in the culinary department of the Branch County Jail, and will remain in charge there until her case is finally disposed of.

At the first trial of the case Minnie Adams was found guilty of murder in the first degree but the Supreme Court reversed the findings of the jury and sent the action back for retrial on the ground of error. The second jury stood seven for acquittal and five for conviction.

SCHOOL TEACHER IN MIDST OF FIRE

Fire last night visited the home of Miss Julia McCord a school teacher residing at 275 East Twelfth street but did not do any extensive damage. Miss McCord was packing her vacation things prior to taking a trip when the lamp overturned and ignited the surroundings. The fire department responded to an alarm and put the blaze out without material damage having been done.

BEULAH NOTES

BEULAH, July 8.—The Fourth Army celebrated the glorious Fourth by a reunion and rally at Beulah. The musical and literary exercises were conducted in the new Beulah chapel and were of a very high order. Refreshments were afterwards served in the "Fresh Air Camp" just back of Beulah station.

The army has a field of tents where the less fortunate class can enjoy an outdoor picnic. The country is recuperating in this delightful neighborhood just like the Salvation Army.

AT THE HOME.
The Home for Aged and Infirm Colored People at Beulah is in a flourishing condition and crowded with inmates most of whom are ex-slaves. Another large building is now being erected which will nearly double the capacity of the Home. The institution is excellently conducted and is a great credit to the colored people.

NO ACCIDENTS.
There were fireworks at Mills College and Beulah on the evening of the Fourth. No accidents happened.

GAVE A LECTURE.
Rev. H. H. Whiff of San Francisco gave his illustrated lecture on the "House of the Lord" in Beulah Chapel on the evening of July 5. Interspersed with pictures of ancient temples, stately cathedrals and modern houses of worship were many scenes of the beauty spots of California. The lecture was highly appreciated by an audience that crowded the chapel to the doors.

Berkeley Woman Crawls Through Window in Burning Building—and Rescues Baby.

BERKELEY, July 8.—Facing a sheet of flame that swept through her kitchen with all the fury of a fire, Mrs. Joseph Genberg stood this morning at the rear of her house, wringing her hands in despair at the thought of the fate of her three-year-old child, whom she had left in the front room of the house sleeping ten minutes before, and whom she now believed to have fallen the victim of flames.

The house at 2432 Seventh street had caught fire in some unexplainable manner while Mrs. Genberg stepped a few paces away to the home of a neighbor. She caught a glimpse of flames creeping through the roof and hurried back. Opening the kitchen door, she was met by a burst of flames which convinced her that the house was doomed and with it her young child.

In her desperation frantic with despair, hardly knowing what she did, Mrs. Genberg ran around the house screaming.

As she did so her eye caught sight of an open window to the room where her sleeping child had been left. Dashing to this window she saw to her joy that the fire which she supposed had swept through the entire house, had not as yet penetrated this room.

The little child lay sleeping on the bed undisturbed by the crackling of the flames or the smoke in the place. Mrs. Genberg hastily crawled through the window rescued the little one and was out again with it just in time to escape the oncoming flames that soon enveloped the room where the little one had laid.

The house was completely destroyed, all the timbers and furniture being a total loss.

Mrs. Genberg was at home alone with her babe her husband being a seafaring man visiting his home only at intervals.

Mrs. Genberg can give no explanation as to the origin of the fire. The house was not insured.

MRS. MARTIN'S RECEPTION

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—The reception given by Mrs. Eleanor Martin to Miss Roosevelt and the Taft party in this city last night was a great success. A thousand invitations had been issued, and most of them were responded to. On every hand were to be seen well known citizens of the State the visitors are at present most interested in, and with them their wives and daughters in smart gowns whose richness and color put the finishing touch of beauty to the handsome apartments that made little variations were made in the floral adornment of a few of the rooms. American Beauty roses formed the favorite scheme in decoration, their stems in measurements that bore truth to California's boasts, their fragrant leaves gracefully in the unusual, typical atmosphere of last evening. In the great square hall, creamy hydrangeas, massed in a single huge brass, lighted and cooled in effect the sober colorings but in the rooms of finer hangings American Beauties alone reigned.

From 9 until 11 were the hours named for Mrs. Martin's guests to assemble and with eagerness were they observed when the guests arrived. Universally felt that brought most of the out-of-town residents back to town anxious to take up this formal social affair in the heat of the July. The Burlington contingent was especially full and indeed all of the suburban retreats were practically deserted last evening.

Mrs. Martin and her bevy of receiving ladies stood amid a shower of roses in the Louis Quinze reception room, the furnishings of which are in delicate pink. Standing directly in front of the broad mirror, the charming costumes worn by these welcoming the incoming guests were reflected within with pretty effect Mrs. Martin was embodied in a rich orchid satin, with emerald in the shades of the flowers and insertings of creamy Battenberg Miss Roosevelt looked daintily in a slim white frock. The other ladies made an extremely fine appearance in lovely costumes of various tints.

The hours flew by all too fast in the happy interest of the highly successful occasion. Mrs. Martin was a charming and gracious hostess who made the evening pass so delightfully that though many came at 9, 11 was past and gone before good-nights were said and reluctant farewells bidden their charming visitors.

Mrs. Martin was assisted in receiving by the following ladies: Miss Roosevelt, Miss Boardman, Miss McMillan, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. A. W. Foster, San Francisco; Mrs. Scott, wife of Senator N. B. Scott, West Virginia; Mrs. D. B. Payne, wife of Representative D. B. Payne, New York; Mrs. Morris, wife of United States Circuit Judge W. W. Morris, San Francisco; Mrs. Sumner, wife of General Sumner, San Francisco; Mrs. McCalla, wife of Admiral McCalla, Mare Island; Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of Captain H. L. Roosevelt, United States Marine Corps, Washington, D. C.; Miss Dolph, daughter of Cyrus Dolph, Portland, Or.; Mrs. Downey Harvey, Mrs. Walter S. Martin, Baroness von Schroeder, San Francisco.

IN FAVOR OF OUSTED

Him Returned to Stanford.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—While the trustees of Stanford University are still wrestling with the problem of securing a quorum during vacation time to consider the case of Dr. Julius Goebel recently dismissed by President Jordan from the head of the department of German languages there is a growing agitation among the prominent German citizens all over the country in favor of the ousted professor.

Petitions demanding the reinstatement of the savant have been circulated, signed and presented to the trustees from this city and from San Jose. Similar petitions are being circulated through the Eastern cities where Dr. Goebel has many admirers and his friends are now at work in New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati and New Orleans.

While the investigation into the merits of his case is pending Dr. Goebel is living at his residence in Palo Alto having recently returned from a trip to the East. He has filled a number of University engagements and also had a long consultation with President Roosevelt. Dr. Goebel has no plans for the future as he is convinced that the reinstatement of the professor is a matter of time.

The petition circulated in San Francisco is as follows:

Secretary Board of Trustees—Dear Sir: I am a graduate of Stanford University and a resident of San Francisco. I am a German citizen and a native of Germany. I am a member of the German community in San Francisco and I am a supporter of the German language and literature.

SMALL CHILD
DIES FROM BURNS

Manuel Dias a two-year-old died this morning at the St. Anthony's Hospital of burns received last Monday, by falling into a tub of boiling water at the home of his parents in Walnut Creek. The mother was absent from the room when the accident occurred. At first it was thought the burns were not serious but they grew rapidly worse and it was finally placed under the care of the hospital physicians in an effort to save his life.

OAKLAND TRIBUNE

W. E. DARGIE, President

Business Office and Publishing House, 413-417 Eighth Street, Oakland.

A Trenchant Indictment.

James B. Dill, the great corporation lawyer who gave up a practice estimated to be worth $300,000 a year to accept a salary of $3000 a year as judge of New Jersey's Court of Errors and Appeals, delivered the last commencement day address at Oberlin college. It was an address that abounded in epigram, all thrusting at the greed for wealth and the immoral methods adopted in its acquisition. Here are a few of the lance-like thrusts at the overshadowing evil of the day:

"The menace of our so-called prosperity of today is that in very many instances the men among us who become powers—financial, political, social—abuse their power. Conditions in the business and financial world are not wholesome.

"Of pretenders, deceivers of the public, grafters, the most skillful, hence most dangerous, are found in the ranks of educated men and educated women.

"A large part of our modern prosperity is to a perilously large extent bottomed upon an over-production of fraud and sham.

"The crisis is acute. A feeling of distrust is growing throughout the country. Many branches of financial business have been in one way or another taken possession of by the unscrupulous for the purpose of deceiving the unwary.

"Distrust—the rust that corrodes public confidence—is spreading in the land. Suspicion is taking the place of belief, scepticism is taking the place of public faith.

"The fact that the unprecedented material growth of the country, the resulting creation of immense private fortunes, the massing of great aggregations of corporate capital, through industrial combinations and railroad mergers, all have tended to concentrate the attention of the people upon great financial achievements and to establish in the highest place in the popular estimation the captains of industry and the powerful financiers, little regard being paid, in making up the judgment, to the fundamental virtues of private, individual life.

A more vigorous moral protest against the prevailing standard of commercial morality than the above has not yet been made. It is a pity Judge Dill did not include in it a fitting characterization of the great lawyers who employ their talents and learning in devising schemes by which laws may be evaded, the public plundered and the public service corrupted. The man who picks the lock for the burglar is as bad as the thief. The lawyer who twists the law into an instrument of graft and oppression is—following his avocation.

Bridging Carquinez Strait.

There is absolutely no warrant for the assumption that Secretary Taft has any intention of authorizing the erection of a bridge across Carquinez strait that will impede navigation. He is quite right in saying a bridge there has become a necessity. It is becoming a more urgent necessity every day. Every discriminating man in the State realizes what a convenience to the public as well as the transportation interests it would be to have the strait bridged. Secretary Taft merely voices the opinion of every intelligent man who has given the subject a thought. He proposes to facilitate the erection of a bridge, but he proposes at the same time to safeguard the interests of navigation. He says it will be difficult to erect a bridge that will not impede navigation, but thinks it can be done. In pursuance of this idea he is having plans drawn by an engineer who is not connected with either the railroads or the War Department. Until that plan has been made public, no one is competent to express an opinion regarding it. Secretary Taft is himself probably ignorant of what the engineer will recommend. And after the plan is completed it will have to undergo critical examination on the part of the military engineers and other engineers in the employ of the navigation and landed interests. Under the circumstances we can see no occasion for alarm.

The union teamsters of Chicago have voted to continue the pretense of being on a strike. The strike really ended some time ago, and the business of the city is proceeding quietly as if nothing had occurred. The strikers are simply out of a job. According to the report of the Cook County grand jury, the strike was the result of a blackmailing scheme directed against Montgomery Ward & Co., the case of the seventeen striking garment workers being merely a pretext for shaking the big firm down. The struggle cost millions of dollars, the direct loss of sixteen lives, and a vast amount of suffering and personal injury. If all this was the result of a grafting raid projected by labor leaders it is a sad reflection on the manner in which the business of the unions is managed.

W. F. Johns, a draughtsman formerly employed in the office of the chief engineer of the Panama canal, writes to the New York World a story which shows up John F. Wallace in a contemptible light. Becoming disgusted with the treatment of employees on the isthmus, and being offered a better salary in New York (as Mr. Wallace was) Mr. Johns resigned his position and asked the transportation back to the States which had been promised. Mr. Wallace refused the transportation, but treated the applicant to a long homily on the necessity of "sticking" out disagreeable things. He compared the resignation of Mr. Johns to the desertion of the soldier on the eve of battle, and was impressive in declaring that honor called on Mr. Johns to stay with his job on the isthmus. Mr. Wallace's conception of honor underwent a radical change when he was offered a more lucrative and congenial job. Comment is unnecessary.

After Twenty Years.

Mayor Dunne has quickly come around to the position of his antagonist in the late municipal campaign. Mr. Harlan contended that the immediate inauguration of public ownership of street railways was unwise, and inexpedient for many reasons. His proposition was to enter upon a scheme of municipal policy which would place the street railroads in the hands of the city at the end of twenty years. Judge Dunne and his supporters loudly asserted that this was merely a device to continue the system of private ownership. Now the mayor wants to hand over the roads to a private corporation, specially created, for twenty years, although the railway companies are offering no resistance and raising up no obstacles to the scheme for immediate public ownership. It appears that there has been more reason in the discussion of public ownership since election than before. The visit of Mr. James Dalrymple, of Glasgow, Scotland, has been illuminating. His views have been instructive. Coming from an outsider who believes in public ownership and who has had ample experience with its workings, his opinions have had the weight of authority. At the outset he pointed out that the American system of municipal government is not adapted to the application of the strict business principles which alone can make public ownership a success. Next he showed that the people of Chicago are getting more service under private ownership than the people of Glasgow are getting under public ownership. Finally he sent a cold chill down the backs of the public ownership protagonists by announcing that politics and trades unionism must be absolutely banished from the street railways, if public ownership is to be successful. Mayor Dunne now proposes to drop the hot end of the poker for twenty years—possibly to give it time to cool off.

The Honor of the Cabinet.

The news that Elihu Root will succeed to the position left vacant by the death of John Hay is gratifying to the nation at large. Mr. Root made his mark as Secretary of War. His eminent talents and comprehensive grasp of public affairs will be peculiarly effective in the office of Secretary of State.

Mr. Root returns to the Cabinet at a great pecuniary sacrifice. He gave up a practice easily worth $100,000 a year net to become Secretary of War at a salary of $8000 a year. It cost him $50,000 a year to live in Washington in the style his family was accustomed to maintain in New York. He will once more cast aside the large financial rewards yielded by the practice of the law to devote himself to the service of the nation. He will pay money out of his private purse every day for the privilege of serving the people.

It is remarkable that such able and distinguished men can be induced to serve in the Cabinet for the paltry salaries paid by the Government. There is not a member of the Cabinet who could not earn his salary several times over in private pursuits while working less hard and having more personal freedom and leisure. Secretary Taft has several times refused enormous yearly retainers to remain in the Government service. John Hay's salary did not pay the cost of the special dinners he gave. The Postmaster-General handles a business of $80,000,000 a year, yet his salary is less than that of a first-class salesman. Secretary Shaw handles a yearly budget aggregating $700,000,000, yet he is paid far less than the manager of a third-class bank or a department store.

The chief clerk in the office of the statistician of the Agricultural Department is to be dismissed for secretly giving out in advance the Department's cotton crop estimates. This advance knowledge is worth millions for speculative purposes, yet that clerk was paid a salary so shabby as to excite amazement. He has made an immense fortune by being recreant to his trust. Suppose the Cabinet officers were to eke out their miserable salaries by utilizing for speculative purposes the information they possess. They could all speedily acquire enormous fortunes, but none of them do it, although it is a common practice in Continental Europe. That they are not even accused of doing so, and are, generally speaking, comparatively poor men, is a conspicuous proof of the high sense of honor which governs in the higher circles of American political life. In view of the prevailing low standard of commercial honor such rigid and self-denying integrity is little short of marvelous.

Methods of the Whining Czar.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says the Czar is anxious for an armistice, but has been "humbled too much already to ask for it." He is accordingly whimpering to the powers to persuade Japan to agree to an armistice without putting Russia to the humiliation of asking for one.

This situation illustrates Russian policy, Russian methods and the Russian idea of the relative importance of things. Before an armistice can be agreed upon one side or the other must formally propose one. Russia wants Japan to ask for an armistice out of pity for the feelings of the Russian monarch. Could anything be more absurd?

It is not likely that Japan will voluntarily propose an armistice merely to oblige the humbled and perplexed Czar. He would not appreciate the favor. More than likely he would abuse the courtesy by representing to the Russian people that the Japanese were so exhausted and tired of war that they asked the gracious permission of the Czar to stop it. It would be misrepresented at all events. Plainly the Czar is making a juggling attempt to evade confession of defeat, and he is impudent enough to offer his own troubles as an excuse for asking the Japanese to place themselves in the attitude of asking as a favor what Russia craves as a necessity.

THE CHARGE OF THE ELITE BRIGADE.

(Those who were not invited to the reception tendered last evening by Mrs. Eleanor Martin to Secretary of War Taft and Miss Alice Roosevelt, must henceforth consider themselves beyond the pale of San Francisco's haut monde.—News Item.)

Happily, happily, happily onward,
To the reception went 'Frisco's Five Hundred.
"Forward th' Elite Brigade!
You're the Big Guns!" she said—
So to the Social Throne
Rushed the Five Hundred.

Envy behind them volleyed and thundered—
Hurled forth a jealous "D—"
(Sanctioned by Mrs. G—)

Yet 't was not blasphemy,
For, as the Romans count,
D means Five Hundred.

"Forward th' Elite Brigade!"
Say, were the rest dismayed?
Aye—though they all averred
Some one had blundered—
Theirs but to wonder why,
Theirs but to pine and sigh,
Theirs, social death to die.
Good enough—yes, but not Of the Five Hundred.

Honor the choice she made!
Wheat now from chaff is laid—
Henceforth, in 'Frisco town,
Swelldom is numbered:
Know we now who is who,
Know we whose blood is blue,
None will in future do
Save the Five Hundred.

WORSE EVERY YEAR

Plenty of Oakland Readers Have the Same Experience.

Don't neglect an aching back. It will get worse every year. Backache is really kidney ache. To cure the back you must cure the kidneys. If you don't other kidney ills follow—Urinary trouble, diabetes, Bright's disease. An Oakland citizen tells you how—the cure is easy.

D. D. Davis, salesman in dress-goods department of Sallinger's department store, residence No. 1364 Broadway, Alameda, says: "If pain across the back which clings to me persistently for at least twelve months is any indication of kidney complaint then I have it. Some three years ago just such an attack occurred and knowing what I suffered, when I noticed in an Oakland paper that Doan's Kidney Pills were on the market and the kidneys alone, I went to a drug store for a box and tried it. If the results obtained from the treatment had not been effective I never would have gone out of my way to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to personal friends. I know of more than one who has used Doan's Kidney Pills and who are just as emphatic in their endorsement as I." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. THE TALBOT DIVORCE CASE

The divorce suit brought by Mrs. William H. Talbot against her husband has not interested society very much, for both the Talbot boys were well outside it when they set up homes of their own. The great wealth of the Talbots was acquired in the lumber business. The father of Wm. H. and Fred Talbot was a member of one of the original firm of Pope & Talbot, which has been in the lumber business for more than forty years. The foundation of their fortune was laid in supplying San Francisco and the West Coast of South America with lumber, and in the fifties, when Harry Meigs was building railroads in Peru, the lumber used in their construction was all shipped by Pope & Talbot. It was estimated in the seventies that the Puget Sound lumber men made $4 per thousand feet on all lumber cut on the Sound, and Pope & Talbot owned the Port Gamble mill, which cut 51,000,000 feet a year. At this rate they would make $204,000 every year, or over $3,000,000 in forty years. But the cut of this mill has been much greater than this, besides which they own forests, mills, docks, vessels, etc. At the time of the elder Talbot's death, it was estimated that he left his sons from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 each, besides bequests to other members of the family.—Wasp.

THE VESPER SPARROW.

My father did not guess its name,
Some common word was all he knew;
And yet its song was just the same
Sweet cadence of the falling dew.
How oft I've seen him linger, when
His face turned towards the waiting gate,
He paused to hear in twilight then
The vesper calling to its mate.

A little thrill in minor key,
A heart-break bursting into song;
The longing for the love to be,
The plaintive cry or hidden wrong.
My father loved the vesper bird,
His open heart thrilled thru and thru;
Some secret word his spirit heard—
Some message that no other knew.
—Roscoe Brumbaugh in June Lip-pincott's.

THE SEA CAPTAIN.

I am in love with the sea, but I do not trust her yet;
The tall ships she has slain are ill to forget;
Their sails are white in the morning,
their masts are split by noon;
The sun has seen them perish, and the stars, and the moon.

As a man loves a woman, so I love the sea,
And even as my desire of her is her desire of me;
When we meet after parting, we put away regret,
Like lover joined with lover; but I do not trust her yet.

For fierce she is, and strange, and her love is kin to hate;
She must slay whom she desires; she will draw me soon or late
Down into the darkness and silence, to the place of drowned men.
Having her arms about me. And I shall trust her then.
—Gerald Gould in The Spectator.

REAL INDEPENDENCE

Real independence is within the possibilities of every person living on American soil. It is not necessary to be a millionaire to be independent, in fact America's multi-millionaires are less independent than those citizens who have a comfortable guaranteed income. To acquire independence get the habit of doing business through a savings bank. Put away a little at a time, watch it grow and in the years that are to come you will gradually become more and more independent of your fellow-beings and surrounding conditions.

Be thankful you are not in Russia where independence is unknown. In that unhappy country you are not even at liberty to try to lay the foundation for future independence. So bow respectfully to the Stars and Stripes and be thankful that under its protection you can enjoy any rightful privilege that any human being ever enjoyed.

The note read as follows:
"Mr. Brown—Please excuse James for not being present yesterday. He played trobant, but you don't need to thrash him for it, as the boy he played trobant with an' him fell out, an' the boy fought him, an' a man they throo at caught him an' thrashed him, and the driver of a cart they hung on to thrashed him also. Then his father thrashed him, and I had to give him another one for being impudent to me for telling his father, so you need not thrash him until next time. He thinks he better keep in school in future."—Tit-Bits.

TURKISH PROVERBS.

(From the Century Magazine.)
With patience sour grapes become sweet and the mulberry leaf satin.
By the time the wise man gets married the fool has grown-up children.
Give a swift horse to him who tells the truth, so that as soon as he has told it he may ride and escape.
Be not so severe that you are blamed for it, nor so gentle that you are trampled upon for it.
If you have to gather thorns do it by the stranger's hand.

UNCONSCIOUS VERSE-MAKING.
Abraham Lincoln, in his second inaugural address, uttered the following words:
"Fondly do we hope,
Fervently do we pray
That this mighty scourge of war
May speedily pass away.
Yet, if it be God's will
That it continue still—"
and here he dropped back ... prose.

Another curious instance of involuntary rhyme occurs in Whewell's "Mechanics," one of the last books in which verse would be expected:
"There is no force, however great,
Can stretch a cord, however fine,
Into a horizontal line,
That will be accurately straight."

WOMEN Should they do a man's work? BETTY MARTIN makes public closely-guarded SECRETS

WOMAN PLEADS FOR A LIFE BETWEEN WALLS OF PRISON CELL.

Good God, is there no one who can save me? why can't they keep me here for life? I have committed murder, but God knows I was not responsible for what I was doing at the time I did it—Statement of Mrs. Edwards, who is condemned to die on the gallows.

Fears to Face Death on Gallows.

READING, Pa., July 8.—Realization of the penalty of her crime is now for the first time beginning to dawn on Mrs. Kate Edwards, the Berks county murderess, whose application to the Board of Pardons for commutation to a life sentence was refused several days ago.

Up to this time her spirits have been buoyed up by her attorneys, who have been able to keep her from the gallows for four years. Until now she has felt confident that they would be able, at least, to procure commutation of the death sentence.

The action of the Board of Pardons has thrown Mrs. Edwards into abject despair, and although her attorneys, Deysher and Lentz, visit her daily, they are unable to arouse her from the depressed condition into which she has fallen.

"I don't like to be interviewed," she said today.

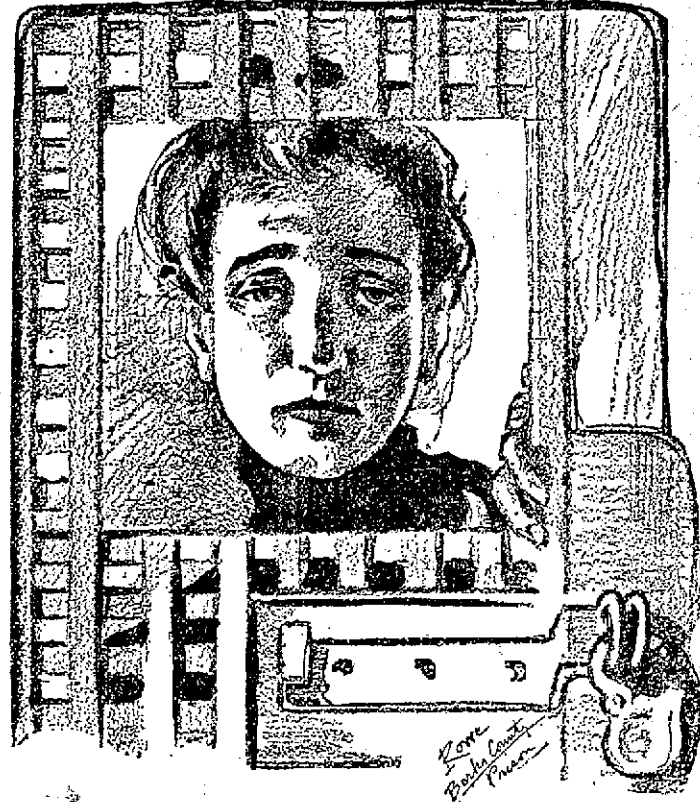

"It's not because I don't want to talk; it's because I don't know what to say."

She stopped for a moment, her upper lip quivered as she almost shouted: "Good God, is there no one who can save me? Why can't they keep me here for life? Why are they so determined to hang me? I have committed murder, but God knows I was not responsible for what I was doing at the time I did it."

"I was in constant fear of my life. If I had but stopped and reasoned it out, I never would have done it. I would have left my husband."

"Since I have been here I have read a great deal of the Bible. Every time I think of my being hanged, that sentence from it comes to me: 'An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.'"

"This is the first time I have felt near death," she said. "I never felt my condition so until now. Every vestige of hope seems to be gone, and I feel as though I had reached the last bridge in the road.

"I don't want to die. Life to me, even behind these big barren prison walls, would be sweet. It would lift from my shoulders a heavy burden, which seems to be pressing me down. I feel as though there was a great weight on my shoulders, which gets heavier as each day passes."

"I have read in a paper about a woman up in Vermont State, named Mrs. Rogers, who is much in the same position as I am. She is fighting for her life, too. I hope to God she wins."

"Were you glad when Greason was acquitted on your confession?" was asked.

"Yes, I am glad he is free. He was innocent, and I hope he will go back to his wife and be a good man for the rest of his life—but," she added, "if it hadn't been for him I never would have murdered my husband. Of course I do not mean to say that Greason was guilty, for he was not there, but if I hadn't known him I should never have been forced to do it."

Counsel for Mrs. Edwards will likely make another move to save her from the gallows. It is possible that the Supreme Court will be petitioned for a new trial. The Edwards case has never been before the Supreme Court; the previous appeals having been in behalf of Greason.

THINGS CONCERNING WOMEN

Lady Edward Cecil, sister-in-law of Lord Salisbury, did splendid work among the sick and wounded during the Boer war. She was Miss Violet Manxse, daughter of the late Admiral Manxse, and as a girl she sat for Millais' picture, "Puss in Boots."

Many of the handsomest summer hats worn by women are literally made from wood "shavings." The finest examples of this industry are produced in Japan, these wooden ribbons appearing in many forms, some of which have almost the delicacy and sheen of satin, while others resemble soft and dainty crepes.

There occurred recently the fiftieth anniversary of the death of Mary Russell Mitford, dear to readers for the sake of "Our Village." In her childhood, lotteries were still popular, and Mary in 1797, became a ticket-holder in one. She insisted on choosing the number 2, 24, because the digits made up the sum of her age. That ticket won her $20,000. Like the $50,000 which her despicable father had had in addition, this sum was wasted by him, and the daughter had at the age of three-and-twenty to settle down to keep him for the rest of his life out of the money which he earned with her pen.

"We women are slaves to custom," said one of them. "If you don't believe it, walk a block or two along the street and look at us. We wear gloves, every one of us. They are hot, to be sure, but we feel like barbarians without them, so we wear them. What is mode, we wear long ones. We have our sleeves made short, because they are cooler so and we heat our arms with long cotton gloves reaching above the elbow. Sensible, isn't it? A good many of us are wearing coats. They are linen coats and lace coats, especially intended for summer. Nevertheless they are totally unnecessary, and make us hot. On the warmest day you can count any number of women ensconced in velvets. I often wonder why it is a man never considers it necessary to tie up his head up in chiffon. Why, the dear creature is so thoroughly emancipated that he can remove his hat and walk serenely along with bare head on a hot day, but a woman can't! She is forever and always—poor soul!—the slave of custom, bound to do those things she has always done, and which other women are still doing."

A Kansas farmer wanted a set of false teeth and wrote to a Topeka dentist thus: "My mouth is three inches across five-eighths thru the jaw. I'm hummocky on the side, shaped something like a horse shoe, toe forward. If you want me to be more particular I'd have to come up there."

Lady Yarmouth, whose marriage took place about two years ago, was Miss Alice Thaw of Washington, writes an English correspondent. She is fair and girlish-looking and, like her husband, her manners are pleasant and easy rather than smart and conventional. The young countess was a particularly well-dowered bride, but the possession of wealth has not spoiled the simplicity of her character and she has many friends among all classes.

For genuine comfort and economy commends to the shirt-waist suit of dark china silk," said the woman who wore one. "They are the nicest inventions in the world for business women. China silk is not hot, like taffeta. I find it infinitely cooler than linen and more comfortable on a hot day than anything else I have ever worn. Dark blue or black do not soil like the light wash suits that need constant tubbing. Besides these two qualities of coolness and economy, which mean a great deal to a working woman, a china silk suit is neat and even quietly elegant and, with fresh white collar and cuffs it makes the business woman presentable for travel or any emergency."

The untying of the marriage knot is a simple affair in Burma. If a husband and wife decide that life together is an impossibility, she goes out and buys two little candles of equal size, made especially for the use of the unhappily wedded. She brings the candles home, and then she and her husband sit down upon the floor, placing the candles between them. The candles are lighted at the same moment, and one represents the husband, the other the wife. The pair watch the burning tapers anxiously, for custom decrees that the owner of the one which goes out first is at once to leave the house. The second candle may have flickered out only a moment later, but its possessor remains owner of the house and all its contents, his or her late partner going away with nothing but the clothes worn at the moment.

AVERAGE MAN'S IDEA OF DOMESTIC LIFE.

Then he proceeds to establish the dove-cote where she experiences the pain and sorrow and delights of motherhood, and by way of variety indulges in the recreation of washing dishes, cooking good things for him to eat, and keeping his hearth clean. She may also, if she will, darn his socks and shut the bureau drawers which he forgets to close.—BETTY MARTIN.

One of the most popular weeklies enters a mild protest against girls engaging in a chosen field of labor.

Quoting an extract:

"Some young women now receiving diplomas are squandering their youthful shoulders for men's work."

Going further the editor reverts to that primitive sentiment of Kipling—the one which earned that dark-eyed, swarthy gentleman so large a share of unpopularity, and which reads: "Now the reserve of a boy is tenfold deeper than the reserve of a maid, she being made for one end only by blind Nature, but man has several."

After bringing this little sentiment to the front, the writer gives it as his opinion that "the one end only" which women of these times disclaim—sometimes a little truculently, is a good half of all the business of the world. Setting aside the asinine assertion that "blind Nature" created women for one purpose only, as unworthy of discussion, it might be well to make a few pertinent inquiries as to how men have fitted themselves for the performance of the various "reserves" bestowed upon them by "blind Nature."

How many of them are fitted physically to become fathers of families? It is almost an exception to find sons of wealthy parents who are not weakened by excesses due to drink and indulgence of that passion to which the race of mortals owes its existence.

How many young men are there, who plan deliberately to become fathers? Few, indeed. The desire for children seldom comes in the flush of manhood. This longing for offspring—this desire for some one to perpetuate the family name, usually comes to a man when he has "settled down"—after he has sown his wild oats, and after he has gutted himself to repletion upon the fruits of "the world, the flesh and the devil."

Then it is that he becomes a candidate for kingdom come, and thinks that it would be nice to have a home, a wife and children. It matters not that he has wasted his substance in notorious living, and has not the means to provide a home in accordance with his habits of life that counts little with a man when he goes forth to conquer a wife to bear him children. Such a man invariably hunts about after some little inexperienced creature just out of school. Usually, aided by his worldly experience and art, he wins her.

Then he proceeds to establish the dove-cote where she experiences the pain and sorrow and delights of motherhood, and by way of variety indulges in the recreation of washing dishes, cooking good things for him to eat, and keeping his hearth clean. She may also, if she will, darn his socks and shut the bureau drawers which he forgets to close.

That is the average man's idea of domestic life. Men never did and never do propose to fit themselves for fatherhood, any more than the women of today propose to limit themselves strictly to the business of child-bearing.

The shirkers from motherhood usually have good reasons. More often than not it is because the man who has sworn to love and cherish his mate has betrayed his trust and proven untrue.

Often he is unable to educate a family in accordance with the requirements of civilized society.

And at best, men are selfish. They demand much, and give little in return.

Some women there be bold enough to express the sentiment that all that the best man in the world is good for is to make a living for some woman.

Taken from that point of view, a good many men are dead failures.

According to Californian law, it is a crime for any but a graduate druggist to compound a prescription. Well and good! But how about the wholesale departments, where drugs of every description are put forth, to be used by a confiding community?

There is no law governing the employment of work-ers in that field and wholesale druggists have not been slow to grasp the fact.

In every wholesale drug store in San Francisco girls are employed to do the work of preparation for the market. They mix and measure powders of all descriptions, they prepare every sort of standard remedy requiring precision and nicety. To be sure these girls are given explicit directions as to proportions but what of that? The fact remains that the majority of these young girls so employed have little knowledge and less care regarding the dangerous qualities of the compounds concocted.

Druggists employ young girls in their establishments for two reasons only—they are nimble-fingered and work for less money than would either a boy or a man. And the latter is the chief reason why girls are hired by the wholesale druggists.

Girls are given from three dollars a week up according to the dexterity with which they perform their tasks. Few of them ever dream of rising in the drug business. A woman druggist is a rarity. With girls so employed it is a mere question of making a few dollars as a makeshift. They take to it not from any natural liking, nor from special ability. They do not make any preparation whatever for the calling.

Wholesale druggists are invariably rich. It is a business of large profits, and comparatively small outlay. If consulted about the employment of inexperienced girls at starvation wages, the prosperous gentlemen running these lucrative shops will probably laugh to scorn the idea that any young girl employed by him handles deadly drugs. But there are hundreds of people who know differently.

The State Legislature should be forced to take recognition of this fact, and none except graduate workers allowed to touch one particle of goods issued from wholesale drug establishments.

Speaking of large profits, two of the wealthiest men in San Francisco are engaged in the patent medicine business. Something over twenty years ago these brothers were comparatively poor men. Now they are many times millionaires.

Regarding the merit of their wares I know not. But I do know that since entering San Francisco their profits have been so enormous that they have engaged in active operations both in Canada and in France.

In San Francisco their manufacturing department is a model of cleanliness, conducted on the most up to date sanitary lines. The girls are uniformed, and are obliged to change clothing upon entering and leaving. Every precaution is used in the preparation of the goods sent out.

On the other hand, the hours of work are long, and starvation wages paid. Wages are raised from time to time, but no girl can support herself and do that work.

In the neighborhood of three dozen typewriters are employed in this single establishment. Each and every typist is required to furnish her own machine, and most of them are paid the magnificent sum of thirty dollars per month.

Small wonder that patent medicine men grow rich and powerful.

BATHING COSTUMES WHAT ONE MUST WEAR TO BE FASHIONABLE

I have reserved the bathing suit for the last of my summer discourses, and a very important subject it is. So much depends upon this garment if you have not a perfect figure. If you are svelte and tall and of good figure you really do not have to expend much care upon the bathing costume. But for those inclined to embonpoint who are fond of swimming a bathing costume comfortable and smart is a difficult question.

I recommend for those so endowed black satin, of a very heavy and firm quality; the waist and skirt in one, bathing tights being worn instead of knickerbockers. The waist, of course, should be lined, and from my point of view always high in the neck. A collar is more chic on a bathing suit than a low neck. The sleeves should be elbow or shorter if preferred.

Many women wear corsets in bathing, but I do not approve of them. For ordinary figures no support is necessary, and for those inclined to stoutness a bust supporter is infinitely preferable to a bathing corset.

The costume that I have described is not to be found in all the ready-made shops. The nearest approach to it that I have seen, however, is a good-looking bathing suit made of black pearly-de-cygne. The blouse, which is in wide tucks, has a shallow square neck, and short puffed sleeves, both outlined with bands embroidered in polka dots, also in black. The blouse is attached to the knickerbockers and the skirt is shirred about the hips.

It is interesting to note the difference in cut between the bathing suits seen at French watering places and those worn in America. Excepting on Americans, one rarely sees a belted blouse and skirt at a French resort. Most of the French bathing costumes consist of knickers and a Russian blouse that ends a very short distance below the hip-line. This sounds quite horrifying, but then you must remember the ever-present bathing cloak. You never see a French woman in her bathing suit except in the water, and the moment she emerges her maid is waiting with a most picturesque garment that envelops her entirely.

Many of the fads in this season's fashions are reproduced in the bathing suit—for instance, the suspender model—but none of these extremes is in good taste. A plain, well-fitting dark suit, preferably of silk, is more desirable, to my mind, although there are many who prefer mohair, and some who will cling to flannel in spite of its weight.

A very desirable and light material for bathing suits is "gloria," a combination of silk and wool, which with its lightness combines the advantage of being very waxy.

The bathing sandals which have been put upon the market this season are a great improvement on its predecessors. They are of a much better cut and lace across the instep, having a slight heel, which makes it much more comfortable for walking.

Some very effective bathing caps are also shown. For instance, a white rubberized silk with tiny black polka dots has an elastic in the cap, over which the bandana ends tie in a coquettish bow. Another cap, also with an elastic, has a brim which gives quite a poke bonnet effect, and is very becoming.

While men's bathing suits are not at all in my province, I must describe one style which I thought particularly swell. Of course, the heavy silk jersey cloth is quite smart, but this two-piece suit was of the finest and silkiest of wool jersey cloth in a dark Havana brown, and as a finish had inch-wide stripes of black.

The popularity of white linen and cloth costumes has evidently been responsible for the new wrist bag which has just made its appearance in white enameled leather. It is of comparatively small size when one considers its fittings—opera glasses, pencils, mirror, powder puff and various other necessary trifles for a day at the races.

One of the smartest linen gowns I have ever seen this season is worn by Miss Post. It is of cuir-colored linen—quite an unusual shade—the skirt in the princess style. The short Eton has collar and cuffs of black linen embroidered in white in the eyelid embroidery.

I am glad to see that Mrs. Arthur Isehn (Eleanor Jay) is lightening her mourning. The gray accordion-plaited silk gown with white gumples is much more becoming to her than all black.

The white serge or flannel suits with bias line of blue or black made in three-quarter coats and plaited skirts are very smart, but I fail to see why Miss Cynthia Roche, with her over-slender figure, should have her coat fitted so absurdly tight. However, I have often observed that a very slender woman likes to accentuate that fact.—Lady Modish in Town Topics.

Imitation preserved ginger is easily made. Get three pounds of vegetable marrow, three pounds of loaf sugar, one ounce of ground ginger and the rind and juice of two lemons. Peel the marrow, take out the seeds and slice into pieces about an inch thick and two or three inches long; strain the lemon juice and cut the rind very fine; put all the ingredients into a stewpan and boil all together till clear—about an hour. Tie down as for other preserves.

Some housewives have suggested that cereals for a summer breakfast be prepared the day before, set to cool in molds and served cold, with rich cream. This plan is not always advisable, however, for most cereals are more easily digested when hot. If the summer cereals are cooked in half milk and half water, they are very nourishing. Rice, unsweetened, is delicious when cooked in this way, and is appropriate with strawberries. It is also a good dish dietically for summer.

Above all things, the housekeeper who wishes to tempt dull appetites in hot weather must make the table look attractive to the eye. Almost any breakfast will taste better if served on a neatly arranged table with a centerpiece of some delicately colored blossoms in a clear glass vase, with a bit of ice on the cucumbers or other green things, and the table linen snow white. A few pieces of pale green Japanese china make a table look still more refreshing if used only in combination with delicate blue and white ware.

Two years ago Miss Anna Miller, a teacher of Rhodes school, Philadelphia, considered herself slandered and unjustly dismissed. Failing to get a lawyer to take up her case, she began to study for the bar. She was recently admitted, then she filed her action, and, though she had experienced lawyers against her, she managed to defeat them; got damages and completely vindicated her character.

FASHION NOTES.

Sleeves are decidedly smaller with the fullness all above the elbow and mostly at the shoulder, and are nearly all short, the cuff never reaching farther than half-way between elbow and wrist. They usually have pretty and very daintily lingerie cuffs, either of several little puffs of lace and tucked lawn or of row upon row of knife-plaited, inch-wide valenciennes. These cuffs extend to the elbow.

For those to whom blue is unbecoming—and these be few, so wide is the range of tints and tinges in this delightful coloring—the rose pinks and reds are offered. These go better in the stuffs that have not naturally a very high luster. The silk-warp Henriettes take those half-tones exquisitely; and the artistic colorings in these are really more than half the secret of their extreme popularity with the best of houses in Paris.

A smart negligee hat for summer frocks is a large, soft felt in pale gray or pale copper color, its crown slightly dented, its brim is rolled up across the front and fastened with a small wreath of roses in pastel shades, or in faded colors, and about the crown there is only a silk cord. More chic than any for tailored linens, or with a white serge yachting dress, is one of these large slouch felts in black, cocked up in front with a gold buckle and a twist of black velvet ribbon, and circled about the crown with a large wreath of small faded roses without leaves or of pale-blue silk poppies. The idea is that of the eighteenth century felt shepherdess hats that were worn by the ladies of Versailles.

The lace gowns are the smartest of all—not made entirely of lace, but of the many different transparent materials, of which there are such a number to choose from; lace by the yard or in figures and medallions is most exquisitely introduced. Two or three different kinds of lace will be combined in the one gown, and the effect be most exquisite.

One revival of crinoline times which has met with a most cordial acceptance is the hairnet. In its lightest form it is of human hair and absolutely invisible when well matched. This does beautifully for the girl of delicately chiseled features and spiritual expression. But the girl whose type and air are more strongly expressed will favor the silk-meshed nets, especially those that have a glistening bead caught in the meshes, and she, too, will take to the new Juliet headdress of flexible wire and pearls that is quite the latest thing for evening wear when en grande toilette.

The popular material is voile of so sheer a quality as to closely resemble chiffon. It is striped, waved, checked, dotted and embroidered in all the delicate shades, and is almost invariably made over white taffeta. In dark colors—dark blues and browns—are shown, and these are also made over white and trimmed usually of taffeta made of the same color as the gown. The girdles are of the voile, tightly drawn. Soft silk, an entirely new fabric resembling seolun, is another popular material. It comes in all colors and is either checked, striped or solid. Taffetas are striped and of light weight.

England's house of commons recently voted by 164 majority to make women eligible as aldermen and members of the borough councils. The debate was intensely interesting. The bill was presented by Dr. Shipman of Northampton, who proposed that it be made lawful for women to be elected to act as councilors and aldermen of county and borough councils. He said that they had served on school boards and were acknowledged to be useful and suggested that there were many branches of public work in which women might co-operate, citing, for examples, the girls' industrial, the female pauper side of the lunatic asylums, etc.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Fifty-six fleas of large girth, were witnesses yesterday in the complaint of Mrs. Minnie Voss, of No. 312 Jersey Avenue, against James A. Martin, before Judge Higgins, of the First Criminal Court in Jersey City.

Mr. Martin, who renovates mattresses he obtains from the steamships in a Jersey Avenue factory, was accused of maintaining a "flea factory," producing in quantities the type of fleas in court.

The flea witnesses were not there of their own free will to testify against themselves and their alleged benefactor. In fact, they were perfectly innocent in the matter of taking sides, for they were all dead fleas.

This latter fact made the proceedings in court much more placid than would otherwise have been possible, for they were partly fleas. Mrs. Voss explained very volubly that they were foreigners.

She said she was born in Germany, a fact no one disputed, and she recalled these fleas the minute she saw them. Another thing about them, she said, was the vicious way they took hold.

Judge Higgins was interested. Mrs. Anna Mundt, of Eighteenth and Grove streets, took the stand to tell of a visit to Mrs. Voss's house. She said she went home feeling as if a swarm of bees had attacked her.

Miss Freia Voss, daughter of the complainant, told of battles with fleas in her sewing room.

Martin, the defendant, listened placidly. He put several large-eyed, innocent-looking employees on the stand to say that they had never "once had so much as a flea bite yet."

Mr. Martin in his own behalf admitted that there were "a few fleas" in some of the mattresses, but he said he had heard no complaints until Mrs. Voss started hers.

The Judge pondered. He had received no proof that either the fleas or court or those that might be wandering around the Voss home waiting the return of the owner, actually came from Martin's "flea factory."

Then he advised Mrs. Voss to have the Board of Health investigate Martin's factory and demand the fleas.

WOULD EVANGELIZE THE WHOLE WORLD.

Movement is Inaugurated at the Epworth League Convention in Denver.

DENVER, July 8.—The Seventh International Epworth League convention today inaugurated a movement providing for its object the Evangelization of the whole world.

At the morning session in Trinity Methodist Episcopal and Central Presbyterian churches and Coliseum Hall, cards were distributed on which was printed a pledge to work prayerfully and earnestly for the extension of the league and its principles.

The signing of these cards by the delegates will be one of the most important events of the convention.

The morning sessions here classified on the program under the heading "personal service," and many interesting experiences were related and valuable suggestions were offered by the speakers.

The afternoon was given over to excursions into the mountains, and a peak on the new Denver, Northwest and Pacific Railroad was formally dedicated as Mount Epworth.

BALTIMORE, July 8.—Today is "Excursion Day" to the 3,000 Christian Endeavorers now attending the national convention. The visitors and delegates are off today, on three different excursions to Washington, Gettysburg and down the Chesapeake Bay.

CANNOT TRANSFER EXCLUSION LEAGUE PRISONER IN SESSION

JUDGE MAKES THE ORDER IN THE CALEB-POWERS CASE. PLANS ARE BEING DISCUSSED TO CARRY ON THE WORK.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., July 8.—It has been stated that Judge Stout of the Circuit Court, who is to call the Caleb Powers case for trial on Monday, has given orders to Jailer Finley not to allow under any circumstances the transfer of Powers from his charge until after the trial, no matter what decision was made by Judge Cochran, and that the prosecuting attorney concurs in the order.

As Judge Cochran granted the writ of habeas corpus and directed that Powers be removed to the jail at Newport, Kentucky, a clash of authority may occur when the order of the United States Judge is put into effect.

A round-the-table talk was held by the members of the Chinese, Japanese and Korean Exclusion League of Alameda County last night at 453 Eighth street. The principal subject discussed was ways and means of raising funds with which to carry on the work of the League.

After a lengthy discussion, the matter was referred to a special finance committee of seven, which will meet tomorrow evening and decide upon a plan to raise money, and report to the League at a meeting which will be held Friday evening.

Contributions were given to the finance committee to arrive immediately for a mass meeting, which will be held at the Madisonian theater for the consideration of the exclusion question. A band will be procured, and every effort will be made to address the meeting upon the exclusion question.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S WIFE IN CHORUS

PORTLAND, Or., July 8.—Eleanor Dole, divorced wife of former Attorney-General Dole of Hawaii, is in the chorus with the Kolb & Dill Company at the Marquand Theater. It was in the spring of 1900 that Judge Dole met his wife, since divorced. She was then a comely girl in San Francisco society, the debutante of a social season and many years the junior of the Judge. But he loved her and he urged his suit. With friends she went to Hawaii and was the guest of the Attorney-General in his beautiful home a short distance from Honolulu, where his suit was pressed again, and she accepted him. The wedding at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, was one of the most brilliant events.

They went to Honolulu, and for a time were happy, but one day a discordant note was struck. The realization that age cannot be happy with youth occurred to both of them. They were incompatible. She returned to San Francisco at the end of two years, having agreed to give him a divorce.

SURPRISE PARTY AT ELMHURST

ELMHURST, July 8.—Friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Tiedeman of Roosevelt avenue surprised that couple last Thursday evening with a pleasant party. Several of the guests were musically inclined and furnished a delightful program of instrumental and vocal selections. An instrumental trio was a prominent feature. The players were M. E. Allen (violin), Carl Dierich (cornet), and James J. O'Toole (piano). Many of the others favored with songs and duets.

Before the supper was prepared by the ladies, a few rounds of whist were played. Four prizes were given, being won by the following: Mrs. J. J. O'Toole, Mrs. M. E. Allen, A. McGinniss and John Tiedeman.

Supper followed in the dining room. Afterward there were several speeches rendered extemporaneously. Mr. Tiedeman delivered an eloquent speech of welcome.

The guests who attended were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Pelton, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Faulkes, Mr. and Mrs. E. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. A. McGinniss, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. O'Toole, Mr. and Mrs. John Tiedeman, Misses Ella and Grace Faulkes, Grace Faulkes, A. Nuttall, Roy Allen, J. L. O'Toole, Carl Dierich.

HAD SOME FUN FLAGGING TRAINS

ALAMEDA, July 8.—Denny Murphy, a switchman residing in Oakland, was arrested by Detective Brown, of Alameda, yesterday, for being intoxicated. He was amusing himself by flagging trains with a flaring red bandana handkerchief.

Denny is still in the local police station.

WILL TAKE LEAVING TRIP. James S. Nasmith leaves Saturday with his family for a two-to-three weeks' camping trip through Sonoma and Mendocino counties. They will be accompanied by Chas. H. Cowell and family.

Water or Milk Pitcher

The prettiest piece of "press cut" glass we ever saw—9 people out of 10 would take it for cut glass ten feet away—sharp, brilliant and heavy—a beautiful pattern and an artistic shape. These pitchers are 10 inches high and will answer for lemonade, water or milk—exactly like the picture above and worth about 3 times our special price.

Only one will be sold to each person. No telephone orders will be received and none will be delivered. It is not necessary, however, to buy anything else to get a pitcher.

NO LONGER HIS BOARD OF TRADE DARLING TO BUILD

AGED MAN IS SUED FOR DIVORCE BY HIS YOUNG WIFE. SITE IS SOON TO BE PURCHASED FOR NEW STRUCTURE.

SAN JOSE, July 8.—The announcement of the filing of a suit for divorce by Mrs. Ella McAneny against her husband, George D. McAneny, who advertised her as an extravagant, created a sensation in San Jose's upper strata of society where the dashing young wife of the aged stock grower is well known.

Almost without exception the feminine side of San Jose is for the fair plaintiff and not a few of the younger male members of the family set are outspoken in their praises and denunciations of the husband for not granting every wish and whim of the wife.

Mrs. McAneny has been a leading figure in society ever since as the beautiful Miss Clement, she made her debut twelve years ago. Then came her marriage with John Sisson, a man much older than herself, but very wealthy. Their married life was not a happy one and Sisson made complaint that she was too extravagant.

He repudiated some of her bills and she promptly sued him for divorce.

The filing of the suit brought on a seizure of some sort and Sisson took to his bed and his doctors stated that he would not recover. Sisson's withdrawal from the public and his wife's later, when Sisson died intestate, she came into the bulk of his property.

As the rich Mrs. Sisson, the young widow became more popular than she was as a girl and when after two years of widowhood, she announced her engagement to George D. McAneny, one of the wealthiest ranchers and stock growers in the State, another sensation was created.

McAneny was sixty-five years of age and the bride was twenty-eight. They married life on the big McAneny ranch near Lawrence station, ten miles from San Jose, was not pleasant, and San Francisco, New York and Boston, and Europe saw a great deal of the wife within three years after her marriage. Then came practically a separation and it is said that for the past two years McAneny and his wife have been such in name only.

McAneny has indulged his wife's taste for fine clothing and other luxuries to a large extent, and surprise was caused by the publication of his warnings to the public that he would pay bills only for board and lodging and ordinary clothing. Mrs. McAneny felt so outraged that she promptly called in her San Francisco attorney and on Monday afternoon filed her divorce bill, coupling it with a demand for $1,000 per month alimony.

George D. McAneny, the husband, heard of the proceedings on Saturday night. On Monday morning he came to San Jose and McAneny then went to San Francisco. He returned to his Lawrence home last night, but left again early this morning to answer his wife's suit. The boy in diving struck his back and was paralyzed from the neck down.

Mrs. McAneny occupies magnificent apartments at the Hotel Vendome. Only select friends are admitted by the lady.

NATIVE SONS ARE HOSTS

LIVERMORE LODGE ENTERTAINS BY GIVING FOURTH OF JULY DANCE.

LIVERMORE, July 8.—Despite the fact that the Fourth of July was an unusually hot day and that a large number of persons were in attendance at celebrations at other places, the dance given by the Native Sons at Sweeney's Opera House was well attended, there being about ninety couples present.

The music was furnished by a San Jose orchestra and was exceptionally good. The hall was prettily decorated in red, white and blue. The committee in charge exerted themselves to make the evening a pleasant one. Light refreshments were served in the basement.

TEACHERS ELECTED. The following teachers have been elected to positions on the High School faculty for the coming year: William J. Connell, principal; Charles L. Thompson, vice-principal; and Miss Margaret McKeany, Miss Beatrice Snow and Miss Elizabeth Whitmore. The school will reopen August 7.

TRIP ON HORSEBACK. A party consisting of Misses May and Kate Conannon, Dollie McKown and Bessie Elliott, and Messrs. William Lowenthal and James and Joe Conannon spent the early portion of the week in a horseback trip to Mount Hamilton.

PERSONALS. Mrs. J. B. Stone and children are in Hayward on a short visit.

Frank Harp of San Francisco spent the Fourth of July with his mother and sister, Mrs. S. J. Harp and Miss Myrtle Harp.

Mrs. F. M. Van Dyke of Sheridan, Placer county, is spending two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Cull.

Mrs. O. M. Phillips and daughter, Mrs. C. Beck, are in San Francisco on a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Coffman will leave this week for a trip East. They will visit Mrs. Coffman's home in Illinois.

Dr. Warner is confined to his home with stomach trouble and it will be several days before he can be out.

Green's August Flower Is the most popular remedy on the globe for the cure of all stomach, digestive, liver troubles and habitual constipation, with their miserable effects. We advertised as a test in 7,680 newspapers all over the United States for any case where August Flower was used that did not give satisfaction. Only three cases of failure in thousands of letters; two of these were cancer of the stomach. Price 25c and 50c per bottle at all druggists.

Cleanse the stomach and restore and tone it up by using Lash's Bitters.

To look a man in a burning building and then tell him to come out and clear himself is just as reasonable as to boycott Tahiti Beer without a hearing or a reason.

NOTICE. Dr. W. J. Wilcox has returned and will resume practice in East Oakland.

SCENE IN BIG TREE GROVE, SHOWING THE MODERN WAWONA HOTEL AND COTTAGES.

MARVELOUS BEAUTY OF BIG SHIPS FOR WAWONA PACIFIC

World-Famed Big Trees and Modern Hotel Where Every Want of the Tourist is Supplied.

The number of visitors to Wawona and Yosemite Valley this year is greatly in excess of that of any previous year, but still the accommodations have not been exceeded, and, as a consequence, it is possible for the tourists to enjoy to the fullest the indescribable charm of this great wonderland of the world.

The traveler who desires to see everything in this region at which the civilized world has marvelled for years, must not fail to pay a visit to Wawona, which is the home of the world-renowned Mariposa Big Trees.

Residents of this section are accustomed to go into raptures over the ramifying branches and giant trunks of the hoary oaks of the campus of the University of California at Berkeley, but those features are not to be considered for a moment when compared in size, age and majesty with the Big Trees of Wawona. Imagine a tree with a circumference of ninety-three feet, with branches six feet in diameter, and you will get some idea of some of these great trees, out at the same time, the venerable and venerated oaks at Berkeley fade from mental view.

TREES AND SUBLIMITY.
Imagine then these same Big Trees rising heavenward until their tops pierce the clouds, and the next thought which will suggest itself is, when did this grove of arbor giants first have being? How many years—ages—have they seen pass into eternity? And then the beholder becomes lost in a series of speculations as to how little and transitory, after all, is man, as compared with nature, the marvellous handiwork of which he finds around him everywhere in Wawona.

MEANING OF WAWONA.
The name given to this place was bestowed upon the trees by the aboriginal inhabitants of this imposing spot, and means what the place has been styled, viz., the "Big Trees."

Wawona, however, does not depend alone upon its mammoth arbors as a resort for the tourist. Here one may find ease, rest, luxurious accommodations, grateful surroundings and an atmosphere that is invigorating and health-giving.

APPEALS TO EVERYONE.
It appeals to every taste, and satisfies every craving. Here may be found the weary merchant, the professional man seeking recuperation, the student delving into the secrets of nature in mountain and plain, and the artist making a study of the rugged mountains, domes, waterfalls, lakes and meadows. There is no more beautiful summer resort in the world, and if there be such a place as elysium on this sphere it must indeed be within the bounds of Wawona.

Tourists, when they reach this spot are so carried away by the solemnity and sublimity of the place that they find language valueless in giving expression to the thoughts which fill their minds. Many of them remain here for weeks at a time and experience and uplifting of the soul, which is ever after present with them.

It is unnecessary to go into a detailed reference to the many features which here enchant the visitor, but in passing it may be stated that outside the Big Trees there are Signal Peak, Wawona Meadow, Chinualna Falls, The Grotto, Mt. Raymond, Glacier Lakes, Wawona Springs, the Fish Hatchery, and a hundred other things, all of which are within easy reach of the tourist by means of walks, drives and trails, passage along which is at all times in itself a pleasure of the highest order.

Here, too, is located the studio of Thomas Hill, who has become noted for his paintings of Yosemite and places on the Pacific Coast.

ON THE ROAD.
The tourist over the Southern Pacific route leaves the train at Raymond, and there enters upon his run by stage into the valley. This run is made in conveyances of the Yosemite Stage and Turnpike Company, which are strongly built, yet ride with the ease of rubber-tired barouches. They are driven by men who have, for years, been in the employ of the company, and who, like the magnificent horses employed, know every inch of the road. These stages excel in point of comfort anything in use anywhere for mountain travel. They were built expressly to overcome the lurching and the rocking motion of the ordinary stage coach complained of so much by travelers. They are veritable mountain Pullmans, and a ride in them is as grateful and easy as that of modern palace cars.

The run from Raymond to Wawona is only forty-two miles.

WAWONA HOTEL.
At the end of that run the tourist finds luxurious comfort in the Wawona Hotel and the cottages and tents which comprise what is known as Camp Wawona.

The situation of Wawona Hotel is ideal. It is in a grateful indentation in the giant hills, with mountain meadow, crystal trout streams, several dainty lakes, ice-cold springs and Chinualna Falls roaring down a declivity of 2,000 feet, the whole forming a scene impressive and sublime. At Wawona Hotel the tourist can live as luxuriously as he can in a fashionable hotel at home, or as simply as needs be in the camp or adjacent cottages, where abundance of everything required for the sustenance or comfort of the tourist may be supplied at most reasonable rates.

The Wawona Hotel is ably managed by the well known firm of Washburn Brothers.

COMPANY MAY BUY ANOTHER STEAMER

The reorganization committee of the Watsonville Transportation Company and the officers of the company held a meeting last evening, the outcome of which was very successful. The outlook now is that the company will soon own another and smaller steamer besides the P. A. Kiburn, which will be operated between Port Watsonville and San Francisco. The company has had some difficulties in the past, but clear sailing is expected for the future.

THINK FLORENCIA IS LOCATED

DIVERS TRYING TO FIND TREASURE SHIP OF THE SPANISH ARMADA.

NEW YORK, July 8.—A cable to the Sun from Tobermory, Scotland, says: James Gush, a famous West of Scotland diver, has begun work at the scene of the wreck of the Florencia, the treasure ship of the Spanish Armada, which was cast away on the coast of Scotland while trying to make its way back to Spain after the Armada's defeat. Within a few hours he had sufficient proofs in the form of sword blades to show that the divers were in close proximity to the treasure ship. Later on he discovered what he believes the crumpled rotted frame of the Florencia. It was half buried in the mud, but from what pieces of wood and brass he collected it was probable the main portion of the wreck, after having blown up and sunk, was scattered about the sea-floor by the tides through three centuries.

The Duke of Argyll is carrying on the search for the treasure ship, just as preceding Dukes of Argyll have done since 1642. The present Duke has the advantage of modern diving apparatus. Should he find the Florencia's treasure, the major part of it will be taken by the Crown under the law of treasure trove.

BIG CARNIVAL OF SPORTS BEGUN

PORTLAND, Or., July 8.—The first seven events of the Pacific Northwest Association championship games took place yesterday on the Lewis and Clark stadium. The weather was perfect and some good records were made.

The 100-yard dash was not run as fast as expected, but this was due to the fact that Smithson, who is a 10-foot man, has a loose tendon and was unable to do himself justice. Williams, who is Smithson's running mate, got first place in the 100-yard dash. McDonald of Seattle broke the Northwest record in the 55-pound weight, making a throw of 27 feet 9 1/2 inches. Fast time was made in the 440-yard run by Williams, who did this event in 50 3/5 seconds. Following is the summary of events:

100-yard dash—Williams won. Smithson second. Moore third. Time, 10 2/5.

16-pound shot—McDonald, S. A. C., 40 feet 10 inches; Grant, M. A. C., 40 feet 6 1/2 inches; second, James, M. A. C., 38 feet 5 inches; third, Williams, M. A. C., 38 feet 5 inches.

440-yard run—Williams, M. A. C., won; Greenhaw, M. A. C., second; Hutton, S. A. C., third. Time, 50 3/5.

Broad jump—Prissell, M. A. C., won, 22 feet 6 1/2 inches; Grant, S. A. C., second, 19 feet 10 inches; Hutton, M. A. C., third, 18 feet 10 inches.

One-mile run—Harris, S. A. C., won; Gates, M. A. C., second; Coyle, S. A. C., third. Time, 4:47 3/5.

55-pound weight—McDonald, S. A. C., won, 27 feet 9 1/2 inches; Johnson, M. A. C., second, 24 feet 10 inches; Hutton, M. A. C., third, 24 feet 11 inches.

220-yard hurdles—Prissell, M. A. C., won; Dowd, S. A. C., second; Moore, M. A. C., third. Time, 27 3/5.

The remaining events, eight in number, are being contested today.

Miss Gretchen Kinzel left last Saturday for Gualala, Mendocino county, where she will spend several weeks visiting friends.

FOURTH OF JULY OUTING.

CLOVERDALE, July 8.—Fourth of July on the McCray's ranch was the most enjoyable on record and again proved the qualities of the genial host and hostess at the "old homestead," as evidenced by their 200 guests, composed of old and new bay city friends.

The program of the day was started by a gun salute at 5 a. m. under the direction of Major W. F. Baxter of Oakland, who, attired in a natty tin soldier's suit, aroused the guests for 6 o'clock mess, preparatory for an early start to enjoy an old time country picnic at Preston's Lake, situated on the celebrated Preston ranch five miles distant and up the mountain overlooking the Russian river.

At 10 o'clock, under the direction of Capt. W. S. McCray, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Preston (guest of honor), Messrs. Bradley, Dunham, Ewing and Mrs. Arthur McCray, a literary and musical program was enjoyed, followed by the orator of the day, the Honorable Seth Mann, who, in his usual scholarly style, paid a glowing tribute to American manhood as exemplified in our illustrious leader of today, Theodore Roosevelt, also the scholarly statesman and diplomat, John Hay, recently deceased. The exercises were concluded by the singing of "America," under the direction of Mrs. Arthur McCray, assisted by an able chorus, and the entire assemblage of several hundred guests.

Following this the field course exercises were indulged in under the direction of W. S. Baxter, chairman; Max Taft, starter, Mr. Bradley, Judge Snook, J. Cal. Ewing and Leslie Rice, judges; C. W. Gause, scorer, and referee, and resulted in the awarding of valuable prizes as follows:

Ladies' egg race, 100 feet—First prize, cut glass puff box, Mrs. Arthur McCray; second prize, sterling silver belt buckle, Mrs. M. J. Layman; third prize, sterling silver blouse set, Mrs. Fred Baumgartner.

Boys' race, over fourteen years, 100 yards—First prize, fountain pen, Will Foster; second prize, pocket knife, Leland Dunham; third prize, baseball, Harold Naylor.

Over ten years and to fourteen, 100 yards—First prize, kodak, Dalton Mann; second prize, pocket knife, Gerry Davis; third prize, drinking cup, Thurlow Baumgartner.

Ten years and under, 100 yards—First prize, fishing rod, Garwood Simons; second prize, pocket knife, Preston Snook; third prize, drinking cup, Sumner Litchfield.

Girls' race, over fourteen years, seventy-five yards—First prize, solid silver souvenir spoon, Miss Edna Towle; second prize, bottle perfume, Hazel Naylor; third prize, box of paper, Maria Dieckman.

Over ten years and to fourteen, seventy-five yards—First prize, solid silver souvenir spoon, Helen Dabney; second prize, bottle perfume, Marjorie Reiger; third prize, hand mirror, Clotilla Fealisen.

Ten years and under, fifty yards—First prize, blouse set, Marguerite

Hendy; second prize, bottle perfume Jeannette Gause; third prize, hand mirror, Edna Schrader.

Fat man's race, fifty yards—First prize, fountain pen, Col. W. S. McCray; second prize, brier pipe in case, J. Cal. Ewing; third prize, shaving soap, Honorable Seth Mann.

Lean man's race, fifty yards—First prize, brier pipe, Leslie Rice; second prize, pocket book, Jack Mathews; third prize, bread knife, Mr. Ellis.

Donkey race for girls, 100 yards—First prize, silver mounted brush, Jeannette Gause; second prize, bottle perfume, Helen Dabney; third prize, hand mirror, Marguerite Hendy.

Boys' three-legged race, nine to sixteen, 100 yards—First prize, fishing rod, Leland Dunham and Jesse Tate; second prize, pocket knife, Will Foster; third prize, baseball, Harold Naylor; third, baseball bat, Leland Dunham.

With the conclusion of field games the guests sat down to a picnic dinner served by the host and hostess, Col. W. S. and Mrs. McCray, which proved to be one of the most enjoyable outdoor feasts on record.

In the evening, after the return from the picnic grounds, all the guests assembled on the river bank adjoining McCray's Ranch, to witness the magnificent display of fireworks under the direction of the following: Fred Baumgartner, chairman, assisted by Richard Bahls, Dr. Tate, J. Cal. Ewing, Mr. Ellis, C. W. Gause, Leslie Rice and others.

Following this all the guests returned to the Tent City at the grove and enjoyed the literary and musical exercises, which were concluded with a Fourth of July dance, to the great enjoyment of everybody.

Fortunately the day closed without a single mishap and will go on record as being one of the most delightful outings ever enjoyed by guests of Col. McCray or other hostesses in the valley.

ENGAGEMENT.

The engagement is announced of Miss Clara Ruth Berringer of Fruitvale to William Bell Dunsmore of Oakland.

The marriage will take place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. C. G. Berringer, in Fruitvale, on Tuesday evening, July 11. It will be a quiet affair, only the relatives of the young people being present. After the wedding ceremony a reception will be held after which the bride and groom will leave for Dunsmore on their honeymoon.

Miss Berringer is a graduate of the Oakland High School, and is well known in social circles both in Fruitvale and Oakland.

Mr. Dunsmore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Dunsmore, and is employed by A. L. Leber, a well known drug-gist of Oakland.

CLOSES STUDIO.

Miss Eleanor Connell, prominent in the best musical circles in San Francisco, has closed her studio in the Mutual Bank Building, and will spend the greater part of her vacation at Piedmont, where the family now make their home. Miss Connell is charmed with the beautiful Piedmont hills. She is a fine horsewoman, as well as a good walker, and finds great pleasure even these warm days in early morning and late afternoon rides and walks.

PLEASANT DINNER.

Mr. and Mrs. Varney W. Gaskill entertained a number of friends at dinner on July 4 at Piedmont Home. Fireworks afterwards.

SPERULATION ACTIVE.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The week's speculation on the Stock Exchange has continued active in spite of considerable profit taking at intervals. The abundance of money and confidence in the continuance have constituted the broad underlying basis of the speculation. The large and increasing world's production of gold is much dwelt upon as a stimulant to higher prices for commodities and capital shares, while the fixed interest-bearing securities have consistently lagged. Immediate developments regarding the crops, coming requirements on the money market, bank failures in the West and the quiet iron market have had little consideration.

COMES TO OAKLAND TO CONSULT DOCTOR

On account of ill health, Adjutant General J. B. Lauck of the State Militia has come to Oakland to consult his physician, Dr. D. D. Crowley.

General Lauck has not been well for some time, but Dr. Crowley states that he is all run down from overwork, and after a few weeks of rest will be all right again.

STATE LEAGUE BASEBALL NOTES

BY "LINE DRIVE."

GAMES TOMORROW.
Heesemans and Fresno at Fresno.
Spauldings and Lodi at Lodi.
Stockton and San Jose at San Jose.
Haywards and Grahams at Haywards.

The Heesemans broke even at San Jose.
The Spauldings lost all three games at Fresno.

A world's record in baseball was broken at Stockton when Cy Morcing's "Millers" defeated Lodi by a score of 1 to 0 in twenty-three innings.

Shimoff won two out of three games for Haywards by knocking out timely two-baggers in each of the first two games.

Billy Offe, outfielder on the Heesemans team, is quite a stab artist.

After playing five years of successful ball in the State League, Al Fowler, who has just become a policeman, has the following advice to give to young ball players: "Never drink booze, as booze has been the ruin of more than one good man."

San Leandro defeated Brentwood in an exciting game last Sunday by a score of 1 to 0. The feature of the game was the battery work of both teams. Pierce pitched a swell game, allowing but two hits and fanning ten, and was caught by "Dutch" Watson in fine style. "Lefty" O'Banion also twirled a swell game, but scored what is called a lucky win. Four hits were garnered off of "Lefty's" delivery, but he was rather liberal with his passes. Buckley caught him nicely and also lined out a two-bagger.

Haywards plays the Grahams tomorrow.

Healen was there with his old-time ginger, also getting two hits. If "Mush" keeps this up he will be in the National League some day.

Al Borland has showed up very well at San Jose this far. He seems to have his eye back with him, as he is clouting the ball hard and fielding fine.

Jimmy Chloupek has developed into one of the finest first basemen in the business. He has turned down an offer to play with the Heesemans on account of the long trips. "Jimmy" could certainly strengthen some club like San Leandro or Brentwood, as he is a fine hitter.

Lon Kennedy is up and about once more. There is an old saying that you can't keep a good man down, and it seems to hold good in the "big chief's" case.

Fowler was addressed as "Mr. Officer" during the games at San Jose last Sunday and Monday. He showed his worth by arresting a few stray balls that got out of bounds once in a while. The old boy will be missed greatly at San Jose.

"Lefty" Boas of "Pinto's" fame will take charge of the Pierce Hardware team next Sunday during Manager Morrell's absence. The Pierce team will cross bats with the Point Richmonds at Richmond.

"Buck" Taylor played a nice game for Haywards last Sunday. He robbed one Brentwood man of a possible two-bagger by a great catch in right field.

Eddie Murphy was there with the eagle eye by getting two nice hits on Sunday and two walks on Tuesday.

Jack Sylva figured in a lightning double play at San Jose on Sunday. He cut out a hit over second with one mist, touched the bag and lined it over to first in time to double the runner. Jack will make more of these plays as the season grows older.

"Ginger Bill" Dey, otherwise known as "Uncle," was much in evidence in Tuesday's game. Besides hitting safely twice, he pilfered two bases and scored two of the three runs. When Bill is working right no one can skin him.

Sears had a little hard luck Sunday by being called out for not touching second after hitting a good three-bagger.

On account of an injury received by sliding into the home plate in Sunday's game, Tyson's arm allowed him to pitch but five innings on the fourth of July. He then retired in favor of Offe, who finished the game in clever style.

San Jose scored her only run by an error in the fifth, after two men were out.

Offe allowed San Jose but three hits in four innings. Nice work, Bill.

The only dark spot in the game was the umpire, who was a colored gentleman.

McGregor, who dispensed the shoots for Steffani's bunch, was hit rather freely, only good fielding keeping the score down.

"Demon" Klein has not missed a fly ball this year. He always was a "lizard" at catching flies, and has cut off many a base hit.

Instead of strengthening his team, Mike Steffani went to the jungles to sign an umpire who was away off in his decisions, although not much damage was done. He addressed all the players very politely, calling them "Mister."

"Lefty" Boas said that he will assist Jack Lutgen at the gate in Lodi a week from tomorrow. Lutgen might use "Lefty" at San Jose.

Stockton should defeat San Jose with ease tomorrow, and from now on will be a hard team to beat.

"Kid" Briseno is again playing with Stockton.

The Heesemans have a kick coming at the deal received at San Jose on July 4.

Josh Rielly is playing his usual game.

Harry Walters has returned to San Jose.

Manager Schroeder has purchased Pierce's release from the Heesemans. Pierce is a fine pitcher and could

The first of the series went to Oakland yesterday. Gray sent Lem over for Morley and was touched up for 14 hits.

Matt Stanley, an old-time California Leagueer, made his debut here this season as catcher for the Oakland team.

On account of an injury Streib did not play.

Devereaux contributed a triple and a double, Moskman a triple and Schmidt a couple of two-baggers, while Stanley distinguished himself by making three singles.

TACOMA TAKES FIRST FROM FISHER

TACOMA, Wash., July 8.—Emerson outpitched Williams yesterday, although the latter suffered by the ragged condition of the outfield and the consequent inability of the players to do themselves justice. Both teams were on edge all the time. Doyle and Nordyke robbed the visitors of three hits, while Lynch and Doyle threw Hildebrand and Williams out at the plate. Spencer scored first on Casey's error, two outs and Hildebrand's drive. Williams singled in the third, stole second and tallied on Wheeler's hit. Gochnauer hit safely in the seventh. Williams and Spencer were passed, and Waldron's single brought Gochnauer in. Two base hits by Williams and Spencer in the ninth scored the former. The "Tigers bunched" their hits and aided by several errors of judgment, forged to the front. Attendance, 2,500. Score:

Artie Kiel, Fred Nelson, Billy Rouse, Sig Klein and Harry Klein have all returned from their trip to the Islands.

Some of these clubs should be grabbing up the services of "Moi" Cruz. He is an all-around ball player.

"Skipper" Barnhardt is playing a swell game at Barn.

Jim Hanna, manager of the Heesemans stores, says that he had a dream that the Heesemans won the pennant. Wake up, Jim; come out of it.

Ferguson is the best hot-weather pitcher in the business.

Keep your eye on Chloupek. That boy is a comer.

Captain Billy Quigley is well satisfied with his team. He plays great ball himself, and the balance of the boys are following his example.

WHEN WHERE AND HOW WILL BRITT AND NELSON FIGHT?

Ed. Smith Writes on That Topic.

BY ED SMITH.

Where will Britt and Nelson finally come together? Is a question that is at present interesting the sporting public around the bay cities.

James Coffroth has come forward as a rival of the Reno club, and his offer of $20,000 for a contest that would in all probability be the same as a finish fight is now the principal topic of conversation in sporting circles.

Coffroth is known as a very shrewd fellow and his reputation as a promoter of boxing contests will help him to secure the signatures of the boxers. This is the largest purse ever offered for a light-weight contest. The best previous purse was offered and fought for by "New York" Jack O'Brien and Frank Erne. Tom O'Rourke of New York was the manager. Jack McLaughlin and Billy Meyers also fought at New Orleans for a $10,000 purse.

If the fight between Britt and Nelson goes to Reno or Colma it would be a very interesting one for students of the boxing game, as it would be a contest where a clever boxer with a fairly good punch was pitted against an extremely strong, rugged fighter, who never stops coming from the top of the stage.

The only other contests of the kind are the two heavy-weight fights held in Nevada. The first was between Corbett and Fitzsimmons, in which Fitz, although the lighter of the two by some fifteen or twenty pounds, was considered the slusher and Corbett with his wonderful cleanness the clean-cut boxer. In this contest the slusher won by waiting patiently for the time to send in the knockout punch. The other fight, in which Root and Hart were the principals, ended in the same way. Hart, who was the largest and strongest man, kept going after Root until he finally landed the punch that won the fight for him.

Going back a little we find that it has not always been that way in finish contests. Young Mitchell was a clever man and depended upon his cleverness to win, and he was never beaten. He is one of the few boxers who have retired unbeaten. George Dawson came over from Australia and beat everything we had, and he was a man that depended on his skill to win. John L. Sullivan was of the Battling Nelson type, never stopping his rushes until the fight was over.

For these reasons students of the game would come from all parts of the country to witness the contest between Britt and Nelson. There are people who argue that Nelson has lost some of his hold on the public as a drawing card, but this is not so, in my opinion. "Bat" is as good a drawing card today as he was before he went on his Eastern tour. We all know, and he knows, that he is not a six-round fighter, but he has no prospects of a fight here and had several good guarantees from the East. He had judgment enough to take them up and made, some money, visited his home and came back just with a drawing card, but with more money, than he would have had if he stayed around San Francisco awaiting his chance to get on.

There are other things also to be considered about Nelson's trip. The improvement he has shown with each contest in San Francisco has increased with his contests while away. Before Nelson came to California he had fought fifty-five fights and lost two, one to Eddie Santry and the other to Joe Headmark. Most of these contests were pre-arranged, and when he boxed Martin Burke, he looked so one-sided in the first few rounds that there were bets offered of 2 to 1 that he would not last ten rounds. He kept pugging away, however, and had Canale down and out in eighteen rounds. This was, no doubt, the turning point of his career. In his next fight, with Eddie Hanlon, he showed marked improvement, and although Eddie had the best of the first twelve or fifteen rounds, Nelson boxed better and hit cleaner, then he did with Canale, and so it has been in all his contests from that time. Each time he has shown better judgment and boxing. His fight with Britt was looked so one-sided in the first few rounds that there were bets offered of 2 to 1 that he would not last ten rounds. In his next fight, with Eddie Hanlon, he showed marked improvement, and although Eddie had the best of the first twelve or fifteen rounds, Nelson boxed better and hit cleaner, then he did with Canale, and so it has been in all his contests from that time. A Clubman Protests Against Schmitz's Sympathy With the Workingman.

Editor TRIBUNE—Dear Sir: First I want to thank you for the generous treatment accorded me in the past and to express a hope that you will open your columns to my humble efforts in the future.

I am well aware of my unwarranted presumption in requesting you to give this particular communication publicity; but the subject is of such importance to the conservative element of the community that I make bold to press the limit to your good nature and well-known love for fair play.

For several months I have read with curious interest, and frequently, I confess, with amazement, the weekly article contributed to THE TRIBUNE by "The Knave." While these letters are, as a rule, of undoubted interest and are evidently written by some one familiar with the politics of the metropolis, I confess that from my viewpoint, the public welfare would have been far better served were they never published. Some of these epistles have simply been nauseous eulogies of Mayor Schmitz.

Now we gentlemen of the Club seriously object to having this incendiary praise of Schmitz and his gang unceasingly sung to us by an unthinking press. The Schmitz outfit is notoriously allied with an element of the community which is bitterly opposed to capital and all it stands for. The leaders of this clique are the head and front of an offending Knave as Union Labor and their every public action is planned and executed in the sole interest of the workingman regardless of its effect upon the leisure class. In the eyes of Schmitz, the toiler is the backbone of the commonwealth and the man of means and social position a thing to be ignored.

Schmitz heads a movement, the object of which is to deify labor and expose inherited wealth to scorn. In his distorted vision the man that does not work is a useless obstacle to the world's progress. Such a man is dangerous beyond conceiving so far as the welfare of the capitalist class is concerned. He would perpetuate that obsolete provision of the Declaration of Independence guaranteeing "equal rights to all and special privileges to none." The merest tyro in political economy knows that this platitude has long since been edited beyond practical application and that it is now simply used as a catch-penny phrase by socialists, anarchists and other unworthies who mouth about the primitive virtues of the forefathers on National Holidays, so-called.

If there is not to be a privileged class in the United States, it is high time that people of wealth and culture go back to the mother country and swear allegiance to the Union Jack. Under the healthful government of His Majesty, King Edward, there are no Schmitzes, no Ruesss, and no political parties pledged to upholding the rights of Union Labor. There, money ranks with royalty.

If capital is to have no special privileges, what is the use of accumulating wealth? If birth does not guarantee specific rights of what practical use is family? Fortunately, however, the day of the political uselessness of birth and wealth has not yet arrived in California, notwithstanding the frantic efforts of his honor, the Mayor, to discount social position and financial standing in order to accomplish the sublimation of labor. What San Francisco needs is class government, upper-class government, and it will get it in November.

Go into any of the clubs where the most substantial members of the community are to be found, and ask the first man you meet what he thinks of Schmitz. He will tell you that he is mighty tired of the fiddler's reign and that he longs for a return of Rhetan to power. When that conservative gentleman manipulated the municipality the workingman was confined to his proper sphere. When he threatened to assert his rights with anything stronger than words, the police were called out and peace and quiet enforced. There is nothing as effective in enforcing the silence of the workingmen as a policeman's club. They had the right idea in Chicago when they placed armed negroes on the wagons abandoned by the union teamsters, during the recent strike. Every time a union enthusiast attempted to interfere with a team, or in any way assert what he termed his "right," he was clubbed into insensibility by the negro guard. A few armed negroes to protect the gallant sons of toil who refuse to be ruled by unions would soon solve the problem in San Francisco; but so long as Schmitz remains in control of the city it will be impossible to use armed negroes to suppress the workingmen.

Let us take a sane view of the manner in which Schmitz has conducted the affairs of government since his elevation to office. Has he done anything especially for the benefit of the capitalists? Has he taken a single step towards suppressing organized labor? Has he ever hinted to the toiler the reverence he does his betters? He has not. On the contrary, he has repeatedly gone out of his way by word and action to tell the wage earner that he is just as good as the heaviest tax-payer and that so long as he is mayor the employer will receive no more consideration at his hands than the employee.

Now isn't this a really beautiful state of things? Isn't this a lovely situation for the man of wealth and family to contemplate? Gentlemen, what do you think of being placed on a level with the man that works for you? How do you feel about being catalogued with Jones, the carpenter; Smith, the engineer, and Brown the bricklayer? If you formally call up the mayor will you receive any more consideration than a scavenger bent upon a like errand? You will not. You will find that you have to await your turn just the same as the humblest member of the community.

Gentlemen, how long are you going to put up with this sort of thing? How long are you going to submit to a perpetual declaration of rights from hirelings?

The problem that confronts and humiliates us is Schmitz. Remove him from office and the problem is solved. Just as long as he remains Mayor of San Francisco, the "Common People," or more correctly speaking, "the common herd," will have just as many privileges as their social and financial betters.

A CLUBMAN.

ED SPRAGUE IS HAVING A LIVELY TIME

Former Special Policeman of Oakland Connected With Raid on Prize-Fighters.

Yolo county is "all torn up" over the arrest of some participants in a recent prize fight and the threat of some of the men who are in jail that prominent citizens and officials of Winters will be shown to have been implicated in the affair. Oakland readers will be interested to know that a central figure in the turmoil which is making the political and social circles of Yolo hot and seethe with the discussion is Ed Sprague, who was formerly a special officer of this city. Sprague left the police force about a year ago and in connection with his retirement there was a story of some counterfeiter's dies which he had come into possession of in the discharge of his duties and over the surrender of which there was some hitch.

The story of Sprague's connection with the Yolo prize fight is told in the Oakland Democrat of Thursday as follows:

"Ed Sprague of Oakland, promoter of the so-called Winters prize fight, is still a guest in Hotel de Griffin, but he expresses confidence that he will be at liberty to go where he pleases before the day closes.

"The circumstances of his arrest, his plea of guilty and the imposition of a fine of $100 upon him which he has not paid have already been detailed in these columns. Mr. Sprague has been keeping the telephone wires between this city and Winters warm today, and if his story is true Winters will be in the limelight, and some of its prominent citizens will occupy the center of the stage for some time.

Mr. Sprague has made a demand that some of the leading citizens of Winters pay his fine. That sounds like an extraordinary story, but it is true, nevertheless.

"Mr. Sprague claims that he served as a special officer in Oakland for several years. He resigned not long ago with a view of finding a good location in the country, as he contemplates matrimony at an early date.

"After leaving Oakland his first stop of any importance was in Winters. According to his story the temperance people learned that he had been a special officer, and suspecting an illicit traffic in liquor was going on among the ex-saloon keepers, he was employed by the city trustees as a detective to trap them and secure evidence of their guilt.

"He says he never promoted a prize fight before in his life, but he hit upon these schemes as the quickest and best method of gaining the confidence of the men suspected of selling liquor. The men he watched believed that everything was on the square, and is it evident that District Attorney Huston takes some stock in his story as the commitment of the principals was withheld and they were allowed to leave the county.

"Sprague insists that he made all arrangements for the fake prize fight, knowing that the real purpose of the fight was to trap men suspected of a violation of the law prohibiting the sale of liquors in Winters.

"The permit was afterward revoked, owing to a strong pressure brought to bear upon the trustees by the city attorney, but Sprague, believing that he had the backing of the city trustees, went on with the fight.

"If any such misunderstanding really existed, neither party took the district attorney into their confidence and as a result he acted on the assumption that Sprague was acting in defiance of the law and contrary to the wishes of the city trustees.

"A representative of the Democrat spent half an hour trying to get some member of the city trustees of Winters to the telephone in order that Sprague's story might either be denied or confirmed.

"After a long hunt Trustee McCourey was the only one who could be found. The substance of Sprague's story was related to him.

"McCourey denied in the most emphatic manner that the city trustees employed Sprague as a detective or in any other capacity.

"When asked if he had heard that he had been employed as a detective by any other person or persons he replied that he knew of it only from hearsay.

"A Winters dispatch under date of July 5th, says:

"The arrest of several residents of this place on the charge of promoting a prize fight has caused considerable excitement. The apprehension of the principals in the contest and their immediate backers was taken as a matter of course it being understood that they would look upon a possibility of jail life for a brief term as part of the chances of the game to turn easy money, but they were not prepared to see the more reputable element dragged into court to show cause why they should not be punished for standing in with the sporting element of the community.

"The action of District Attorney Huston in carrying on this raid has caused him to be a spirited subject of debate throughout this part of Yolo county. In some quarters he is bitterly denounced, but on the other hand his attitude in this matter has added to his popularity with many citizens. It has been a long time since there was so much excitement in Winters over any local happening."

ROOFERS HOLD A MEETING

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED—BUTCHERS TO GO ON A PICNIC.

Local No. 3 of the Tar Roofers Union held its fourth meeting last evening at the headquarters of the Building Trades' Council. Officers were elected to serve for the next six months. Following are their names: George Omar, president; B. H. Bonnell, vice-president; Felix Clausius, financial and recording secretary and business agent; Jack Chasion, treasurer and Albert Gross, conductor.

These officers will be installed at the next meeting, to be held at the same place on August 4. At that time also the directors and members of the executive board will be chosen.

"The little union is in a flourishing condition. It was started in April and is steadily growing in membership and importance.

WILL PICNIC.

Many members of the Oakland union of butchers are to go on the annual excursion of Local 115 of San Francisco tomorrow. The outing will take place at Shell Mound Park and will be one of the biggest this summer. Many able-bodied men will be played, and prizes will be given those winning at the races and contests. Gate prizes will also be given. At the pavilion there will be dancing all day.

WHO IS DIRECTOR?

The shareholders in the Co-operative Meat Company are in quandary about the election held recently for directors. Several of them cast their ballots in a new style, putting in five votes for one man, A. A. Treilmoor of San Francisco. If it is permissible to count these ballots each as five votes for the man, he will be declared a director. If such a manner of voting is not legal, then W. Short of Oakland will get the plum.

The officers in the company are seeking legal advice in the matter. C. W. Petry, the secretary of the Central Labor Council, has charge of it, and as he has been suddenly called out of town, it is not known which man is to have the office. Several of the shareholders are on the anxious seat, being interested in the way it comes out. Many favor Mr. Treilmoor, because of his residence in San Francisco, and there is a project on foot to establish a branch of the company there. There seems to be no objection to Mr. Short, who is said to be a good man for the place.

PASTOR WORKS IN THE SHOPS

REV. DWIGHT E. POTTER DONS OVERALLS TO LEARN OF LABOR CONDITIONS.

Attired in blue overalls and jumper and with a bunch of waste in his hand, the Rev. Dwight E. Potter, pastor of the Union Street Presbyterian Church, began work last night as an ordinary engine wiper in the West Oakland railroad yards.

The Rev. Potter's purpose in doing this is to familiarize himself with the trials, tribulations and temptations of the railroad men. Mr. Potter sympathizes with the railroad men who work with their hands, and wants to live and work with them so that he may reach them in a spiritual way.

Finally, Mr. Potter decided to make application to Division Superintendent Scott for work in the yards. It took some little correspondence between Scott and General Superintendent Palmer, but the order was finally issued for his employment. He desired to be permitted to work in every department for a short time, and then select the position of engine wiper to begin with. He also wanted to be treated as though he were the newest and greenest hand on the road, so he was told to report on night duty.

When night came Mr. Potter began his work, crawling over and around the big locomotives, until he was hot, dirty and thoroughly tired. But he did not falter, and despite the unusual weather he remained with his shift all through the night.

When morning came, instead of going to his own room, the pastor took a small room in an Oakland lodging house, where many railroad men make their home. He carried his midnight luncheon in a small basket, and when it was time to eat he sat on the side of the engine pit in the roundhouse. His breakfast was eaten in a small restaurant which the railroad men frequent.

The close communication with the railroad men is not new to Mr. Potter, because for several months he has been rooming close to the yards and taking his meals in a small restaurant in West Oakland.

He did not satisfy him, so he now proposes to work among them and share their daily toil.

The young minister will work his way through the yards in every department, and will learn to be a switchman, how to work in the car repair department, how to heat out the seats and carpets in the Pullman sleepers, and how it feels to be the "green man" in all departments. Mr. Potter said yesterday:

"I have already been working through the railroad yards for some time, and I have found the men who play so important a part in the affairs of the country as the railroad operatives to be sympathetic, earnest and sincere. Some of the best friends I have are among the railroad men, and now I propose to see just exactly what their daily toil is like. I want to know about their daily life, their trials and troubles, and so I have decided to work with them as long as I can remain upon this coast. I shall be compelled to go East shortly, and so the development of my plan has been hastened a little.

"I originally expected to go to Sacramento and seek employment in the shops there incoognito, but fate was thwarted by the hastening of my departure for the East. I shall now work through the various departments in West Oakland as a green hand, and try to find out just what it is like to 'break in' for the railroad service. There is a small army of railroad men in Oakland, and if there is any chance I propose to reach them."

WANTS A DRINK, TAKES POISON

PRISONER CANNOT RESIST HIS DESIRE FOR STRONG LIQUOR.

MARTINEZ, July 8.—Knowing that the stuff was a deadly poison, yet too weak morally to resist the opportunity to satisfy their cravings for stimulants, Frank Russell and Hug Ferguson drank liberally of wood alcohol in the County Jail yesterday, and as a result of their recklessness, Russell is now dead, and Ferguson, although he will recover, is very ill.

The two men were serving time, Russell having been convicted of operating several kinds of bunko games in Point Richmond, and Ferguson being an offender several times over. Both were trustees, engaged at work in and about the jail, and on Thursday the two were sent over to the new County Courthouse to dispose of some work needed to be done in the basement of the handsome stone edifice on upper Main street.

While working about the basement, Russell sipped several cans containing a liquid that he sampled. The contents proved to be wood alcohol, and, although both men knew the stuff to be deadly poison, they lost no time in filling a bottle they had found from one of the tins. The filled bottle, one of them concealed in his clothes and smuggled back into the jail in the evening. After the two were locked up for the night they emptied the bottle, drinking its entire contents. Russell partook of a larger portion of the alcohol, and a few minutes before 2 o'clock this morning Jailer Charles Daly was awakened by Russell's groans.

Ferguson told Daly what he and Russell had done, and a physician was immediately summoned. The latter treated Russell with strong emetics and made every effort to relieve the man's condition, but nothing availed, and Russell died early this morning. The emetic saved Ferguson, who had not taken much of the alcohol, and he will recover in a short time.

WOMEN AGAINST DIVORCE

CATHOLIC SOCIETY KNOWN AS DAUGHTERS OF THE FAITH TO ISSUE MANUAL.

We have received the prospectus of a "manual" soon to be issued by an association of Roman catholic women known as the "Daughters of the Faith." This organization is made up of "Catholic women, more particularly those of station and influence," and its purpose is the purification of social morals. On the theory that because of toleration, divorce "society is on the verge of moral ruin" this manual contends that the time has come when "nothing but the religious and social recognition of the true horror of this crime can arrest the evil that with cyclonic force has in a comparatively short time overthrown domestic peace and uprooted the safeguards of purity and honor." On the ground that if they do not take "drastic" measures against the "crime" they "become moral participants not alone in the sin, but also in the evils that follow," they lay down these invariable rules: "The Catholic divorcee who remarries must be socially ostracized. Such Protestant unions as are purely adulterous should be treated the same as the Catholic divorcee, and subject to the same rule." And here are specific admonitions for "the Catholic woman" as concerning the remarried divorcee: "She would run the risk of serious disaffection did she without necessity attend entertainments at their houses or welcome them publicly to her own, and as far as possible she should discourage their acquaintance even at the sacrifice of personal friendship. Her good sense would warn her to politely decline an invitation when a divorcee is to be a guest of honor. But if she should find herself thrown into such company at a social entertainment, charity would forbid her to draw attention to the fact. She should, in general, treat the divorcee whom she meets in society with the courtesy of the true Christian, but as a stranger whose relationships are not her affair, and while appreciating the agreeable qualities of mind she may possess, quietly but firmly discourage a more intimate acquaintance."—The Argonaut.

Terrific Race With Death. "Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different remedies until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am freed of all my troubles." Guaranteed at Osgood's drug stores, Seventh and Broadway, and Twelfth and Washington streets. Price 50c.

Square dealing is the Western man's motto but in view of the fact that the "Raiders" refused to arbitrate, they boycott that appeals to "we of the West."

MAYOR SCHMITZ AND THE TAFT BANQUET
ACROSS THE BAY

THE KNAVE

SENATOR FLINT HAS STRONG VIEWS ON STATE'S INTEREST

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—There must be some good fairy, some little cherub, or some special fiend of the pit watching over the destinies of Mayor Eugene Schmitz. Just at the time when all of us have satisfied ourselves that he is well on the road back to the fiddle, that good fairy or evil genius picks him up and sets him back in the Mayor's chair again.

Last week I told you of how he had made a great fool of himself in his riotous boycott of "The Bulletin," and how he had thoroughly disgusted a great many of the voters who naturally would have supported him at the November election. It looked as if he had made his fatal blunder, and that almost any sort of a candidate could come forward and easily beat him off the boards. The outlook seemed very pleasant for those of us who have had about enough of the administration of Schmitz and Ruef, but who had made up our minds that the beating of Schmitz this year was to be a mighty hard undertaking.

But now along comes the Citizens' Alliance, as represented in the different commercial bodies in San Francisco, and puts Schmitz back in a stronger position than he had held before he had made his asinine break against "The Bulletin." In their wrath at Schmitz the men who arranged the banquet to Secretary of War William H. Taft, refused to invite the Mayor; to deliver the speech of welcome, and even refused to invite him to the banquet.

On its face that action was of no great moment. Whether Schmitz was at the banquet to make a speech or not to make a speech, or whether he was at the banquet at all, would seem to have had comparatively little bearing on his popularity or lack of it as a candidate for Mayor. There might have been considerable comment that the action of the Citizens' Alliance men who arranged the banquet was rather narrow, but that is about all the matter would have come to had it not been for the tone of the banquet itself.

That banquet became a decided and now notorious attack upon Chinese exclusion. Secretary Taft very sharply reiterated his former statements that hereafter the Chinese exclusion law was not to be vigorously enforced. Of course he said that the lack of enforcement of the law was to apply to Chinese merchants, students, teachers and travelers; but everybody knew that in reality he meant that more Chinese laborers were to be permitted to come in. Every sentiment tending in this direction was vigorously applauded by the people at the tables, and it was more than evident that the opinion of the great majority of those present was that the coming of more Chinese laborers was a very desirable thing for the United States in general, and for San Francisco, California, in particular.

And now you see where the exclusion of the Mayor from that banquet gave his political aspirations and popularity a renewed impetus. The labor Mayor of San Francisco had been rigorously excluded from a pro-Chinese feast. That, of course, gives him the opportunity to take advantage in his campaigning of the anti-Chinese sentiment generally prevailing in this community, except among the classes specially represented at that banquet. It is safe to predict that before long you will hear the Schmitz orators shouting in all the halls of the city words like these:

"The Citizens' Alliance is scheming to bring in thousands of Chinese coolies to break up the labor unions of San Francisco, and to degrade the standard of American labor both in and out of those unions. They did not dare to let our Mayor appear at that banquet, for they knew that he would have stood upon his feet and stoutly fought the Chinese dragon, upholding your industries and your rights as citizens. That is evidence that the pro-Chinese members of the Citizens' Alliance are afraid of this fearless champion of the coolies of American citizenship. In this fight to keep the Chinese coolies from our shores we must keep Mayor Schmitz on guard in the City Hall of San Francisco."

That sort of thing is going to appeal to a great many voters outside of the labor unions, who never otherwise would have thought of again voting for Mayor Schmitz.

And now see again where that good fairy or that bad demon has been protecting the Mayor just at the time that he needed protection. Suppose he had been invited to that banquet, and had been invited to make the speech of welcome or to act as the presiding officer. In all courtesy and all decency he could not have made any reply to the pro-Chinese remarks of Secretary Taft. He would have been forced to sit as part of that pro-Chinese demonstration. Then his enemies would have gone out into the city and from every rostrum could have told how the labor Mayor had deserted the laboring man and had joined in the effort to flood the labor markets of the city and of the State with the coolie horde. Certainly it is wondrous luck when a man gets things both coming and going as the Mayor has in the matter of that banquet.

It begins to look very much as if our junior Senator, Frank P. Flint, was not going to be very popular with the administration at Washington. It may be taken for granted that the declarations of Secretary Taft regarding the Chinese question and of Congressman Payne of New York that we are to have free trade with the Philippines after 1909 are the inspired utterances of the administration. The speakers merely voiced the program that the President and his advisors have determined shall be carried out. They had had their rehearsals before they set out from Washington.

But right at the banquet Senator Flint rose and declared himself unalterably opposed to free trade with the Philippines, insisting that such free trade would bring ruin to some thriving Californian industries; and, right on the heels of that speech, he has publicly declared himself as unalterably opposed to any modification of or tampering with the Chinese exclusion law. That seems to set him face to face against the administration and the administration's declared policy.

President Roosevelt does not like the Senators who oppose his policies. So it seems more than likely that Flint will not have a vast deal of influence in securing places for the job chasers. But with all that he has taken a man-fashion stand, and has shown that he is not at all afraid to declare his settled convictions right in the face of the leaders of his party.

In the long run this may be the part of wisdom. The man who shows strength and bravery in opposition is often the man that those in power most desire to placate. So, after a time, it may be found that the administration is running after Flint to offer him positions for his constituents that a more complacent Senator would not be able to secure. And there is a present certainty that Flint has won a very strong applause from the general public of California. He is apt to make a good deal of a name for himself in Washington if he keeps up his tactics of a forthright declaration of just what he believes to be for the best interest of the people of California.

We did not give the visitors much of a sample of California oratory at that banquet. Governor Pardee spoke well, but the Governor makes no pretense to being a spellbinder. Frank Symmes was singularly weak, both in lung power and in material. Judge Morrow made a very happy address of welcome, but the Judge does not particularly pride himself on being one of the State's foremost orators. Senator Flint, with all his boldness of declaration, is nothing of a talker. At the tables were John P. Irish and William H. Mills, who could have made far better addresses than any of those delivered by the Californians; and outside, not even invited to the feast, was George A. Knight, the most thrilling of all our talkers.

We easily could have matched the Easterners who made addresses. Secretary Taft's power lies in a forceful straightforward expression of his ideas; and this is true oratory, for Taft has ideas to express. But he is anything but a spellbinder or a "rabble-rouser." Congressman Payne has a touch of oratory in some of his tones, but he often lets his voice drop so that it is entirely inaudible in such a large assembly. Congressman Foss was perhaps the most of an orator, as we of the West regard oratory. But many of our local speakers have more grace of diction and force of expression than Foss.

The attempt to make it appear that Mrs. Martin's reception to Taft and Miss Roosevelt was to draw the line between those who are within San Francisco's 500 and those who are out of it, was rather amusing. The fact is, the reception was largely given over to politicians; and politicians are generally too busy to bother much with the airs and graces of society. Judge W. W. Morrow made up the list of invitations. A good many of the visitors did not attend the reception, as they preferred to rest before starting on their long journey to the Philippines July 8th.

There has been some tendency to smile at the notion that Mrs. Eleanor Martin is the real and recognized leader of San Francisco society. Perhaps some of the women of the old Southern set smiled more broadly than anybody else. But there is no particular reason why Mrs. Martin should not be accepted as the leader of society. She is a very kindly woman, doing many charitable deeds, helping many young people to positions of social distinction, and very much inclined to encourage genius and ability. I don't suppose that she is at all ambitious to be known as the leader of San Francisco society, but she entertains lavishly, and has a great deal of native wit.

When Mr. Hyde of the Equitable Insurance Company of New York, who has recently achieved such a wide notoriety, was a visitor in San Francisco, he was entertained at the home of Mrs. Martin. Among the guests were Henry Crocker and Addison Mizner. Henry Crocker is one of the most jovial of men, and Addison Mizner, before he went to New York and made money in selling Central American antiques to the four hundred, was considered a sort of n'er do well, and a society humorist. Crocker thought he would have a little fun with his hostess and said to her:

"Mrs. Martin, I had expected to find a company of Bohemians at your home, because I had been told that you were very much given to entertaining artists and writers and musicians. But the company is not what I had expected."

"Oh, Mr. Crocker," said Mrs. Martin, a lively twinkle coming in her eye, and putting on just a trace of a brogue to give point to her humor, "I have been told that Mr. Hyde is a very prominent business man of New York, connected with some of the largest enterprises there, and I supposed that he would wish to meet San Francisco's leading business men, so I invited you and Addison Mizner."

A woman with that sort of wit might be a leader anywhere in society, and here is another one on Crocker which indicates her sly humor and also her genuine hospitality.

There was a dinner at the home of one of our society people who is given over to the strictest ideas of temperance and prohibition. At the dinner nothing was served but temperance drinks—lemonades and mineral waters, ginger pop and root beer. Mrs. Martin, sitting next to Crocker, noticed that he did not seem to care very much for the prohibition beverages, and so urged upon him another portion of root beer.

"No, I thank you, Mrs. Martin," replied Crocker laughing; "this duck that I am eating is about all I can stand of this supper."

"If you want to give that duck a swim come over to my house after dinner," replied the hospitable Mrs. Martin, whose cellar is stocked with the finest of wines and the most generous of liquors. So why shouldn't that sort of a woman be the recognized leader of San Francisco society?

CAR SERVICE IS IMPROVED

SUBURBAN LINE AT POINT
RICHMOND INCREASES ROLL-ING STOCK.

POINT RICHMOND, July 8.—The new vestibule car of the Suburban line has been put on its trucks and given a trial spin. It has a 4-40 motor, the strongest on the line. The other large cars are only 2-50.

OFFICERS INSTALLED.

Twilight Lodge, 113—Noble Grand, R. G. Erskine; Vice Grand, Albert Fagerstrom; Secretary, O. C. Staley; Chaplain, G. B. Jones; right supporter, N. G. John; left supporter, N. G. A. Swanson; right supporter to V. G., Chas. Johnson; left supporter to V. G., Fred Spierich; Warden, Albert Mason.

BREAKS A LEG.
Peter Slaker, a workman at the brick works, rolled off an embankment Monday night and broke his leg. His injuries were attended by local surgeons and he was then sent to a hospital at Berkeley.

WILL VISIT RICHMOND.

Attorney C. A. Odell and his sister, Mrs. Winifred Stockwell, went to San Francisco to meet an old time friend, Charles Ehrmann, of Terre Haute, Indiana. Mr. Ehrmann is a prominent pork packer of the Indiana city. He is on his way to Los Angeles now, but will return to pay an extended visit at the Odell home.

Mrs. W. M. Pence, wife of a prominent Salinas attorney, will arrive from her home in that town today and will be the guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Odell for the next ten days or two weeks.

CLERKS ELECTED.
The following clerks of school boards have been elected in this county: A. W. Collis, Brentwood; George Wood, San Ramon; Jacques B. Bordes, Vasco; J. R. Nystrum, Richmond; and John Sullivan, Orinda Park.

LEAGUE SOCIAL.
The Epworth League social was held last night in the Methodist church from 8 to 10 o'clock. There was a short program and refreshments were served in the basement.

MAGISTRATE DIES.
Justice of the Peace Daniel S. Carpenter, of Martinez, died in that place Tuesday. Deceased located in this county in 1856 and was universally respected by a large circle of friends.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.
Mrs. Walter D. Tupper and son, Robert, of Fresno, mother and brother of Mrs. John William Jones, are visiting at Alta Vista.

W. J. Woolworth, father of Mrs. Ida Lester, returned home yesterday from Sacramento where he has been visiting his son.

Albert Fagerstrom, Robert Erskine and John Murray, staunch Odd Fellows, went to Crocker last night to attend a lodge meeting. The Grand Master visited the Crocker lodge.

Mrs. Powell of Fresno and Mrs. W. S. Smyth, of Riverbank, arrived in town yesterday and are the guests of Mrs. Isaac Lester.

"The Jinx" held an enjoyable dancing party at Maple Hall Thursday night.

W. H. Conn and wife have gone to Portland to visit the Lewis and Clark Exposition. They went by steamer and expect to be gone about two weeks.

LIVES SAVED BY A WOMAN

NEW YORK, July 8.—Miss Caroline Baumgartner of this city saved the lives of a number of persons who had been overcome by "back draught" in a serious fire in the Wing Building in Ninth Avenue. She had once spent a few weeks at a training school for nurses and when she saw several firemen lying on the sidewalk, some of them unconscious, she insisted on caring for them until the arrival of the physicians summoned to the scene.

The first man she attended had been given up for dead, but she despatched a bystander for whisky, ice, water and ammonia, and by diligent efforts induced artificial respiration. Seeing that the patient was conscious, she ran into the roadway and treated another injured man, and then another, kneeling in the muddy gutter, busy at work with bandages and ammonia, while the crowd of onlookers encouraged her.

As all girls expect to marry millionaires, they naturally think it a waste of time to learn the art of cooking. Chicago News.

DRINKS FOR ALL

Humane Society
Wants Fountain Built.

HAYWARDS, July 8.—Members of the Humane Society here have inaugurated a move to establish a large drinking fountain on one of the principal street corners of the town. Already the sum of $50 has been raised and the project has every prospect of success.

It is proposed to place the fountain on the corner of Castro and B streets, where the two largest avenues of the town intersect. A new and improved model will be employed, there being accommodations for people, horses and dogs.

On the fourth of July the ladies of the society gave a dinner at the Native Sons' Hall and realized a neat sum. This will be added to by subscriptions and in other ways suggested by the ingenuity of the promoters. Mrs. A. Smith and Mrs. Clifford Bay are the leaders in the movement.

The department for thirsty canines is to be a special feature of the affair, in the opinion of the members of the Humane Society, much suffering will be averted during the hot months by allowing the dogs to get a drink whenever they desire it. Times.

Woods, one of the leading members said this morning:

"We think that many cases of hydrophobia have been caused by neglecting to provide suitable drinking places for the animals during the summer. We do not propose to have any such cases laid to our door, and will do all we can to save the dogs by giving them every opportunity to quench their thirst."

Many of the business places in Haywards have horse troughs in front of them, but they are unsightly creations and no honor to the town.

AGED MAN DIES.
Augustus S. Ashmead of Cemetery avenue passed away at his home yesterday morning. He was seventy-eight years and four months old, a native of Boston. The family has been living here about a year.

This afternoon the funeral took place at the family residence, Rev. B. Dent, pastor of the Congregational Church officiating. There were many friends present to assist in the sad rites. The coffin was decked with many bouquets and floral pieces. Interment was at Lone Tree Cemetery.

Two children survive him, Misses Lillian and Evelyn Ashmead. The wife and mother passed away several months before her husband's demise.

The family was well known and prominent in Boston. The father, of the late Mr. Ashmead was also born there, and the business in which he engaged was well established. It was for the benefit of his health that the deceased brought his family to California.

FIRE ON HAY BARGES.
NEW YORK, July 8.—Fire on several hay barges in the North river has furnished a spectacular and dangerous blaze. Fireboats fought the flames, which were extinguished after a long and difficult fight. One of the blazing barges drifted alongside the Cunard steamer, Blavina, which was scorched by the flames. Commander Barry's ship, the Kewauit, also had a narrow escape.

WIVES SUE THEIR HUSBANDS

MRS. MARIE LOUISE RYDER AND MRS. BLANCHE NEVIN ASK FOR DIVORCES.

Marie Louise Ryder, who began suit for divorce from her husband, William D. Ryder, last January, has filed an amended complaint. Shortly after the first complaint was filed, Ryder, it is alleged, agreed to change his conduct and treat his wife better. He did not do so, she says, hence the second document.

Ryder is employed by the Spring Valley Water Company at a salary, it is said, of $100 a month, with the prospect of a raise. He is accused of extreme cruelty by Mrs. Ryder who asks for a legal separation, suitable alimony and the custody of their infant.

They were married in April of last year and less than three months afterward the wife asserts, her husband became abusive. He swore at her, struck her in the face, threw her out of bed and down the stairs, told her he hated her "worse than a poison," and acted generally in a manner that caused her to fear to live with him.

Mrs. Blanche Nevin has sued C. H. Nevin, a brakeman, for divorce, alleging cruelty. One charge is that he upbraided her for going to a Sunday-school picnic, causing her great mental anguish.

NO PLAGUE OF YELLOW FEVER

PANAMA, July 8.—Colonel William C. Gorgas, chief sanitary officer of the Panama canal zone, has informed the Associated Press that since June 25 there has been no case of yellow fever in the city of Panama and only one at Colon. Sanitary conditions have been much improved by a general fumigation and the rainy season, which is now in full force.

The quarantine at La Boca, Colon, Gorgas says, will be probably suspended within ten days, no more cases of bubonic plague having occurred there and the whole place having been thoroughly disinfected.

MAKES ASSIGNMENT.
NEW YORK, July 8.—The Zionian Mining and Smelting Company, engaged in mining ore in Mexico, has made an assignment to William H. Egan, William Higgins its president, and Henry A. Dickinson secretary. The company was incorporated on October 26, 1901, under New York laws with a capital stock of $500,000.

OUR EASTERN GUESTS.

Whenever we have Eastern guests, "our glorious climate" may be trusted to go on a strike. It is quite in vain that we assure the guests that this is "something unusual,"—they have their own opinions, of course.

There is a tradition in existence that we always have a cool summer about the bay, and lo, the thermometer climbs into the nineties and crosses the hundred mark, just because Secretary Taft and his party spend the week here.

A friend, who has been with the party says it is very amusing the questions asked of his party of tourists.

The first question is, of course, "and how do you like San Francisco?"

They could not be blamed if they did not tell the truth of what they thought of the San Francisco climate as they have found it this week.

FAD AMONG SMART SET.

And apropos of impressions it is the fad among the smart set just now to talk of the new book of the season. You are really not a bright member of the smart set if you cannot discuss one of the most successful of the new books of the season.

You may take your choice of two—"The Garden of Allah" that tremendously strong story of the desert, or "The Breath of the Gods." The latter begins in Washington, with life among of the smart set there—its first chapter takes you to a big reception, at which there are any number of notable people.

Then the story brings you across the continent, to San Francisco, Hawaii, and Japan.

And apropos of the Taft party, one may quote the paragraphs devoted to San Francisco:

"With San Francisco, modern life, society, stress, begin anew."

"To many thousands of voyagers, San Francisco is but a stopping place, a bird rest for preening. As a fact, it is a city which possesses an unusual share of individuality, of 'atmosphere' in the sense that writers use. Nowhere else are to be seen such gray and wind swept streets, where houses stand side by side, as if mounting flights of stairs, the parlor window of one house looking through the chimney pots of its neighbor.

"Nowhere else are perched palaces like those of San Francisco, or a growth, as huge and strange in its exotic coloring as Chinatown. The great, round, shimmering bay and Golden Gate are as a lawn, and ships of the harbor, shuttles weaving together the nations of East and West.

"If New Orleans is a transplanted Paris this is a Tschalkowsky Symphony Orientale translated into terms of American life. As the big liner moved out to sea, slowly the city turned from a city to a patch of lichen on a rock. Queer little ditches, which they knew for streets, showed lines of perpendicular crawling beetles, which they recognized to be whizzing electric cars. They watched it all eagerly, leaning far along the stern rail of the ship.

"Then the sea winds caught them screaming a welcome into shrinking ears. The white attendant sea gulls laughed in harsh appreciation of the antics of the wind. The ocean lifted and strove, and pounded his cosmic greeting; and—and—well—there was a good stewardess on board!"

And apropos of that picture, the Taft party sail tomorrow on the Manchuria.

CERTAIN PHASES OF SOCIAL LIFE.

There are certain phases of social life here that we ought to try to outgrow in the near future. They mark a provincial state of affairs which a large city ought to outgrow. Of course Dame Gossip always dwells with us, and it is hard to restrain the old lady, but we really might try on occasions.

In a city like ours, conventions are not crystallized as they are in the older cities, and the process of evolution is hard on the young people of today.

MISS KATHERINE TOED

It is hard on the young man, for if he calls on a girl in just a friendly way, Dame Gossip has him engaged in short order. And the gossip probably ends the friendship, and puts an end to what probably might have been a happy romance. Or if a girl accepts attentions in a frank, friendly way, she will perhaps read a paragraph with a veiled allusion to her engagement, and she feels very much mortified, and again an interesting romance is probably at an end.

Most girls are nice, sensible girls and they have very few illusions. They know perfectly well that every young man who happens to pay them little attentions is not desperately in love with them.

And men often meet many girls, before they meet the one girl of all.

The American girl demands a good deal in these days, and she is not to be had for the asking.

The young people must be allowed to meet each other, such is the way of the world. But is is desperately annoying to everybody concerned, when Dame Gossip spreads rumors of engagements which do not exist, and when she takes seriously just harmless little attentions offered and received in frank friendly fashion.

One indignant mother ended her peroration this week with:

"And indeed I'd like to put blinders on the gimlet eyes of old Dame Gossip."

But, as we all know, it would be a pretty difficult task.

MANY PEOPLE OUT OF TOWN.

Never has there been a Fourth of July holiday in San Francisco when so many people went out of town.

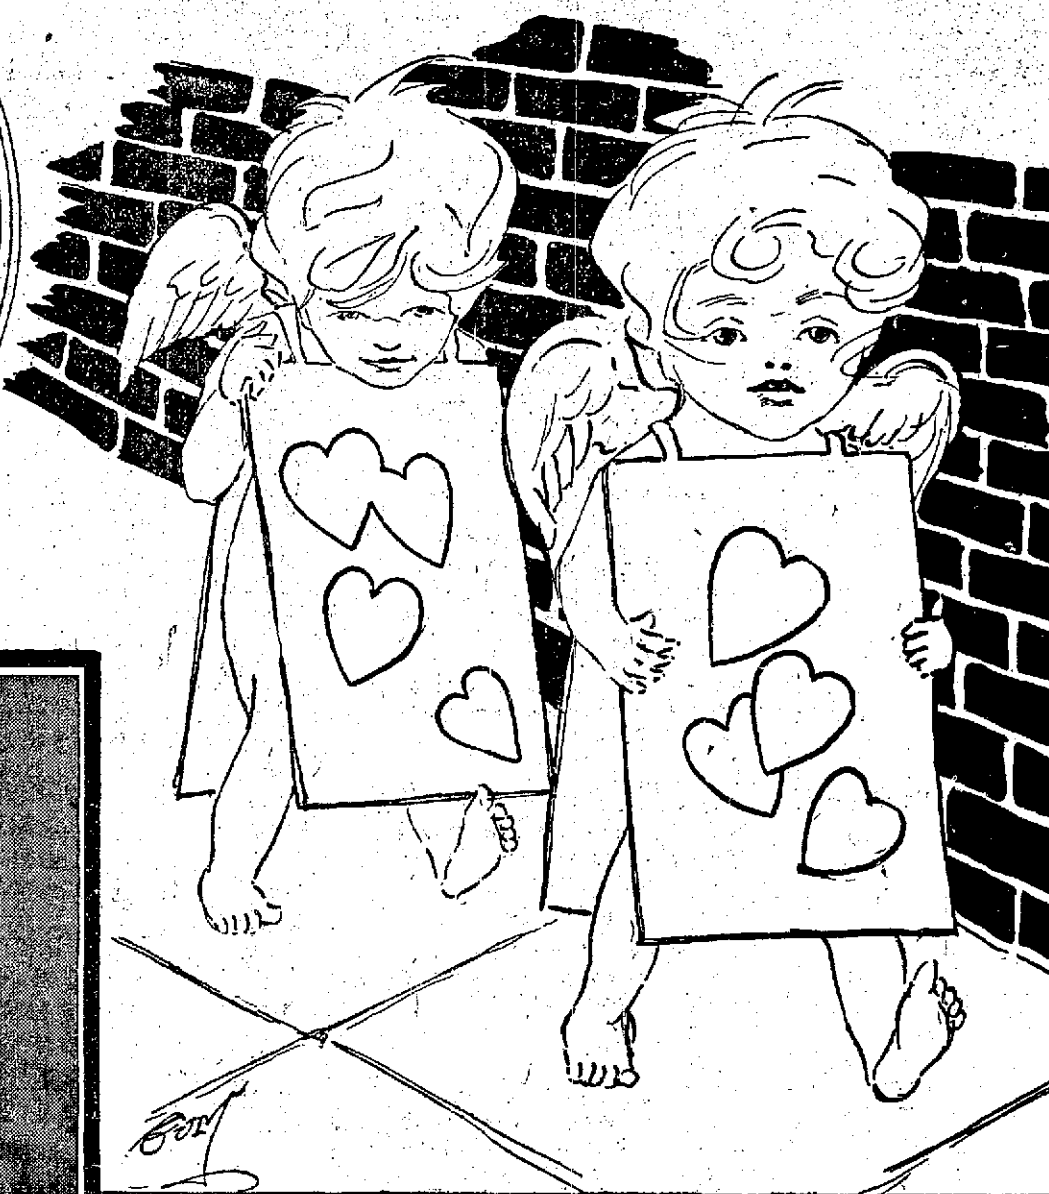

The railroad people estimated that at least forty thousand people left San Francisco on the Fourth of July holidays.

And such a hot day as it was! Picnics had been planned all along the line but many of them had to be given up. At Brookdale, where there is a large Oakland contingent, there was to have been a picnic. But nobody stirred off the big verandas. Indeed, how could they, with the thermometer at 110?

And it was higher than that in many places in the Santa Cruz mountains. Of course the largest and most elaborate picnic of the day, was the barbecue planned by Mrs. Hearst, and given in the big oak grove in the hills above the Hacienda.

Mrs. Hearst had a special car for her guests which was attached to the morning train. At Verona, the guests were met by the big trolley, and all the private carriages from the Hacienda stables as well as by omnibuses from Pleasanton.

A charming drive up the mountain side brought the guests to the Hacienda, where they were received by Mrs. Hearst. This was the first time many of the guests had seen Mrs. Hearst since her departure for the Orient nearly two years ago.

MISS MARY TRUELSON

After a reception at the Hacienda, the guests were driven up the hillside, to where a splendid grove of old oaks makes a wonderful picnic ground. It overlooks the entire Livermore Valley, and Mount Diablo seems almost in the immediate distance.

Tables were set under the shady oaks, and every detail of the barbecue was planned with historic exactness.

The men had been at work all night and the luncheon was something wonderful. It would require a genius to describe its many details, but it is rarely in California that a luncheon like that could be so perfectly served.

How an Eastern magazine would delight in that story—it was all so wonderful, so full of historic interest, so full of local color. When one included the many retainers of the Hacienda, there must have been at least a hundred people served. In the picturesque old oak grove are many hammocks and swings, and platforms built among the wide-spreading branches, and the shade was specially grateful in the hot day.

Later in the afternoon, Mrs. Hearst brought her guests down to the Hacienda, where they spent some delightful hours, wandering about the cool restful rooms. Mrs. Hearst has brought many valuable works of art from the Orient and from abroad, and the Hacienda would interest one for weeks at a time. Later the guests gathered on the cool veranda which looks down the valley to Pleasanton lying in the distance, and far off to the yellow brown shining hills of Livermore.

In the late afternoon, carriages took the guests to Verona, and they came home in the private car, provided for them by the thoughtful generosity of Mrs. Hearst.

They reached Oakland at eight o'clock, the day at the Hacienda marking a red-letter day in many lives.

MRS. HEARST IS ENTERTAINING.

Mrs. Hearst is entertaining many old friends this summer. Next week she will have a house party at the Hacienda, the guests going down on Monday.

Among the guests from Berkeley will be Mr. and Mrs. William Monroe, and the Masters Monroe.

The guests from Oakland will be Miss Anita Thomson and Master Delila Thomson.

In the late July days Mrs. Hearst will go to her country home, "Wynnton," on the McCloud river.

Hearst are in France, where Mr. Hearst is enjoying a much needed rest.

Mrs. Hearst and Mr. and Mrs. William Hearst made an automobile trip through France this spring, and it proved immensely interesting. They are all good travelers, all cultured, and able to appreciate the truly artistic, so they would understand the best that France has to offer the tourist who travels through her land.

In the autumn Mrs. Hearst expects Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hearst at the Hacienda, and the dear little grandchild to whom she is so devoted will be there also.

HOMES ON THE HILLS.

The hills sloping down to the upper end of the lake bid fair to be covered with beautiful and interesting homes.

The largest one to be erected will probably be that of Edison Adams. It is to be on a beautiful knoll at the head of the lake, and the ground is now being graded preparatory to beginning the work of building. There is much talk about the good luck which always seems to be characteristic of John Adams.

One hears that in the recent distribution of the Adams' estate beautiful "Adams' Point" on the Lake fell to his share. One hears that he proposes to leave it just as it is for some time to come.

The old Adams' home "Bay Place," has wonderfully picturesque grounds, and here Mr. and Mrs. John Adams and their children prefer to make their permanent home. The John Adams spent some days this summer at the Hotel St. Francis across the bay.

MISS ROOSEVELT'S VISIT.

We have been making much of our President's daughter during her sojourn in our midst, but our interest in her is not due entirely to patriotic sentiment. It is natural to esteem the daughter of the President, and when the daughter of the President happens to be of unique personality, it is not strange that she should excite our curiosity and impel us to rubber. Miss Roosevelt has inherited some of the strenuousness of her father. In her characteristic vivacity of the American girl is intensified. She has a girlish way of availing herself of the fact that she is the daughter of the President, and she is getting all the pleasure and diversion that go with the relationship. She is accompanied on this trip by some very distinguished statesmen who are very fortunate in having her with them, for otherwise they would be treated about the same as statesmen usually are when off on a junket.

Miss Roosevelt imparts distinction to the party, and wins for it the attention of swarthy society. It was so to honor to the President's daughter that Mrs. Eleanor Martin arranged her big function. "The Taft party" is a misnomer. It should be called "The Alice Roosevelt Party."—Town Talk.

WHEELERS GO TO BIG BEND.

When Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Wheeler left two weeks ago for their beautiful summer home, "The Bend," on the McCloud river, their two eldest daughters did not accompany them. For the past two weeks Miss Lillian and Miss Olive have been the guests of Mrs. F. G. Sanborn. They remained here so that they might finish the school term, and left with Mrs. Sanborn to join their parents. Mrs. Sanborn will only remain about ten days at "The Bend."

Hospitality and good cheer are tendered each year to a favorite few in this ideal summer home of the Wheelers, and these "favored few" come away with the most pleasant recollections of their hosts and the beautiful McCloud. Dr. Van Dyke often speaks of the happy days he spent at "The Bend" last year. Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ide Wheeler usually spend some time with these friends during each summer season.—Town Talk.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Mrs. C. R. Spilvalo, of Belmont, announced the engagement of her only daughter last Thursday. In a very unique fashion. Many of her intimate friends were bidden to a luncheon at the beautiful home in Belmont, and when the guests were seated around the prettily decorated table, the secret was disclosed by the invited cards of the two young people found tied together in the daintily sketched envelope which marked each guest's place. The engagement was such a complete surprise to every one present that the congratulations and good wishes for the bride-to-be were all the more hearty. Miss Spilvalo is a graduate of Van Ness Seminary, but did not put her books entirely away when the school door closed behind her. Among her friends she has always been a great favorite on account of her interesting personality, accomplishments and charm of manner. Those who ride with the Burlingame Club consider her a fearless and graceful horsewoman.

While visiting in Honolulu, Miss Spilvalo met Lieutenant. Shoemaker. He has a host of friends in this city. At present he is on the cutter "Bear" in Alaskan waters. The young officer is most highly esteemed in the revenue service. The wedding will not take place until some time in October.—Town Talk.

MRS. MARTIN'S GOOD SENSE.

Society was not a little surprised when cards to Mrs. Eleanor Martin's reception came out to find no mention of Miss Alice Roosevelt made in the invitations. The guests are asked to meet Secretary of War Taft and party, but the first young lady in our land is not named specifically. Most people applaud Mrs. Martin for her good sense and taste in not placing the President's young daughter on a par with the distinguished statesman. And the guests will go to meet the young lady with a keener zest from the very fact that everything isn't coming her way with such servile humility. I hear that the Martin reception will far outshine all of the Caroline Eleanor's previous entertainments as the Martin ball did the Assembly. Nothing is to be spared for the success of this great undertaking, which will bring our most eminent dowager's name before the citizens of every hamlet in the land. Ah! brave Lady Martin, we have, indeed, cause to be proud of you!—Wasp.

Another Alameda Belle Betrothed.

The announcement of Miss Dorothy Hearst's betrothal to Mr. George was so to honor to the President's daughter that Mrs. Eleanor Martin arranged her big function. "The Taft party" is a misnomer. It should be called "The Alice Roosevelt Party."—Town Talk.

SOCIAL NEWS of the WEEK

Mr. Robert J. Holmes, both of Alameda, recalls a bon-mot of one of the beaux at a recent wedding. "If a girl will not become a bride she must move out of Alameda," said the gentleman, and he was from San Francisco, too. It is true that there is hardly a grown-up young woman left in the town, and the misses who go to and from the High School are accompanied by their several admirers, "men" in the same institution. Miss Bowen is very young, but is immensely popular in society. She is a daughter of Mr. Charles E. Bowen, the prominent business man, member of the firm of Wetmore, Bowen and Company of San Francisco. The groom to be is a business man and is an old resident of the Encinal city, and had the honor several years ago of carrying Miss Dorothy's books to and from the High School, where the couple were in the same classes. Society folks are looking for something a little lively in the way of a wedding. It is a long time since there has been a really gay affair, and in the opinion of the maids who are left it devolves upon the bride to do things handsomely at such a time. September has been chosen for the happy event, and there is to be a long string of bridesmaids with maid of honor, flower girls, etc., and probably Christ Episcopal Church will be chosen as the setting.—Wasp.

REQUAS LEAVE FOR EAST.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Requa left for the East this week, where Mr. Requa has important interests to attend to. The business interests are developing so largely that Mr. Requa is rarely at his Oakland home. Miss Lucie Kling is spending the summer with Mr. Requa's aunt, Mrs. Shaw, and Mrs. Mark Requa will join them at the sea shore.

MR. AND MRS. COOGAN HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Coogan have just returned from Colfax, where they spent three weeks with the Milton Bulkleys. Mr. Milton Bulkley has greatly improved in health, and will be able to attend to business affairs in the near future.

Mr. Coogan looks exceedingly well for his rest among the mountains. He knows how to take a vacation, for he is one of the best walkers, as well as one of the best mountain climbers in town.

Al Coogan, Prentiss Gray and Oliver Orlick made up a party which greatly enjoyed a month's outing in the mountains.

Al Coogan has been Prentiss Gray's guest at the Gray country home in Mendocino county. One hears many compliments for the plucky way in which Mr. Coogan recently saved his friend from drowning in a recent picnic excursion.

AT LAKE TAHOE.

Among the Oakland contingent at Lake Tahoe for the July days are the Edson Adams, the A. Schillings and the Fred Magees.

Mrs. A. L. White and Miss Florence White also go to Lake Tahoe to spend part of July. The wedding of Miss White and Mr. Faltoute is set for October.

PORTLAND IS STILL DRAWING.

Portland still continues to be the center of much interest, the Mecca towards which California wanderers direct their footsteps.

Mrs. Will Crocker goes to Portland next week, and it was very generous indeed of her to loan to the Portland Exposition her valuable Millet painting, "The Man With the Hoe." Mr. Markham, who wrote the famous poem on the famous picture will also be in Portland this summer.

John Vance Cheney will also come west to the Portland Exposition, and if he comes to California he will no doubt be the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Harold Havens, formerly Hope Cheney, at her home in Piedmont.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Bell leave for Portland in a few days, and they take with them Mr. and Mrs. Traylor Bell. They are very fond of their new daughter, Mrs. Traylor Bell, formerly popular Miss Helen Chase.

On their return from Portland the Traylor Bells will begin home-keeping in an artistic little house at Piedmont.

Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Chase left for the East on Thursday, and they will spend the summer on the Maine coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Button are among those who will spend interesting July days at the Portland Exposition.

SOCIETY PEOPLE INTERESTED.

Of course society across the bay is very much exercised over the coming reception given by Mrs. Eleanor Martin in honor of the Taft party and especially in honor of Miss Roosevelt.

"To be asked or not to be asked," has been the all-absorbing question in the smart set across the bay. Over here it has not been of so much interest because not a large number of our own society people know Mrs. Martin.

It is represented on many sides that Mrs. Martin is a great social leader, but that really is the very last thing to which Mrs. Martin aspires.

And her friends say that she couldn't under any circumstances whatever be a social leader. She would let everybody in.

For she is really the best-natured woman in the world, with the very kindest of hearts. And if you're a society leader you must know where to draw the line, and you must keep it drawn, too—else where would be the socially elect?

Mrs. Martin happened to know Secretary Taft, also Miss Roosevelt, so she offered them the compliment of a reception, and she has invited her friends.

To be sure she knows everybody worth while in San Francisco so the reception will be a brilliant affair.

Prominent people are rushing back from Tahoe, from Del Norte from the many country homes everywhere in the mountains for the reception and one hears the gowns are to be most elaborate. Just fancy having to get a new evening gown in the very middle of summer.

But new gowns are the order of the hour for nobody had anything left after the wear and tear of the last social season.

Mrs. Martin is to wear an extremely handsome imported gown of heavy white silk superbly hand-embroidered, and her ornaments will be diamonds and pearls.

Mrs. Downey Harvey, her daughter, has come from New York, bringing with her Genevieve Harvey, who has just graduated from a New York convent.

Miss Anita Harvey and Miss Genevieve Harvey are Mrs. Martin's granddaughters, and both will assist their grandmother in receiving her distinguished guests.

It will be practically a "coming out party," for one of the pretty debutantes of the year, Miss Genevieve Harvey.

The decorations of the Martin home are to be very beautiful, and an elaborate supper is to be served at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Martin is one of the hostesses of San Francisco who is known as "a bountiful provider," so the entire reception will not fail in any detail, and we will compare favorably with the best the East can show along social lines.

HAVE RETURNED FROM TAHOE.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kohl, who have been spending the month of July at Tahoe, came down this week for the Martin reception. They brought with them Miss Anita Harvey, who has been their guest at the lake.

Mrs. Kohl is a young bride from the East, who has made many friends both in Oakland and San Francisco since coming to the coast.

OUTING IN THE GROVE.

The outing in the Bohemian Grove planned by the Posters for the Taft party proved to be also an elaborate affair.

The grand old grove was immensely picturesque and one hears that the gowns of some of the guests represented Paris or Vienna in every line.

You can put a great deal of money into the very simplest appearing gown,

Among the invited guests were Mrs. Hearst, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Barton, General and Mrs. Oscar Long, Mr. Arthur Duncan, Senator and Mrs. George Perkins, Governor and Mrs. Pardee, President and Mrs. Benjamin Ide Wheeler.

Among the very beautiful women at the al fresco entertainment was Mrs. Oscar F. Long, and one hears that Miss Pansy Perkins was one of the charming young guests of the afternoon.

TAKE A TRIP TO DEL MONTE.

Mrs. Gardiner Williams and the Misses Williams have gone to Del Monte for the summer.

Gardiner Williams is a brother of Mrs. E. B. Clement, and while the family has spent a great deal of time in South Africa they still have many friends here.

Among their intimate friends on this side of the bay are Mrs. Rabe, the De Gollas and the Charles Butters.

Many complimentary affairs for the early autumn are to be planned for the Misses Gardiners.

Mrs. R. G. Brown, Mrs. Everts and Miss Florine Brown are also spending some interesting July days at Del Monte. On their return to town they will resume their Wednesday afternoons at home. They serve tea on the shady porch and the afternoons are enjoyable informal "at homes."

RETURN FROM VACATION.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Folger and their children have returned after a month's stay at "The Potter" in Santa Barbara.

They will be guests for a few days this summer at the country home of the Athearn Folgers, near Redwood City. The latter have a splendid estate there, with superb oaks making a grand park, and reminding one of a country estate in England.

The Athearn Folgers are often guests at Del Monte, but they prefer to remain for the most part at their country home, where Mrs. Folger is very fond of entertaining house parties.

Mrs. Ellen Folger is still with the Tibbetts at their home in Hoosac, New York.

GOING TO ALASKA.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Alexander go to Alaska for a summer trip. Mrs. Alexander's mother, Mrs. T. L. Barker, is still ill, but she was strong enough last week to be taken to Los Gatos, where it is hoped she may recover her health. She has had a very serious illness, lasting all through the spring and early summer.

HOUGHTONS AT VENDOME.

At the Vendome this summer are Mrs. J. F. Houghton and Miss Minnie Houghton, who always spend the summer in San Jose. Judge and Mrs. Garber are also at the Vendome, and Miss Juliet Garber will join the family there on her return from abroad.

GUESTS AT A HOUSE PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Wheaton have been among the guests at a large house party given by Mr. and Mrs. Silas Palmer at the Holbrook home at Menlo Park.

Mrs. Palmer was Miss Olive Holbrook and as she is the only daughter of the Holbrook household, she remained at home after her marriage to Silas Palmer.

The Palmers entertain a great deal both at Menlo and at the family home, on Van Ness avenue.

The Charles Palmers are expected home from Europe in a few days and they are planning to make their home at Linda Vista.

METCALF COMING HOME.

And after all the talk about the coming of Alice Roosevelt, Secretary and Mrs. Metcalf were not here when the distinguished guests arrived.

Business of great importance detained Secretary Metcalf in the East, and Mrs. Metcalf has been to the Virginia Hot Springs. This week they have been in Utica, and early next week they leave for Canada, planning to spend some days in Montreal, and to come home by way of the Canadian Pacific.

MILLERS GO NORTH.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. A. Miller are among those making the Alaskan trip this season.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Miller have taken a house in Ross Valley and are spending the summer there.

Miss Marion Miller is entertaining in Mill Valley her friend, Miss Gladys Wilson.

MRS. LOHSE AT ROWARDENNAN.

Mrs. Paul Lohse and Miss Clarisse Lohse are among the recent arrivals at the Hotel Rowardennan, and they will spend the month of July in Ben Lomond.

Mrs. Montell Taylor and Master Taylor are spending the summer at Highland Springs.

TAKING AUTO RIDES.

One by one those of us who can afford it, are taking to automobiling. The latest to purchase an automobile is Mr. Arthur Goodfellow, who has bought the speedy French Mars, formerly owned by A. A. Moore Jr.

The Goodfellows are all at Capitola for the summer, and Mr. Goodfellow enjoys yachting trips on Monterey Bay and on the ocean beyond.

Mr. Arthur Goodfellow often drives to Capitola in his new automobile.

PLEASANT OUTINGS.

The John Henry Dieckmanns have come back to town, having spent pleasant weeks at "Villaremi," the Chabot home at St. Helena, and at Macraes.

Miss Emma Mahony has been for some days a guest at the Crellin home, on Alice street. This month she is to be the guest for two weeks of Mrs. Remi Chabot at the latter's country home at St. Helena.

Enthusiastic letters come from France from the J. P. H. Dunns, who are automobiling there this summer with the A. A. Moore Juniors.

THE HUBBARDS ABROAD.

The Hubbards are still travelling abroad, and the marriage of Samuel Hubbard Jr. to Miss Wolsberger of Austria took place in London, as had been planned. Mr. Charles Hubbard was the best man on the interesting occasion. The young people are on the continent for a brief wedding trip, and on their return to England they will start with the Hubbards senior for America.

FOURTH IN COUNTRY.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. MacKinnon entertained twenty-six guests at Camp MacKinnon on the Fourth of July. There was a large luncheon, after which a musical program was carried out. The camp is pleasantly situated on a creek between Lafayette and Walnut Creek.

WEDDING OF INTEREST.

A wedding of much interest took place in Oroville last week, the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Adams and Mr. Walter Lyman Brown.

Both the bride and groom are well known in Berkeley and Oakland, and both are graduates of the University of California, of the class of 1903.

The bride's attendant was Miss Kennedy, a classmate and of the same sorority at the University, and the best man was Mr. Errol McBoyle, a college chum of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown have gone to Tahoe, and they will make their permanent home in Berkeley.

BELONG TO SAME FRATERNITY.

Both Mr. Brown and Mr. Errol McBoyle belong to the Beta Theta Phi fraternity at the University, and both are proving to be very successful mining engineers. That special fraternity is noted for the successful work of graduates belonging to it. Among the mining engineers are Errol McBoyle,

MRS. MELVIN TOBRINER.

Will Mein, the Messrs. Hoffman, Paul Selby, and others who have gone to Alaska, Arizona, and some of them far afield.

After an absence of some years in South Africa, in the mines near Johannesburg, Paul Selby is coming home. He has come into his share of a great deal of money by the sale of the Selby Smelting Works.

The Selbys are all at Los Gatos, where they have built a delightful bungalow and where Mr. Prentiss Selby, after many months of illness, is rapidly regaining his health.

LOS GATOS CROWDED.

Los Gatos was simply crowded with guests for the Fourth of July holidays. It is not a long trip to take so it makes a desirable place to stay for those who must come to town every day.

The Ralstons have built a home near the Selbys and their daughter, Mrs. Bullitt, with her children, has come out from the East to spend the summer in Los Gatos.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rawlings and Miss Jane Rawlings have one of the prettiest homes in Los Gatos. Mrs. Stuart Rawlings has come from Mexico, and is with the Warners in Mill Valley.

When Stuart Rawlings arrives they will be guests of the Lloyd Rawlings in Los Gatos.

Among the guests at the Orlick home in Los Gatos last week were Miss Ethel Whitney and Miss Ada Kenna.

Miss Ethel Whitney will spend another month in Oakland, then she will join her aunt, Mrs. Condit Smith, in Washington.

SHIELDS IN LAKE COUNTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynham Shields have taken a cottage in Lake county for the entire summer. They expect to open their home on Jackson street in the late autumn.

Mr. Shields' brother, who went East last winter, has achieved a notable professional success in New York City.

CHARLES BUTTERS AT HOME.

Mr. Charles S. Butters recently returned from a business trip to Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Butters are to remain this summer at their country home, Roselawn, where they will entertain week-end house parties.

DINNER AT BEN LOMOND.

The dinner given by Miss Evelyn Husey at Ben Lomond on Monday evening was a very elaborate affair. It was given in honor of Miss Charlotte Lally, who with her mother is spending the summer at the Hotel Rowardennan.

The decorations of the table were all in color tones of red, white and blue, complimentary to "The day we celebrate." The favors and name cards were all from Oakland, and the favors for the girls were dainty little slippers of rare china. At the dinner was Miss Noelle De Golia, who is Miss Husey's guest.

Miss Charlotte Hall came over from Felton, and Miss Kitty Kutz and Miss Charlotte Lally from the Hotel Rowardennan.

The dinner was very interesting, and many of its features were unique and picturesque.

MISS LALLY'S WEDDING.

The date of the wedding of Miss Lally and Mr. Arthur Kelley has been set for the early autumn and the maid of honor will be Miss Lally's sister.

The other attendants will be Miss Evelyn Husey and Miss Kitty Kutz.

MISS ROOSEVELT IN THE EAST.

As Miss Roosevelt is here this week, a paragraph about her in a New York social column may be of special interest:

Miss Alice Roosevelt, whose picture is in this issue, and who is now en route to San Francisco, from which port she will sail with Secretary Taft's party on July 8 for the Philippines, is as well known in New York, and is here almost as much as in Washington.

Her favorite chaperone and friend here is Mrs. William Travers, who was one of the Harriman circle, and who is a sister of Mrs. Stephen H. Olin, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Sr., and Oliver, William and E. H. Harriman.

Mrs. Travers is much older than Miss Roosevelt, although a young woman, and is getting a divorce from her husband, who is a son of the famous wit, "Billy" Travers. Miss Roosevelt bears a certain resemblance to Mrs. Travers in features, and might easily be taken for her sister, though the older woman is thinner, and has yellow hair and blue eyes, while Miss Roosevelt has chestnut brown hair, and her eyes are quite as much gray as blue. She intensifies the resemblance by gowning herself in much the same fashion as her married friend and wearing much the same sort of hats.

Miss Roosevelt is much in evidence at Sherry's, lunching or dining with Mrs. Travers or other friends.

The simple gown she has on in the picture is a white liberty gown, with a girle corage and bertha and sleeve flounces of white lace. She is fond of black and white, either in combination or alone; but a certain brown cloth coat and skirt, topped by a brown picture hat, trimmed with brown feathers, is perhaps one of the prettiest and most effective costumes for walking that she has worn. She also delights in red or touches of it, and a black and white plaid costume is piped with red and topped, when she wears it, by a large red hat.

MRS. OELRICHS ABROAD.

Mrs. Herman Oelrichs is making a long stay abroad this year, and has taken her little son, Herman Oelrichs, Jr., for a tour of the continent.

One hears that Mrs. Oelrichs bids fair to be one of the richest women in the world, so everything connected with her is of great interest to Californians.

It is a far cry from the humble little shack in the wilds of Nevada, to a Newport palace, and another palace on Fifth avenue.

The Pacific coast can show some remarkable phases of social evolution. Mrs. Oelrichs and Mrs. Vanderbilt, Jr., from Nevada and California, are at the head of the smart set in America, and Mrs. John Mackay rules Europe socially, and has London at her feet, including the nobility of the Court of St. James.

It takes courage as well as money, and those of us still on the coast like to think these fortunate ones express what might happen to any of us.

And the California woman can hold her own in any land or clime.

TAFT PARTY AT BERKELEY.

As I write the Taft party is at Berkeley, and the guests are being entertained at luncheon by Mrs. Wheeler.

Afterward there is to be the big meeting in the Greek Theater. But of course that must be for the future—"another story."

THE MEDDLER. A SURPRISE.

A surprise was sprung at Marysville on the many friends of Chester L. Bowen, a prominent young merchant of this city, when his marriage to Miss Rheta Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Parker of Oakland, was announced. The ceremony was performed in Redwood City on Wednesday, July 5, by Rev. Winford Kent. The bride is a former resident of this vicinity.

TO RETURN SOON.

Miss Marietta Havens, who has been spending many delightful weeks in the islands, the guest of the Alexander Youngs, is to return to town within a fortnight.

MR. AND MRS. BUTTERS BACK.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Butters, who have been at St. Helena for several weeks, are in town for a brief visit. They return to their summer home tomorrow and with them will be Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Bray, Mrs. G. B. Cook and Miss Louise Mahoney, who go up for a week-end visit.

AT SUMMER HOME.

Miss Viva Nicholson is back from the holiday house-party at the Butters home at St. Helena. Next week Secretary and Mrs. Victor H. Metcalf are to arrive from Washington, and the whole party will spend some weeks at the Metcalf summer home at Mission San Jose.

AT HOME, AGAIN.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Belden are at home again after a delightful visit to the Jensen ranch near Ghasta, the remainder of the party being still away and enjoying a delightful outing.

WHIST PARTY.

A grand whist party is being arranged by a committee of ladies and gentlemen of St. Anthony's parish of East Oakland, to take place in St. Anthony's Hall, East Sixteenth street, and Sixteenth Avenue, Thursday evening, July 20. This affair will be held under the auspices of the San Antonio Whist Club, whose popular and successful whist parties last year were so well attended.

A large number of prizes will be distributed on the occasion. P. Mahoney is chairman of the committee. The proceeds are for the benefit of St. Anthony's Boys' School.

GO UP NORTH.

Ralph E. Seavey and William Birmingham of the United Iron Works leave Sunday, July 9, for a trip to Washington and Oregon, visiting points of interest en route to the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

HOME AGAIN.

Hugh S. and Dr. Carra Aldrich have returned to town, having spent several days with Mrs. Emma Shatto Howard at her beautiful home in Inverness.

ARE HER GUESTS.

Miss Marion and Hazel Horton are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cahill at their Cottage in Quarnwood Park. Miss Horton will spend the month of August in Portland.

NEWS OF THE DAY FROM THE SUBURBS

GRECIAN GAMES AT THE UNIVERSITY.

PROFESSOR WALTER MAGEE.

Professor Magee Plans Novel Series of Events in Greek Theater Next Autumn.

BERKELEY, July 8.—Plans are being made by Professor Walter Magee, director of the department of physical culture at the University of California, for an entirely new feature in the way of athletics during the coming school year. Professor Magee proposes to inaugurate a series of Greek games, to be held in the Greek Theater.

Students of the University who are deemed to be qualified for participation in these games will be selected by Professor Magee and entered in the various contests which will be arranged.

The Greek Theater is deemed to be admirably adapted for this purpose. It has a great oval, in which wrestlers and other contestants may struggle for honors, while all about them would be seated spectators on the stone seats of the Greek auditorium.

The idea originated with Professor Magee. Nothing of the sort has ever been thought of or attempted at any American university, and its mention at the University of California has met with entire approval.

Professor Magee is to have associated with him during the coming year as an assistant Herr Pfund of Austria, whose specialty is the giving of lessons in fencing and other gentlemanly sports.

"PROF." AS HOST

German Officers Entertained By Schilling.

BERKELEY, July 8.—In return for a visit paid by Prof. Hugo Karl Schilling of the German department of the University of California to the German cruiser Falke, now lying in San Francisco harbor, some of the officers of the ship called upon the Professor in Berkeley yesterday. Professor Schilling had been royally entertained on the Imperial vessel, a special launch being employed to convey him to the battleship. Yesterday the visitors were shown about Berkeley and the University grounds. The Greek Theater and the botanical gardens were a source of admiration to them.

CONFESSES TO MURDER.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 8.—A Commercial Appeal special from Pocatontos, Ark., says that Ed Hubbard, at a Coroner's inquest today, confessed that he and Willie Roberts, a woman whom he named as his accomplice, carried out a plot which resulted in the drowning of a man on Spring river. The drowning was the culmination of a plan to secure the old man's property through a will made in the woman's favor.

Hubbard and the woman were held to the Grand Jury. The former has been removed to Jonesboro for safekeeping.

RISING BREAST

No woman who uses "Mother's Friend" need fear the suffering and danger incident to birth; for it robs the ordeal of its horror and insures safety to life of mother and child, and leaves her in a condition more favorable to speedy recovery. The child is also healthy, strong and good natured. Our book "Motherhood," is worth its weight in gold to every woman, and will be sent free in plain envelope by addressing application to

DEAL IN PROPERTY

Unimproved Land Sold to Berkeley Syndicate.

BERKELEY, July 8.—A big deal in Berkeley real estate has just taken place in the Leviston property of 250 acres to a party of four prominent local promoters for an amount aggregating some $50,000. The men interested in the deal are Dr. W. W. Underhill, J. C. Ford, E. B. Griffith, the well known attorney, and Professor Bernard B. Maybeck, the university architect. The property is situated one and a half miles north of the town, adjoining the land of the Pacific Improvement Company on the north.

Although the 250 acres bought by the promoters are a considerable distance from the residence limits of North Berkeley, there is a steady increasing tendency to extend the residence district to the northward. Already there is an appreciable increase of property values in that neighborhood. The purchasers of the Leviston tract intend to divide their property into smaller holdings, and eventually to utilize them as residence lots.

Just a week ago, the Berkeley Development Company purchased for $60,000 100 lots in the Northlands tract in the northeastern end of the town. There is a growing desire among the home-seekers in Berkeley nowadays to get into the hills. Hundreds of homes have been erected in North Berkeley within the last year and several hundred more are in contemplation.

"Why is his face wrinkled?"

"For care."

"From carelessness."—Cleveland Leader.

And many other painful and serious ailments from which most mothers suffer, can be avoided by the use of "Mother's Friend." This great remedy is a God-send to women, carrying them through their most critical ordeal with safety and no pain. "Motherhood," is worth its weight in gold to every woman, and will be sent free in plain envelope by addressing application to

BOARD OF TRADE

Plan to Further Interests of Town.

SAN LEANDRO, July 8.—There will be a called meeting of the Board of Trade here next Monday evening at the Town Hall. J. M. Estudillo, the president, has recently returned from a business trip and is free to devote more of his time to the furthering of the interests of the citizens here.

The Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland will be considered at the meeting. A number of the members expect to attend one fair this month or next. Daniel Best, the proprietor of the Best Manufacturing Works, has a large exhibit there of traction engines, locomotives, harvesters, and other heavy and intricate machinery.

For several months the Board of Trade has not been doing much business for various reasons. However, it is now the intention to begin work in earnest to make the town more prosperous and beautiful. Advertising schemes will be considered and probably a committee will be appointed to look into this matter.

LODGE ITEMS.

Cherry Camp of Woodmen and the Rebekah Lodge both installed their officers for the ensuing year Thursday evening. Special exercises and a musical program were the features at the entertainment given by the women's lodge.

At the installation of the Woodmen, a grand banquet was served. It was attended by the Oakland and other neighboring lodges, and the Oakland drill team gave an exhibition drill.

At the conclusion of the meal there were several speeches by the prominent visitors present. Head Manager Robinson, of Oakland, who had done the installing, delivered the address of the evening. Town Attorney J. N. Frank acted as toastmaster. Others who spoke were J. W. Bule, Colonel George Clark and L. D. Critchlow.

The drill team of the S. P. K. S. I. will go to Pleasanton the day after tomorrow to take part in the exercises of the Grand Lodge there. Captain J. W. Bule is to accompany the team and put the members through their paces in the fancy drill they are going to give.

PERSONALS.

Joshua Gray of this place died last Thursday from the effects of an injudicious exposure to the sun. He never regained consciousness after fainting away with the heat. He was eighty years of age and leaves no relatives.

There will be a special meeting this evening at the Methodist parsonage on Juana avenue for the members of the Standard Bearers' League. A literary program with the missionary work in Korea as the principal topic is to precede the supper. It will be the monthly meeting of the society.

John Lane has recovered from a lengthy illness caused by blood poisoning.

Mrs. F. P. Church, the local postmistress, is to lead the meeting of the Epworth League at the M. E. Church tomorrow evening.

Mrs. R. W. Craft is absent on a trip to Santa Clara county. She expects to remain for a short time.

WANT A CONTEST

Fruitvale Team Has Issued Challenge.

FRUITVALE, July 8.—As a reward for their strenuous struggle at Haywards on the fourth of July, the five laddies of this place who are in the horse cart team will partake of a banquet this evening in Oakland. W. R. Cowan is in charge of getting up the affair, which is to be paid for with the $30 that the team won as a prize in the tournament at Haywards.

A project is on foot to have another race between the local team and their late opponents, as many of the citizens are not satisfied with the result last Tuesday when the home team conquered this bunch. A number of reasons are given for the defeat. W. Peterson, the nozzle man slipped and fell when trying to adjust the wrench to the nut. Besides, the boys were unused to the cart, with which the winners had been practicing for several weeks. Also, the Haywards crew had always run on the same stretch as that where the race was held.

Chief W. R. Cowan is responsible for statement that the citizens of Fruitvale are willing to put up a $100 purse for the winner in a horse tournament to be arranged between the two teams at some other place than at Haywards, and with some other apparatus than that which the Haywards team practices. The intention is to arrange for the contest at San Jose, where they have a regular racing horse cart. Neither crew could have the advantage of more practice than the other, and both could be kept off the course until the day of the race.

In addition, the flow of water at San Leandro is constant, while in Haywards it is produced by a pumping machine, and so swifter at some times than at others, giving an advantage to one team.

Following are the names of the members of the Fruitvale horse company: Tom Carroll, Jr.; J. Quigg, James Rosengreen, Harry Ward, Ed Jackson, W. Peterson, John Perry, Michael Carroll, Axel Vallin, William Peppin, Peter Peterson and Alex Everett.

SANITARY BOARD.

There was a meeting of the Fruitvale Sanitary board Thursday evening at the Masonic Hall. The board was there to act as a board of equalization in case any of the property owners in the district should be dissatisfied with their assessment. No one appeared, however, and the routine business was all that was transacted.

HEALTH OFFICER TELLS DAIRYMEN FACTS.

Plain Statement Regarding Dangers That Threaten Consumers of Milk From Sick Cows.

BERKELEY, July 8.—The argument over tuberculosis in cows has stirred the University town. Health Officer Dr. George Reinhardt has replied to the Berkeley dairymen in the matter of enforcing the dairy regulations of Berkeley. Dr. Reinhardt declares that the tuberculosis test is an absolute means of determining the presence of tuberculosis in cows, and avers that bovine tuberculosis can be carried to man. He further states that pure milk campaigns are being successfully conducted in Palo Alto and Pasadena.

When seen today Dr. Reinhardt said: "The dairymen have long known that the tuberculosis test is an absolute means of determining the presence of tuberculosis in cows. It is quite natural then that they should object to its use because they know that nearly every herd has some diseased cows in it. They sell milk for the money there is to be made out of it and consequently are very desirous that you should use their product, even though they know it is taken from a tuberculosis herd. What do they care for the public health as long as the public is willing to buy their disease-infected products?"

The communicability to man of bovine tuberculosis has now been determined beyond a doubt. Medical literature for the past few years has been teeming with the number of cases

PAPERS TO READ

Innovation in Public Library of Berkeley

BERKELEY, July 8.—An innovation in the Berkeley Public Library is the hope of a newspaper room, has just been inaugurated, where the leading dailies and weeklies of the State and the larger Eastern cities are kept on file, was thrown open to the public early last week. The large room, opposite the children's room on the north side of the building has been handsomely fitted with light golden oak inclined reading desks, tables, stools and chairs to correspond with the other rooms in the library and a cork floor laid.

Besides the around-the-bay dailies, the following papers are on file: Los Angeles Times, Morning Oregonian, Portland Evening Republican, Morning Messenger, Downville, The Wall Street Journal, New York; Pacific Rural Press and California Fruit Bulletin; Yreka Journal, Sacramento Union, Del Norte Record, Crescent City, Fresno Guide, Mendocino Beacon, Oakland Graphic, The Red Bluff News, New York Times, New York Tribune, San Francisco Star, The Public, Chicago; Headlight, Tribune, The Pacific Homestead, Salem, Ore.; The Argonaut, San Francisco; The Pander's Monthly, San Jose; The Occult Review, London.

MISS LERNER TO WED TOMORROW.

MISS MINNIE LERNER.

Pretty Wedding to Take Place in Alameda—Note and Personals.

ALAMEDA, July 8.—The wedding of Miss Minnie Lerner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lerner, and David N. Mossesohn of Portland is to occur tomorrow afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents, 2212 Clinton avenue. Rev. Dr. N. Mossesohn of Portland, the father of the groom, is to perform the ceremony. The bride will be attended by her sister, Miss Anna Lerner, and Moses Mossesohn, a brother of the groom, will be the best man.

The Lerner residence has been tastefully and lavishly decorated for the occasion. The decorative scheme consists of pink and white buds. A floral bell has been hung in the drawing room, and beneath it the nuptial ceremony will be performed.

The bride-to-be is well known in Alameda and Oakland, and by her winning graces has made a host of friends. She was attending the Oakland High School when she made the acquaintance of her prospective husband. The little friendship ripened into love, and when with his family he went to Oregon letters kept the fires of love brightly burning.

While in Oregon Mr. Mossesohn made an enviable reputation for himself as one of the leading attorneys of Portland. In the last Roosevelt campaign he was one of the most prominent of the Republican orators. He is the editor of a leading trade journal in the Northwest.

After a honeymoon trip the couple will reside in Portland.

DECLARE ANIMALS A NUISANCE.

ALAMEDA, July 8.—Howling dogs, screeching chickens and kicking horses have been brought to the notice of Judge R. B. Tappan, neighbors of these objectionable animals having begged the court to issue warrants for their arrest.

The dog in question, according to residents of Laurel street, dings his unmelodious howlings upon the night air, and makes sleep an impossibility for all those within hearing. The canine is dissatisfied with the heavenly light he gets, for he directs all of his efforts toward bawling at the moon.

Mrs. Horn's chickens have raised "Old Scratch" with the lawns of her neighbors, and the injured ones have brought the matter to Judge Tappan's attention, begging him to issue warrants for the feathered bipeds on a charge of trespass and disturbing the peace.

Mrs. Olsen, who lives on Laurel street, has a horse that her neighbors describe as "an old plug." It is the practice of this equine to nightly kick out the side of the stable, providing noise like the banging of a rattling gun. The warlike beast waits until the neighborhood is wrapped in slumber, and then he turns loose with his heels, giving on each occasion an imitation of the battle of San Juan Hill. The neighbors state that they will tolerate no more of the equine's peevish entertainments, and have asked Judge Tappan for a warrant on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Judge Tappan informed the angry complainants that he had no jurisdiction over the birds of the air or the beasts of the field.

FIREMAN MARRIED.

ALAMEDA, July 8.—James A. Hill, a well-known driver in the Alameda Fire Department, and Miss Florence Sowden of Fruitvale were married yesterday morning at the First Christian Church, the Rev. P. C. Macfarlane officiating. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Nellie Sowden, while the groom was supported by his brother, Edward Hill. After a short honeymoon trip the newly married couple will reside in Alameda.

in the pleasure resorts of the Swiss Alps, and a variety of picturesque characters are combined, such as a Russian nobleman, a Spanish scoundrel, a fiery Portuguese, and an Italian waiter who has masqueraded in America as a fortune-hunting Count. A little party of Americans, traveling abroad for pleasure, are the central figures in the ever-changing kaleidoscope of comic complications, and chief among them is the Chicago speculator, so amusingly played by Crane. He is the hustling, bustling embodiment of shrewdness, but big-hearted and keenly susceptible to the fascinations of pretty women. The comedy is one of unflagging vivacity and there is woven through it a dainty little thread of sentiment.

FRANK BACON IN "A COUNTY FAIR."

REAL ESTATE SOME ITEMS OF INTEREST TRADE NOTES

ALL PROPERTY BROKERS HAVE BEEN KEPT BUSY, IS REPORT.

Books Show Many Small Sales.

Despite the warm weather and holiday which broke up part of the week real estate men say they have no cause for complaint. The sales for June were far ahead of the record for the same month in 1904, and July has started in most encouragingly. There are a number of big deals in business property pending, and the new industries which want to locate here are still negotiating for desirable sites.

To attract factories to this section a unique scheme has been devised by the Board of Trade. Envelope stickers are to be issued similar to the following and they will be placed on the backs of all envelopes sent East by the board and any members or merchants who desire to make use of them:

"Wanted, in Oakland, Cal.—A surgical instrument house—complete and independent, population in the three counties aggregating 300 beds, a medical college; depending on travelers from San Francisco for surgical instruments and appliances. Write Secretary Board of Trade, Oakland, Cal."

DEMAND FOR STORES.

Realty men report quite a demand for stores on Washington street and Broadway and the intervening streets between Twelfth and Fifteenth. At present there is not a single store available for rental purposes in the district named. It is said that immediately after Paul C. Pulse has secured a lease of the store at Thirteenth and Washington streets he was offered a bonus of $500 for the place. He took the matter under consideration, but was unable to secure any other location, so decided to hold on to his original lease.

LANTERN SLIDES.

The lantern slides which the Board of Trade sent East for use in the theaters of the Kelt circuit have been returned, after having been shown to hundreds of thousands of people in the eighteen theaters of the circuit. Many applications for literature from cities and towns in New England have been received by Secretary Stearns since these pictures were shown, and Mr. Stearns believes Oakland has been well advertised by the pictures.

FEW SMALL DEALS.

J. Tyrrell reports a number of small deals under way. The warm weather has had a tendency to drive many prospective buyers to the seashore or mountains on their vacations, and a number of sales which otherwise would have been closed have been temporarily delayed.

Hugh M. Cameron reports the sale of a residence on Chestnut street for Rebecca M. White to W. H. Brown; lot on Myrtle street, near Twenty-first, for Grace V. King to William J. Britton; residence on Laurel street for J. W. Cline to William Cary; house at Third and Linden streets for the Hyde estate to Mrs. Bridget Kearns.

TAYLOR BROS. TRACT.

Taylor Bros. have taken charge of the Sanford tract, near Fruitvale avenue, and between Fruitvale and Elmhurst, and will subdivide it and sell the lots for from $150 up. The tract includes about 200 lots and one-half that number were sold by the owners, Samuel Brothers, through various agencies before Taylor Bros. took charge. There are seven or eight houses on the tract at present and more are about to be built.

$15,000 DEAL.

Taking into consideration that this has been a holiday week the Realty Bonds and Finance Company has no cause for complaint. Manager Frank Woodward reports the sale of a piece of business property on San Pablo avenue for $15,000. Full particulars are withheld until the deeds are filed.

Sixty-seven lots have been sold in the Barker Park tract and seventy lots in the Woodlawn tract. A number of fine residences are in course of construction on both of these tracts.

RENTAL PROPERTY.

Layman says the demand for rental property is fair, considering the fact that it is summer and people prefer to live in cottages. "There are less flats to rent in Oakland this summer than any previous year that I can recall," said W. J. Layman.

"Naturally the renter prefers a cottage, but the latter is a scarce article just now, and in the absence of property of this class the home seeker is obliged to take the next best thing—a four to six-room flat. Apartments are not much in demand in the summer time, as most women who have small families dislike to cook in hot weather. They prefer to eat in the restaurants."

RANCH PROPERTY.

Realty men who deal in ranch property report much activity in that line. Vandercook, Layman and Tyrrell all have had many calls and a number of sales in ranch property. The Layman Company reports two sales recently in Nevada county, one in Santa Clara county and one in Napa county.

Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Efforts are being made to secure extensions of subscriptions to the new Y. M. C. A. building that were made about a year ago. At that time a large building fund was pledged, with the understanding that work on the structure would begin within twelve months. The time has since elapsed and nothing has been done toward putting up a building larger than to have a number of plans submitted. Some of the members and others who have promised liberal support think that if the committee hopes to retain the support of the public-spirited residents they should go ahead with the construction of the building without further delay. Some have already paid their subscription. The money is drawing interest in the bank and they say if they had known that construction of the building was not to have been begun at once they would have kept the money until it was needed.

BUILDING HOMES.

This promises to be a record-breaking summer for the construction of new homes. Every section of the city is seeing new houses go up, which the old settler says is a positive sign of the city's growth. No one section is enjoying any greater activity than another, showing that the new comers are of the cosmopolitan type.

Oakland people are finding that it is better to build their own homes than pay rent, and those with small means are buying and building on the installment plan, paying down a few hundred dollars to build their tract.

Harvey B. Lindsay is building a $3,500 house on 25th street, and Andrew J. Martin has begun the erection of a two-story cottage on Laurel street to cost $2,000.

G. W. Bramhall is to build three two-story frame houses from plans by Architect A. W. Smith, to cost $5,700.

Paul Mohr will build a two-story house on Bonaventure street, between Russell and Stuart, and Mrs. Carrie Trahan will make alterations to her building on Washington street at an outlay of $2,000.

NEW REAL ESTATE FIRM.

A new real estate firm has been started in Berkeley by two energetic men of this city. H. C. Tupper and J. D. Kay, the latter known familiarly as "Doc," the former being for fifteen years in the real estate business in Oakland.

The new office of the firm have been located at Alcatraz and Grove in Berkeley, where they have already done a large share of the business.

CREW IN REVOLT AGAINST CAPTAIN

HALIFAX, N. S., July 8.—The attempt of the Government to transfer Canadian mails from the Allan line turbine steamship Virginia to Sydney and thence to Montreal by rail, has developed the fact that the crew of the Canadian government cruiser Canada is in open revolt against Captain Knowlton, who is in command of the vessel. Five of the crew are now in jail for refusing duty. The men allege bad treatment; that the decks leak, making the use of the hammocks impossible, and that the bedding has not been changed for months.

It sometimes happens that when a man comes home about 2 a. m. and finds his wife waiting for him at the door of the stable he imagines he's a bigamist. —Chicago News.

PLENTY OF BUILDING GOING ON

Block in Berkeley to Have Three Stories.

J. L. Barker has decided to put up a three-story building instead of two stories on Dwight way in Berkeley, and the contract has been let to Robert Gregg and Childs Arlett for $40,000. The building will be 100x127 feet and the extra story will give thirty-six more rooms for apartments. The exterior of the structure will be mission style.

Architect Smith has plans for a flat and store at the corner of Twenty-fifth street and Telegraph avenue for Clifford Bourdman. Dingwell Bros. have the contract, the price being $1,700. The building with its alterations will have a frontage of 50 feet and a depth of 70 feet.

MEGANOS RANCH DISTRIBUTED

JUDGE WELLS MAKES DECISION IN LONG CONTESTED CASE.

MARTINEZ, July 8.—Judge W. S. Wells yesterday handed down the decision of the Superior Court in the long-litigated case of Sanford vs. Bergin, a case that has been before the courts for years past and that has excited much interest both because of the bitterness with which it has been fought, the large estate involved and the prominence of many of the parties in interest, most of whom reside in San Francisco.

The suit had to do entirely with the disposition of the Los Meganos Rancho situated in this county, 12,316 acres in extent, and made up almost entirely of very rich and productive soil. The rancho is undoubtedly worth in the neighborhood of $500,000, a deed of trust in the amount of $205,000 not being considered enough of an incumbrance to any who have sold the land, or of those in interest who have sought to secure the property.

By the decree of the Court, distribution is ordered to be made as follows: Professor George Davidson, 2323.85 acres; A. F. Moseley, 2823.65 acres; T. I. Bergin, 1821 acres and 145 fathoms; Dr. C. N. Ellinwood, 1414 acres and 125 fathoms; Charles E. Sanford, 704,412.35 acres; Marie E. Robinson, 707,412.35 acres; Asa N. Sanford, 707,412.35 acres; Marion Wagner, 221,932 acres; Grace Hayes, 221,932 acres; estate of John A. Stanley, 221,932. Stanley was formerly Public Administrator of this county and Garret McEnerney is the well known San Francisco attorney.

In accordance with the judgment rendered by the Court today, the deed of trust amounting to $205,000 and held by other parties than those enumerated, is directed to be considered a lien on the entire property, and judgment further directs that some disposition of this deed of trust must be made before a final decree is entered in the matter.

The property involved is located near Antioch in Contra Costa county, and the town of Brentwood now stands on part of the ranch. John T. Sanford bought the tract from John and Alice Marsh in 1872 for $305,000. He gave mortgages for part of the purchase money and money saved the tract to the Brentwood Coal Company, securing the purchase money by taking a mortgage on the land. The mortgages on John and Alice Marsh were not paid and were foreclosed, Sanford then borrowed $150,000 of the San Francisco Savings & Loan Society to redeem the property and made a further loan of $50,000 from a New York bank, with which he took up various minor liens before the loan company would accept the mortgage. In 1882 a controversy arose between Sanford and the loan society's title to the ranch was that of an absolute owner or held by a deed of trust. While the suit was pending Sanford died, and his mother, Sanford, continued the fight; she too died before the case was finally determined, and Josephine L. Sanford, sister to Harriet A., carried on the contest and won it in 1893. She died in September, 1897, leaving a large estate, of which the Meganos ranch was only a part. This ranch she distributed as follows: One-fourth to Andrew S. Moseley, one-fourth to Dr. Ellinwood, one-eighth to Arthur J. Bergin, one-eighth to Professor George Davidson and one-fourth to be held in trust by these four for the benefit of two legatees who were not relatives. One clause of the will read:

"I purposely ignore Charles E. Sanford, son of my late brother, Charles E. Sanford, on account of his ill-treatment to myself and my late sister, Harriet A. Sanford, and I purposely ignore Elizabeth Robinson and Asa M. Sanford, children of my late brother, Asa M. Sanford, and I thus expressly do so that courts may thoroughly understand that I disinherit them."

Charles E. Sanford came on from New York, contested the trust clause in the will and broke it. The clause was similar to that in the Fair will, created a forbidden trust, to convey real property to beneficiaries, and the Supreme Court held the clause invalid. The ranch has been almost continually in the courts in one cause or another for the past thirty-three years. The most sensational suit was that of Charles E. Sanford when he sued the executors for an accounting. In this case the executors, they had induced the Balfour Guthrie Investment Company to take up the loan of the San Francisco Savings and Loan Society, $205,000, failed to redeem the property, and the latter mortgage foreclosed, and deeded the property to Thomas B. Davidson, a son of Professor Davidson, who deeded the property to the executors, according to the

MONEY IS COMING IN Three Deposits For Business Property Taken.

The recent sale of the south half of the Delger block on Broadway to E. A. Whitaker, the Salt Lake capitalist, by the Layman Real Estate Company for $116,000 appears to have been but the commencement of a series of pretentious sales in which outside capital figures very largely.

During the past week Mr. Layman has taken three deposits from another outside capitalist for as many different pieces of small-sized business properties, aggregating close to $45,000, and particulars of which will be announced later.

This buyer has informed the Realty Company that he has friends who are as enthusiastic over Oakland's future as is he, and they, too, are preparing to invest in income property here.

"We have also sold for the Bank of California," said Mr. Layman, "to Nicholas Froebe of Napa a fine residence at the southwest corner of Tenth and Jackson streets, and Mr. Froebe's family will occupy the home."

NEW WAY TO GET SWINDLED

NEW YORK, July 8.—A new version of the green goods game has come to light through the arrest of Grove Collins who was later held in $2,500 bail on a charge of using the mails to defraud. Collins is alleged to have mailed the prospective victims a good $1 bill and an offer to send $500 of the same sort C. D. D. for $50.

The postmaster at Sayre, O. T., learned that a man he knew had received an express package from Collins, paying over the $50 before being allowed to open it. He reported to the New York authorities and the arrest followed.

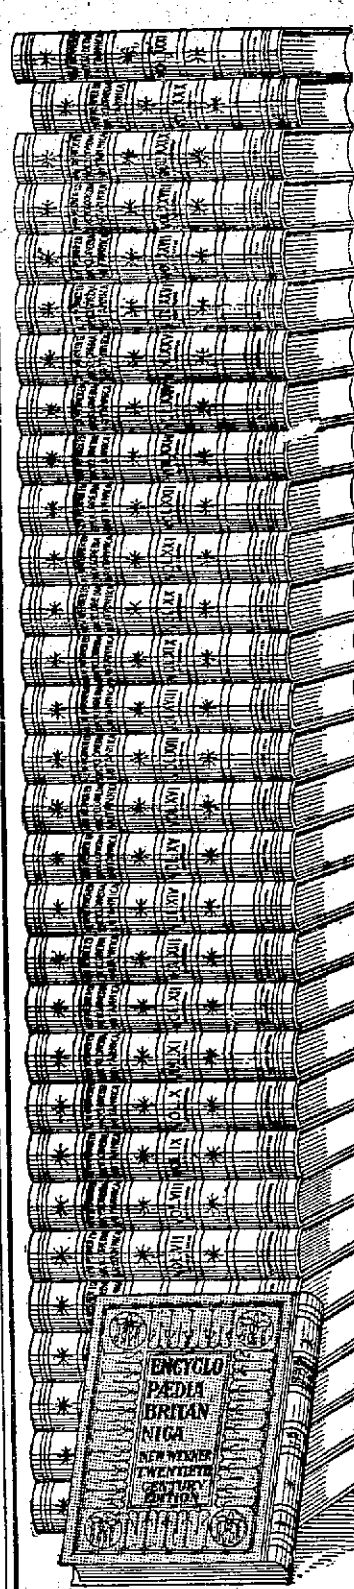

PHARMACISTS TO HOLD MEETING

PORTLAND, July 8.—Pharmacists from all parts of the Pacific Coast have begun to assemble to take part in the Lewis and Clark Pharmaceutical Congress, which will convene at the exposition grounds July 11. As an outgrowth of this congress it is believed that a permanent association of pharmacists of the Pacific Coast will be formed. An elaborate program has been arranged, which includes many speakers of national prominence in the craft, and the subjects to be covered include nearly every phase of the business.

 terms of the will. This, Sanford thought, was an attempt to deprive the heirs of their share of the estate, but the matter was satisfactorily explained.

The final order of distribution is now made, and the expressly disinherited heirs secure one-fourth of the estate. In the above distribution Kate Stoney, Grace Hayes and the Stanley estate are heirs, respectively, to the members of the law firm of Stanley, Stoney & Hayes, Marion Wagner, Eva Fritchett, Edith Newland and Hall McAllister are the heirs of Hall McAllister, who had a claim against the estate for legal services; Garret W. McEnerney had a claim against the estate, also for legal services, and assigned one-half of it to W. B. Treadwell.

The Tribune Invites You TO JOIN ITS Encyclopædia Club

Have you a good Encyclopædia in your home, or at your store, factory or office? If not, THE TRIBUNE Encyclopædia Club should interest you.

A few days ago we announced that we had secured a limited number of sets of the world's greatest reference library. This library is being distributed direct from the factory to readers at just about half its former price and on terms so liberal as to place it within reach of every man and woman in Oakland.

THE TRIBUNE invites you to join this club. Already the interest in it is widespread, and the small number of sets will not last long. Not only is the offer phenomenal, but the work itself is absolutely unrivaled; it is the latest and greatest of its class. THE NEW WERNER 20TH CENTURY EDITION of the

Encyclopædia Britannica

This world-embracing work, revised up to 1905, is a complete library in itself. It contains thirty-one massive volumes, with 25,000 large pages, embellished with a profusion of maps, diagrams and illustrations. It is equal to 500 books the size of the ordinary novel, and is so far superior to the usual cyclopædia that any comparison whatever is useless. THE TRIBUNE, therefore, feels especially fortunate in being able to offer this greatest of Encyclopædias to its readers.

Seven Reasons Why We Choose This Encyclopædia

1. This Encyclopædia is TWICE THE SIZE of the ordinary cyclopædia.
2. It is not only an Encyclopædia in the truest sense of the word, but a home reference library as well, treating ALL THE SUBJECTS IN FULL, instead of referring the reader elsewhere.
3. All its articles were WRITTEN BY EXPERTS, by the men best fitted to deal with them.
4. This encyclopædia gives a special volume containing 73 READING COURSES in Law, History, Science, Philosophy, Medicine, Theology and every trade and profession.
5. All the material for these reading courses is furnished by the work itself, making it a COMPLETE HOME UNIVERSITY.
6. IT IS INTERESTING TO READ, being written simply and clearly by the greatest masters of style. Boys and girls will find many things they will like to read, because seemingly written especially for them.
7. It is not only the best, but also the CHEAPEST, because of the present remarkable plan of sale.

On account of their extensive advertising and distributing facilities, The American Newspaper Association secured entire control of the latest edition of this monumental work, which they are distributing direct from the factory, thus cutting out middlemen's profits and effecting a saving to readers of nearly 50 per cent. of the former price. Through the courtesy of the Association THE TRIBUNE is enabled to supply a limited number of sets of this edition at exactly the same terms, and on an

GOSSIP FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

MITCHELL AND HIS CRIME

The supposition is that Francis Henry would not have secured the conviction of Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, had not Judge De Haven intimated that he would let him off with a fine. The sympathies of the jurors had been so adroitly played upon that they were reluctant to find him guilty, because they did not want to send the old man to jail, but the Court hinted that he was privileged to satisfy justice with a fine. It cannot be denied that despite his long career of rascality, the seventy-year old statesman is today a pathetic figure. It is hard to withhold sympathy from a man who has risen to eminence in the service of his country and who is disgraced on the verge of the grave. The crime of which he has been convicted is one, however, that should be severely punished, not for any satisfaction that might be derived from the knowledge that the criminal was compelled to suffer for his act, but rather for the example that should be given. John H. Mitchell has committed crimes more revolting than the one for which he was tried in Oregon. As a United States Senator he prostituted his office in a shameful manner, but there was nothing that revolts in such conduct for it is commonplace. We have been viewing such conduct with complaisance. Subversive though it is of the functions of our government we have not begun to take it with sufficient seriousness. The civic conscience is not so keen as to prompt us to loathe the bribe-taker in public office. The Mitchell crime is not repugnant to our sense of patriotism, for unfortunately American patriotism is expressed principally in Fourth of July parades. To most of us the flag has little meaning except in battle, or when draped at half mast. We have yet to learn that the man who keeps a conscience all alert to shield, inspire and advance his country's name is as deserving of the laurel as the man behind the gun.—Town Talk.

HIS CHECKERED CAREER

The career of John Mitchell is without parallel in American politics. He has dominated the politics of Oregon for forty years; he has been elected to the Senate four times; he has been charged with startling domestic infidelities and sensational political debaucheries which he has never disproved and which would have wrecked the fortunes of any other person in public life. Mitchell was in control of Oregon politics when Boss Tweed owned New York. That was over thirty years ago and Mitchell is still holding the stage-centre in the theater of national politics. He has controlled courts and juries as well as legislatures, he has been fretted, but never defeated, by charges of corruption. At twenty-five he deserted a wife and two children in Pennsylvania and eloped to this State with a young woman whom he deserted in San Luis Obispo. Then he went to Oregon, changed his name from Hippie to Mitchell, married a Miss Price and while united to her declared his love for her sister. At least such was the charge made against him by the man she was engaged to marry. And when he was serving his first term in the Senate his ardent letters to his sister-in-law were published in fac simile in Portland. They made a big sensation but Mitchell denied their authenticity as blandly as he denied his guilt when indicted for complicity in the land frauds.—Town Talk.

WHY BLINGUM IS ASLEEP

Burlingame has never been so dull as it is this year. There is absolutely nothing doing in the fashionable suburb, and there are no prospects of enlivening frivols.

The Mayo Newhalls, who had a debutante daughter to exploit last summer, managed to stir up things a little, but this year they are making the round of the various resorts. The Walter Martins, who contributed a little to the gayety of the place, sold their home and will not return to Burlingame this season. The Mountford Wilson and the Russell Wilson families are in mourning and have deserted their old summer haunts, and so have the Downey Harveys, the Joe Grants, the Francis Carolans and the Sam Knights. The Carolans, by the way, are making a tour of Portugal, and Mrs. Carolan is keeping a diary which she will probably publish for private circulation in an edition de luxe. She has a contempt for books that are not expensive samples of the printers and bookbinders' arts. She is traveling in Portugal because it is one of the few countries which the Cook's tourist never visits. It would pain Mrs. Carolan very much to rub up against the impossible tourist.—Town Talk.

HE WANTED FURTHER PARTICULARS

Secretary Taft is a heavyweight, physically as well as mentally. He is not very much lighter than General Shafter, his normal bulk weighing three hundred and twenty pounds. When Taft was in the Philippines his health was greatly undermined, and at the request of Secretary Root he kept the War Department informed as to his condition. One day this message was received by Root: "Rode ten miles on a mule today. Am feeling much better."

Secretary Root dictated this reply: "Glad to hear it, but how is the mule?" ROOT.

NO SPLURGING FOR THEM

Nobody was surprised at the news that only about one hundred invitations were to be issued for the Huntington-Green wedding. The Huntingtons have never gone in for ostentatious display, and Howard Huntington has a horror of events of the swaggy variety. The wedding is to take place at the modest home of the Greens in Berkeley. The bridesmaids are Marian and Elizabeth Huntington, Beth Lawrence and Ruth Knowles. Hugh Stewart of Los Angeles is to be best man. Mrs. Huntington and her daughters are spending the summer at Ross, where they entertained a few intimate friends over the Fourth.—Town Talk.

WITH THE ARTISTS

Mrs. Ada Romer Shawhan is working very busily on her big canvas on which appear the heads of certain artists, writers and musicians, pictured in their most characteristic moods. Amadee Joulain, Theodore Vogt, Charlie Dickman, William Keith, Henry Raschen and Joe Greenbaum are some that already appear on the canvas. Mrs. Shawhan is one of the hardest working artists in the art guild here. She has a very comfortable and artistic studio on the top floor of the building at the southeast corner of Sixth and Market streets, which is also her home. She has a little roof-garden that contains flowers and palms. Her work-room is large, with a fine light, and the walls are hung with products of her brush and pastels. She has done portraits of nearly all the visiting celebrities and that of Kocian is the best I have ever seen of the wonderful young violinist. It was Mrs. Shawhan, by the way, who did the clever caricature of Hag Patigan's collar, which the Press Club liked so well that the members bought it.—Town Talk.

THEY NEGLECT ALICE

Seeing Alice Hager at the golf

contest in San Rafael last week, I wondered why the bavareses show her so little attention. She is not less interesting than her sister Ethyl, and yet the latter is always being exploited by the amusing gossips of the dailies. She need only take the ferry to Oakland to win a nice little complimentary notice in the stereotyped form from Lady Teazle. Miss Alice may not be such a dashing young woman as Ethyl of the picturesque bathing suit, but she plays a rattling game of golf, and is one of the few society women, I am told, who don't say mean things when they aren't winning.—Town Talk.

SUCCESSFUL MR. POLK

Willis Polk, who officiated as best man for Francis McComas, has achieved a solid footing on the higher social levels since his marriage. He has a home in San Mateo near that of the Jack Parrots, and the two families are on very friendly terms. Mrs. Polk has become quite a matronly figure and is now more of the Spanish type than ever. She cares very little for society, but prefers the dolce far niente life of the country to the mild excitement of the city. It seems but a few years since Willis Polk started his very successful career in this city with no money but with a great deal of assurance and some plausible theories pertaining to architecture. He was a man of artistic temperament, bohemian tastes, and little practical experience in his profession. He soon broke in to print for the purpose of instructing the architects of San Francisco in their business, and they scoffed at him and said that though he could draw a very pretty house he couldn't build one. I've heard that he has since done both, but since his marriage he has not felt the necessity of vindicating his capacity for professional achievement.—Town Talk.

SULLIVAN'S GREATEST ACT

The re-appearance of John L. Sullivan in San Francisco brings to mind his greatest histrionic feat in Australia, where on one occasion he literally brought down the house.

Jimmy MacMahon, then a leading theatrical manager, thought it would be a paying idea to import Sullivan, for prize-fighting had always been a popular pastime in the colonies. He argued, with some show of reason, that large audiences would willingly part with their coin for the sake of seeing Sullivan on the stage, and that the play would be merely a subsidiary matter. As he had not much faith in the fighter's ability to remember his lines, he had a small part especially written. All John L. had to do was to walk on the stage resplendently attired in evening dress, his diamond reflecting the lime light—Sullivan positively refused to go on without the precious gem—recreate a few lines; and then, donning a leathern apron, pose as a village blacksmith. There was an anvil handy, on which the pugilist might strike resounding blows with a mighty sledge hammer, the while the audience gazed in admiration at his powerful biceps.

The scheme would have worked all right, and MacMahon would have gathered in countless shekels, had it not been for the proverbial hospitality of the Australians. They took Sullivan so warmly to their bosoms, and introduced him to so many beautiful barmaids that when the night of the opening performance came round the hero of the forge was nowhere to be found. Hansom cabs scoured the city in vain and in despair the management, after resorting to every delaying device known to stage craft, ordered the curtain rung up. The gallery was in an uproar because of the lengthened wait, and it looked as if the whole performance would be wrecked, when, at the usual moment, the great pugilist appeared. He staggered to the center of the stage, his crush hat tilted to one side, his white tie awry, swinging his mighty sledge hammer, as if he meant to brain some one. The gallery roared as the fighter swayed unsteadily to the center of the stage. In vain the prompter prompted and the stage manager swore in the wings. Sullivan had clean forgotten his part. At last he dropped his hammer, and, shaking his massive fist at the shouting gallery boys, exclaimed in a voice which made itself heard even above the tumult, "I'll put a head on some of you ducks!" If Sullivan had learned nothing else, he had learned Colonial slang pretty quickly, for "ducks," an almost obsolete term, dates back to the old convict days, when criminals transported to Botany Bay were known as "Sydney ducks." But Sullivan's knowledge of local slang did not aid him much; the episode closed the performance, and it also ruined John L.'s career in the colonies, for after this insulting reference to the convict origin, which every good Australian desires to forget, theatre goers would have nothing to do with the show, and the venture ruined MacMahon.—News Letter.

GAVE BACK MONEY

The Board of Education has received $195 from an anonymous donor. It was marked "restitution." That means, of course, that some one who held out that amount when he needed it, now needs it no longer, and therefore may listen with the appreciation of rectitude to the pleadings of his conscience. Queer thing, isn't it, that as soon as a crook gets rich, his conscience always leads him to return small amounts? If he is a wholesale grafter, he can square himself with his conscience by building churches or endowing colleges, or sending missionaries into Africa, or reading the Scripture to a Sunday School class. Thus he not only assures himself that he is an honest man, but he really makes other people believe it. And, my boy, as long as other people believe it, why, what more can be asked by any latter day philosopher.—News Letter.

PUNISH KIDNAPERS

For one, I hope that Attorney Cannon will prosecute unrelentingly those High School students who kidnapped his step-son and ran him across town. Of course the parents of the boys say the lads meant nothing wrong. The same statement has been made frequently by the parents of university boys who have made the night joyous by stealing signs and breaking windows, and have enjoyed the day by smashing the windows of railroad coaches, as has been done at Berkeley on many occasions. The boys at whom the Cannon is aimed are embryo university boys. They commenced their law-breaking about a year earlier than usual. They should be punished severely now, else they will develop into "respectable" hoodlums. The law breaking of a well dressed lad is considered simply an act of mischief without malice. The same act done by a lad in ragged trousers is considered pure malice undiluted. The law should bear equally on both.—News Letter.

FOURTH OF JULY

Our barbarous, uncivilized celebration of the Fourth has again claimed its victims. The maimed, the halt and the blind follow in procession after King Firecracker. The dead are laid away, and we are once more ready for our next celebration of Independence Day. If the fool-killer was ever on earth, he certainly left enough of his disciples in the United States to last for a decade to come. The manner in which our "best citizens," year after year, endeavor to outdo one another in the making of noise to the greater glory of the screaming eagle, passes all understanding. It is the most foolish and most reprehensible method of honoring a nation's glory that was ever devised by crack-brained enthusiasts. We smile condescendingly at the Chinese who explode yards of crackers to drive away their devils at the commencement of their new year. We commiserate the condition of ignorance of the heathen who seek to propitiate their gods by burning ill-smelling punk before their horrid images, but at the same time we rather envy their possession of bombs that explode like a ten pounder, and of immense crackers that go off like a roar of artillery. It is easy, you know to see the mote in our neighbor's eye. I hope that in the time to come some sane man with backbone enough to withstand the opposition of the little-minded, will arise in our halls of legislation and bring about the passage of a law which will make the selling of fire-crackers, bombs, and all their like on and about the Fourth, a misdemeanor, punishable by fine and imprisonment, and their explosion promiscuously in all our streets a high crime and misdemeanor, for which hanging, drawing and quartering shall be the only punishment.—News Letter.

THE RAGE FOR TOUGH PARTIES

The immense success of the "tough party" in one of the great stone mansions of Persidio Heights has had its effect. Other hostesses ambitious to shine as designers of social entertainments on unique lines, are maturing their plans. Before long the society reporters will no doubt, have the pleasure of recording some highly original efforts to keep the social whirl at fever heat. It will be no easy task to eclipse that famous evening in the wool merchant's granite mansion when the climax was capped by the arrival of the police patrol wagon and the bundling of the guests into the ill-omened vehicle. That was a finale hard to beat, and not everyone has sufficient pull with Abe to cause the paraphernalia of the Police Department to be put at his disposal. One highly interesting effect of these tough parties is to erase color lines which have proved such a perplexing problem to the American people. In the last and most famous tough party the presence of some choice specimens of Darkest Africa added eclat to the occasion, especially in the cake-walk, where all race prejudice was eliminated and black and white tripped the light fantastic on an equal footing. As it is not possible to outdo that famous party except on entirely new lines, one of our enterprising hostesses is arranging to substitute a corner of Chinatown for the section of darkeytown that gave such "local color" to the Presidio Heights gathering. It would certainly be unique to see one of our fashionable white belles in all the bravery of her imported costume whirling through a mazy waltz in the embrace of the Chinese cook, or, better still, atrocious high-binder with a hatchet in his sleeve and a navy revolver in his hip-pocket. That would be an artistic touch that would make a tough party a veritable triumph, even if the police patrol wagon did not rumble up at the psychological moment and go through the mock ceremony of transferring all the guests, yellow and white, to the municipal bastille.—Wasp.

AN INTERESTING WEDDING

Announcement of Earl Talbot's engagement to Miss Helen Scoville of New York has caused no end of flutter. "Earle Talbot is one of the handsomest and most eligible young men in society, and comes of a most exclusive family. His mother was Miss Amy Bowen, daughter of Charles R. Bowen, a wealthy merchant. She was and still is a woman of unusual and striking beauty, and her marriage to Mr. Talbot was a brilliant affair, and one of which much happiness was expected. Such proved not to be the case, however, and after a number of years of married life Mrs. Talbot went abroad to live. It was then that society discovered the rift within the lute and learned with surprise that it was the husband's infatuation for Miss Julia Bowen, his wife's younger sister, who lived with them, that caused Mrs. Talbot to go abroad. She finally asked for and was granted a divorce, and Mr. Talbot married Julia. They now reside at their beautiful country place near the fashionable Woodside colony at Redwood City. Earle Talbot is the eldest son; and is a very handsome young man in his early twenties. Miss Scoville is an extremely handsome young woman. She comes of a fine New York family, although not a wealthy one, and her mother now conducts an ultra-fashionable school for girls in New York City. Earle Talbot's family are cousins to W. H. Talbot, whose wife is now suing him for a divorce. The two families are not intimate, however, as none of W. Talbot's relatives ever received his wife.—Wasp.

THE CASSERLYS

Mrs. Theresa Casserly occupies a position at the head of San Francisco dowagers, and the family's hold on society is very strong. They are closely allied with the Burlingame-San Mateo clan of society. They are very exclusive! The only daughter of the family is unmarried. Miss Daisy Casserly is a woman of great refinement and much personal charm. She is a musician and a patron of music. Jack Casserly has two strong claims to distinction. First of all he is the husband of a great heiress, his wife being Miss Cudahy of Chicago, daughter of the famous Michael of that ilk. She is a quiet, mouse-like woman, but very attractive. Always simply gowned and most unassuming, she would be the last person in the world suspected of great wealth. Her manners are charming, and in contradistinction to many of our ultra-rich, whose snobbishness is so offensive. Mrs. Casserly is a harpist of great ability. Jack Casserly, her husband, is famous as the author of a celebrated bon-mot. It was at a San Francisco club dinner—the University or Pacific-Union Club—that Mr. Casserly was called to respond to a toast to Will Crocker. It was at the time that Mr. Crocker's sister-in-law, Miss Beth Sperry, of Stockton, had just become the bride of Prince Polzanski, and Mr. Casserly, raising his glass to Mr. Crocker, proposed the health of "This prince of Bankers and the banker of princes." That toast has passed into club history.—Wasp.

THE TULLYS

Mrs. Richard Walton Tully, (May Eleanor Gates) is expected in Berkeley next month for a stay of six weeks or two months. Since she has lived in New York Mrs. Tully has returned to California whenever she could get away, for she is thoroughly in love with her adopted State. A funny little story is told of her first impressions of New York. Margaret Cameron Smith, now Mrs. Lewis, was in the East on a brief business trip, and before returning to Oakland she had paid a visit to Mrs. Tully, whom she knew well here in the West. She found the little authoress propped up in bed, and was told that she had been suffering from a cold. When Mrs. Lewis arose to say good-bye Mrs. Tully gave a sob; "You are going back to God's country," said she, "and I have to stay here in this hole." Since then the author of "The Biography of a Prairie Girl" has grown to like New York better than she did, and now that she is so pleasantly situated near Central

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST

The story of Beauty and the Beast has had an exemplification in California real life, although the denouement was very different from that of the romantic fairy tale of our childhood where the ogre grew, through the power of love, to a grand prince and lived happily with the princess ever after. But perhaps, the poor Mongolian beast did not have an equal opportunity to develop along princely lines, for the fair one disdained him, and her father, in sensible, business-like, twentieth-century way, sent for the police at San Mateo. The story began nineteen years ago when Miss Mary Christina de Guigne toddled around the gardens of her father's handsome place in San Mateo, where Ah John, or, as he prefers to be called, Jung Din, was gardener. The Oriental's adoration was all very well while the girl was of tender age, but as the devotions grew during a period of nineteen years, it increased in ardor to quite an embarrassing degree to the society debutante. When remonstrated with the Americanized Chinese, who believed that "one man is as good as another, if not better," made known his desire to become the son-in-law of Mr. Christian de Guigne. There was no mistake about the infatuated Chinaman's attachment, so much in earnest was he that the family considered it advisable to leave for Europe in order to escape a ridiculous situation. But the Chinese followed the de Guignes to New York. Fortunately his did not overtake them and returned to San Francisco, but on their return Jung Din returned to his suit with even greater ardor than ever, and was the first to bid the de Guignes welcome upon their home-coming. Offers of money, threats, cajolery, all proved vain. A short time ago Mr. de Guigne and his daughter came by train from San Mateo to San Francisco, when the Oriental took the same car and renewed his obnoxious offers of marriage. That proved the last straw. Mr. de Guigne had Jung Din arrested, and Justice of the Peace Booth, of Redwood City, before whom the case came up, sentenced the Mongolian to jail for fifteen days on a charge of disturbing the peace. Now what is there at the back of this story? Why should the Chinaman have been so persistent unless he was crazy? It seems to be a dangerous experiment to Christianize a Chinaman, and teach him that all men are alike. If Jung Din had become a good Christian, he must have had a great shock when his hand was so rudely refused on it becoming a quiescent of mingling Caucasian with Mongolian blood. If Jung Din ever goes back to China he is sure to become an irreconcilable Boxer!—Wasp.
